Convicts Riot, Set Blazes In Minn. Prison

Go On Rampage After Grievance Talks Suspended

STILLWATER, Minn. (AP) — Screaming convicts smashed windows and lit small fires in their cell blocks today as violence flared after five days of unrest within the gray stone walls of sprawling Stillwater prison.

All of the 1,000 convicts had been locked in their cells before the violence broke out.

It flared when inmates were told there would be no further negotiations on a series of "grievances" they had filed. It followed disturbances that started Tuesday noon when the prisoners staged a sitdown after complaining about liver patties served for lunch.

Shutdown on the negotiations was announced this morning, along with naming of a new warden for the prison. He is Edwin T. Swenson, presently warden of the Maryland state prison.

An outgrowth of the liver pattie squabble was removal of chef Louis Gilles, after state officials listened to demands from a delegated group of 65 convicts.

As Swenson arrived at 10:30 a. m., to take over, convicts were yelling in their cells. Some shouted profanity. One yelled: "Is this what you call rehabilitation?"

Utensils from breakfast, served convicts in their cells, were hurled into the prison yard and corridors. Small wads of paper and rags were lighted by some convicts and tossed into the corridors.

Prison guards said they heard by the "grapevine" that one long-term convict was armed with a pistol.

Prison and state officials apparently won a strategy struggle with the convict leaders in getting the men locked up. Jarle Leirfallom, director of state institutions, said damage to the cell blocks would probably be minor compared with the "millions of dollars" in damage that might have been caused if the convicts had been able to seize the prison shops.

The prison, located 20 miles northeast of the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, was built 41 years ago.

Murder Victim's Body Returned To New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 11 (AP)—The body of a New Orleans real estate executive was returned from Mississippi today after a Negro soldier confessed murdering the man and led police to his bullet-punctured body.

Pfc. Mack C. Lewis of Buffalo, N. Y., told police he killed Kenneth L. Mason April 2 after Mason gave him a ride in his car.

Mason's body was found face down last night in a wooded area off a side road near Pearlington, Miss., close to the Louisiana - Mississippi border.

The Orleans Parish coroner's office planned an autopsy on Mason's body tonight.

The Negro soldier was charged with murder in Bay St. Louis, Miss., according to New Orleans Chief of Detectives Harry Daniels. Lewis is in jail there, Daniels said.

Mexico Boosts Border Troops

MEXICO CITY, April 11 —UP— Five thousand Mexican troops were ordered to the border Saturday to halt drug and gun-running and to prevent "wetbacks" from crossing illegally into the United States.

The Army announced it will patrol nearly 1,500 miles of border from Mexicali to Matamoros in a crackdown on multi-million dollar smuggling operations.

All private planes landing at airports within range of the frontier will be inspected by military squads.

Officers said the border patrols were ordered strengthened after the seizure of nearly a million dollars worth of contraband drugs and prohibited imports, including arms, in the first three months of this year.

Ike To Confer With Governors

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — President Eisenhower today summoned the 48 governors to an extraordinary briefing session at the White House, in a bid for national unity as the cold war enters a new phase.

He said the meeting, to be held May 4 and 5, will give the chief executives of the states a confidential, first-hand picture "of the present state of the world and the role of the United States in it."

Up for discussion will be "current developments in the field of international relations, the American defense effort, the problems of national security, and an analysis of our fiscal problems as related thereto."

The meeting, believed to be the first of its kind, comes at a moment in history when the new regime in Russia is embarked on a "peace offensive." It comes also at a time when the new U. S. administration is struggling with the task of resolving conflicting pressures generated by the free world's defese needs, and the attempts to balance the American budget.

While administration plans have not jelled with finality, there are indications that a limited slowdown in Western defense preparations may be in the making.

Indications are that high officials have decided the Western world should build its defenses for the long pull—say 20 or 30 years—instead of three or four years.

The governors' aid in explaining and supporting such alterations of policy could stand the administration in good stead.

For example there has been talk that, in recasting defense policies, military leaders might consider closing out some of the training divisions of the Army. Any move to close down, or curtail, military facilities always arouses some apprehension in the communities where they are located, because of the possible impact on local trade and business.

Plan Elevated Parking Unit On N. Third

George F. Lastrapes, of Shreveport, has announced plans to erect a four-level modern parking building, estimated to cost $140,000, on a lot adjacent to the Delta Theatre on North Third Street.

Officials of the Chamber of Commerce stated that a 25 year lease had been signed by the Sandel and Lastrapes Corporation with Monroe Furniture Company for the desired property. An additional ten year renewal option was included in the lease.

Detailed plans for the parking building show that it will house three commercial establishments on the ground floor. The building proposed for the operation is of reinforced flat-slab concrete construction.

In February of this year, John Sherrouse, Jr. petitioned the city council to permit the erection of upstairs parking facilities in a building at Jackson and Grammont. The proposal, to construct the building so that a portion of it would extend over the sidewalk, was contrary to the city building code. The city council has rendered no decision on the proposal.

The latest proposed parking building will employ approximately five attendants and will include waiting rooms, rest rooms and other facilities.

A recent parking survey by the Chamber of Commerce showed a gross lack of available convenient car storage facilities, even though there are some 850 metered curb spaces on the city's downtown thoroughfares.

David C. Silverstein, chairman of the retail merchant's division, appointed a special investigation group to inquire into the proposed plans. The committee is composed of Floyd Ferrel chairman, Lee Vanderpool, Milton Gorn, Richard Hale and Jake McDonald.

Brilliant Nevada Atomic Blast Is Seen 660 Miles

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 11—UP —An earth-jarring blast, accompanied by a brilliant flash visible 600 miles distant, rocked the Yucca Flat A-bomb proving grounds shortly before dawn Saturday as scientists detonated the second atomic device there within a week.

The highly-secret experimental nuclear explosion was set off from atop a 100-foot tower in a test which evenually may result in the construction of half a dozen nuclear weapons.

Ideal atmospheric conditions made the flash appear as one of the brightest of the five shots held so far in the spring series on the Atomic Energy Commission's southern Nevada test site, but the size and duration of the fireball indicated it was less violent than earlier tests in the series.

The explosion lighted the surrounding desert with a blinding flash easily seen from Las Vegas, 65 miles away, and visible as far away as Durango, Colo., 600 miles distant. It also was seen in Los Angeles, Northern Nevada, southern Idaho and northern Mexico.

U. S. Army Will 'Reorient' Returning GI Prisoners

WASHINGTON, April 11—UP—The Army has readied a program to "reorient" returning Korean prisoners of war politically and psychologically to the American way of life.

The problem of how American prisoners will react to freedom after many months of imprisonment and communist propaganda is a matter of grave concern to Army officials.

At the same time, they emphasize the question should not be exaggerated to the point where American families may get the mistaken impression their sons are returning either neurotic or Communistic.

In the vast majority of cases, the Army does not believe this will be the reaction. But the Army feels it must be prepared for this eventuality among certain individuals.

The Army feels its task is the psychological and perhaps ideological readjustment of the returned prisoners.

Therefore it proposes to answer this problem with the voluntary "reorientation" program and the "red carpet treatment" of returning the prisoner of war as rapidly as possible to the luxury and comfort of home life.

Pshychologically, the Army believes the prisoner of war will face a mental readjustment problem in some ways similar to that of a long-imprisoned convict released to civilian life. As one Army spokesman put it: "A person can't be.. held for such a length of time and not have his mental outlook affected."

New Blasts Are Set Off; Garage Auto Destroyed

ELIZABETH, La., April 11 (AP)—A papermill employe's garage and automobile were blasted by dynamite today and a parish constable was fired upon as violence again rocked this tiny strike troubled community.

State police reported that no one was injured as explosions ripped a garage belonging to Aubrey McGee, a papermill employe, and destroyed his automobile.

A car driven by Rapides Parish constable Chester West, also employed by the strike-bound Calcasieu Paper Co., was fired upon Friday night a few miles north of Elizabeth, state police reported.

One side of the McGee home was shattered by the explosions which destroyed the garage only a few feet from the house. McGee, his wife and their daughter were asleep at the time, state police said. The heavy blast shook residences a quarter of a mile away, police added.

Gas and electric service in the tiny town, ripped by an explosion yesterday, were restored today.

The town has been the scene of outbreaks of violence since workers at the Calcasieu plant and Southern Industries, Inc., walked off the job Sept. 8 in a dispute over a work contract.

Dynamitings and shotgun blasts have ripped the town. Monday night a two-week old baby suffered shock when the truck in which she was riding was jarred by a dynamite blast.

Negotiations between the company and the unions, the International Brotherhood of Papermakers and the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Papermill Workers, both AFL, collapsed last month.

The unions said they could not agree with the position of the company that striking workers would be rehired only as needed and on the company's own terms. The unions said wages were not an issue, only terms of the work contract.

Says Pressure Put On Ike In Tidelands Fight

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — Sen. Ellender (D-La) said tonight he believes tremendous "pressures" are at work to have President Eisenhower veto any submerged lands legislation which deviates the slightest from his campaign position.

During the campaign last year the President said he would sign legislation giving coastal states title to offshore lands within their historic boundaries — generally three miles seaward.

"There has been ample indication," Ellender said, "that the new administration has not been able to get together on a consolidated plan of action. In other words, the signals have been crossed somewhere."

Ellender added, in an address for delivery over radio station WWL, New Orleans, that it is "most unusual for the President to announce his intention of supporting a so - called 'historical boundaries' quit-claim, while at the same time his attorney general and department of state are pursuing precisely the opposite course."

Ellender, who supports state ownership of the offshore lands, said he believes the wisest thing Congress can do is to send the President a bill similar to that under consideration by the Senate.

This bill would give the states title to the offshore lands within their historic boundaries and does not deal in any way with the oil-bearing lands of the continental shelf beyond the three-mile limit.

"This is a bill he, the President, can certainly sign and which is in full accord with his campaign pledge," Ellender said. "If, at some later time, an auspicious occasion for the granting of additional rights to the states should arise, then Congress is certainly empowered to act on the continental shelf area."

Ellender said that if the Senate bill passes Louisiana would immediately gain clear title to all submerged lands within the three-mile belt and would be free to present its claim to ownership beyond that point.

"It is my hope that our state can obtain . . . clear title to all lands at least 10 miles seaward from our shoreline," Ellender said, adding that when Louisiana entered the Union it's boundaries, as set by Congress, embraced all islands within three leagues, or 10 ½ miles, off the coast.

Stassen Called On To Seek Further Red Trading Bans

Shakeup Inside Pentagon Seen

WASHINGTON, April 11 —UP— Sen. Harry F. Byrd predicted Saturday that the Senate ammunition investigation will lead to a "wholesale reorganization" in the Pentagon.

The Virginia Democrat, prime mover in the inquiry, said he believes the Armed Services subcommittee under Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) already has developed a good record on the shortages first reported by Gen. James A. Van Fleet.

"I believe the record shows clearly that there were shortages in Korea," he said. "I think it shows that, to meet Korean requirements, we have drained U.S. stocks dangerously.

"I think the ammunition investigation will be a big factor in effecting a wholesale reorganization in the pentagon—especially in the business and administrative functions of the army department."

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert C. Hendrickson (R-N.J.), a subcommittee member, said he would like to hear some testimony from Korean combat troops.

"We have heard a great deal from the top military minds, pro and con, on the reported shortages," he said, "but there is an old army saying that if you want to find out what really goes on, ask the men in the front lines. We have not heard enough from these soldiers."

Hendrickson said he also wanted the subcommittee to determine whether American lives were lost because shortages sometimes forced American troops to fire on one another inadvertently through "haphazard" salvoes. He said he had received one such report from Sgt. Keith E. Kentopp of East Orange, N.J., who was willing to testify.

Mrs. Smith listed Army "red tape" and lack of a "driving force" as factors in the ammunition shortage.

Byrd singled out the pentagon's administrative operations, especially those in the Army Department, as likely spots for a shakeup. He said he thinks President Eisenhower's new team of civilian defense leaders is anxious to operate in a more business-like way.

The staff officers met today to select the starting date for the change.

New Branch P. O. To Be Erected On North Fourth

A contract has been let for a branch station of the Monroe post office. William S. Adcock is the successful bidder. He will erect a suitable building at 711 North Fourth Street, between Louisville and Arkansas Avenues. The proposal is for a one - story structure of brick and cement blocks, about 53 feet long and 37 feet wide, with a floor space of around 2000 square feet. There will be a parking area, approximately 40 by 50 feet, at the rear of the building.

It is expected that the new station will be ready for occupancy around the first of August. Practically all the facilities of the main post office will be provided, including window service to cover the patrons' various needs. Two rural routes and eight city carrier routes will operate from the station. A superintendent and two regular clerks will form the basic office personnel.

The initial steps toward establishing this station were taken in February of 1952, at which time it was recommended by Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn. The post office department conducted an investigation, deciding that the need was legitimate. Following this, bids were invited for the purpose of obtaining an appropriate site and building. A number of proposals were submitted, and the information has just been released showing Mr. Adcock to have made the acceptable offer.

Stassen Schedules Talk With M'Carthy On Shipping Furor

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)— Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) called on Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen today to ask Greek shipowners in London to break off all trade with Red China and between other Communist ports.

In effect, McCarthy blamed statements by Stassen for the failure of the London group to make such an agreement and asked him to state that it would have this government's whole-hearted approval.

Stassen, in a reply addressed to "Dear Joe," said he would be pleased to meet with McCarthy Monday "to see how we can best work together to accomplish the desired result-further stopping of strategic materials from reaching the Soviet bloc and Communist China."

He said the executive branch of government recently has made "further progress in this problem."

McCarthy's request, made in a letter to Stassen, was a pointed sequel to the controversy that swelled up in the wake of the senator's original announcement on March 28 that the investigations subcommittee he heads had negotiated an agreement with Greek owners in New York of 242 ships to refrain from all trade with Red China and North Korea.

The senator also said the shipowners had agreed to refuse to carry any cargoes from one Communist port to another in any part of the world, although the agreement would not prevent them from hauling goods from free world nations to the Soviet bloc, or vice versa.

Two days later Stassen went before the McCarthy committee at a public hearing and said the senator had undermined the efforts of the State Department and other executive agencies to curb trade between the West and Iron Curtain countries.

Subsequently, however, President Eisenhower said he did not believe McCarthy was undermining government policy by obtaining the shipping agreement, although he emphasized that the right to negotiate foreign agreements rested completely with him.

Eisenhower said he felt that Stassen meant to use the word "infringe," rather than "undermine," in criticizing the agreement. Stassen later told newsmen he fully agreed with the President and said he was "happy" about the outcome of the controversy.

In his letter to Stassen today, McCarthy said that when he announced the Greek shipowners in New York had agreed to refrain from trade with Red China and other Communist areas, "all indications" were that Greek shipowners in London, operating 100 to 150 ships, would agree to do likewise.

"However," McCarthy added, "as a result of very conflicting news stories, some of which indicated that you were unhappy with the agreement made by the New York shipowners, the shipowners operating out of London have failed to follow the very patriotic example set by the New York shipowners.

"The result is that some of those ships are, as you know, presently engaged in trade with Red China."

Lack Of Russian Atom Blasts Puzzling Officials

WASHINGTON, April 11—UP—Officials here just don't know what to make of the fact that it has been 18 months since the Russians last exploded an atomic weapon.

But, as one of them said Saturday, "nobody believes it is because they don't have them to explode. They have them all right—too many of them."

Nor do high officials believe the Russians could have been setting off test atomic blasts without the free world knowing it. Scientific detection methods are believed to be foolproof.

The last Soviet atomic explosions were the two set off in October, 1951. The late Josef Stalin said at that time that the Russians were testing several different sizes of A-bomb. The first Russian test was in September, 1949.

Some sources attribute the 18-month lapse to lack of atomic progress in the Soviet Union. They point out that frequency and variety of tests have been accepted as a rule-of-thumb tipoff to atomic developments in this country.

Counting those exploded in World War II, this country to date has fired 39 atomic "shots," five of them this spring—the latest one Saturday.

Persons who would like to believe the Russians aren't getting along so well suggest that perhaps they jumped into A-bomb production too hastily, without toiling through the long and arduous research necessary to determine the most efficient kind of plant and methods.

They point out that this country's big atomic plant at Hanford, Wash., was thrown together in a hurry during the war and practically fell apart, figuratively speaking, after the war. The AEC had to spend many millons to get Hanford back into high production.

This school of thought finds little comfort in official statements. The government has asserted repeatedly, on the basis of intelligence reports, that Russia has a big enough stockpile right now to hit every major U. S. industrial and metropolitan section with one or more A-bombs.

That lends weight to a theory held by many officials—that Russia, in order to get her stockpile built up as quickly as possible, froze designs after the first three tests and concentrated efforts on production rather than development.

Ike To Confer With Governors

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — President Eisenhower today summoned the 48 governors to an extraordinary briefing session at the White House, in a bid for national unity as the cold war enters a new phase.

He said the meeting, to be held May 4 and 5, will give the chief executives of the states a confidential, first-hand picture "of the present state of the world and the role of the United States in it."

Up for discussion will be "current developments in the field of international relations, the American defense effort, the problems of national security, and an analysis of our fiscal problems as related thereto."

The meeting, believed to be the first of its kind, comes at a moment in history when the new regime in Russia is embarked on a "peace offensive." It comes also at a time when the new U. S. administration is struggling with the task of resolving conflicting pressures generated by the free world's defese needs, and the attempts to balance the American budget.

While administration plans have not jelled with finality, there are indications that a limited slowdown in Western defense preparations may be in the making.

Indications are that high officials have decided the Western world should build its defenses for the long pull—say 20 or 30 years—instead of three or four years.

The governors' aid in explaining and supporting such alterations of policy could stand the administration in good stead.

For example there has been talk that, in recasting defense policies, military leaders might consider closing out some of the training divisions of the Army. Any move to close down, or curtail, military facilities always arouses some apprehension in the communities where they are located, because of the possible impact on local trade and business.

Plan Elevated Parking Unit On N. Third

George F. Lastrapes, of Shreveport, has announced plans to erect a four-level modern parking building, estimated to cost $140,000, on a lot adjacent to the Delta Theatre on North Third Street.

Officials of the Chamber of Commerce stated that a 25 year lease had been signed by the Sandel and Lastrapes Corporation with Monroe Furniture Company for the desired property. An additional ten year renewal option was included in the lease.

Detailed plans for the parking building show that it will house three commercial establishments on the ground floor. The building proposed for the operation is of reinforced flat-slab concrete construction.

In February of this year, John Sherrouse, Jr. petitioned the city council to permit the erection of upstairs parking facilities in a building at Jackson and Grammont. The proposal, to construct the building so that a portion of it would extend over the sidewalk, was contrary to the city building code. The city council has rendered no decision on the proposal.

The latest proposed parking building will employ approximately five attendants and will include waiting rooms, rest rooms and other facilities.

A recent parking survey by the Chamber of Commerce showed a gross lack of available convenient car storage facilities, even though there are some 850 metered curb spaces on the city's downtown thoroughfares.

David C. Silverstein, chairman of the retail merchant's division, appointed a special investigation group to inquire into the proposed plans. The committee is composed of Floyd Ferrel chairman, Lee Vanderpool, Milton Gorn, Richard Hale and Jake McDonald.

Says Pressure Put On Ike In Tidelands Fight

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — Sen. Ellender (D-La) said tonight he believes tremendous "pressures" are at work to have President Eisenhower veto any submerged lands legislation which deviates the slightest from his campaign position.

During the campaign last year the President said he would sign legislation giving coastal states title to offshore lands within their historic boundaries — generally three miles seaward.

"There has been ample indication," Ellender said, "that the new administration has not been able to get together on a consolidated plan of action. In other words, the signals have been crossed somewhere."

Ellender added, in an address for delivery over radio station WWL, New Orleans, that it is "most unusual for the President to announce his intention of supporting a so - called 'historical boundaries' quit-claim, while at the same time his attorney general and department of state are pursuing precisely the opposite course."

Ellender, who supports state ownership of the offshore lands, said he believes the wisest thing Congress can do is to send the President a bill similar to that under consideration by the Senate.

This bill would give the states title to the offshore lands within their historic boundaries and does not deal in any way with the oil-bearing lands of the continental shelf beyond the three-mile limit.

"This is a bill he, the President, can certainly sign and which is in full accord with his campaign pledge," Ellender said. "If, at some later time, an auspicious occasion for the granting of additional rights to the states should arise, then Congress is certainly empowered to act on the continental shelf area."

Ellender said that if the Senate bill passes Louisiana would immediately gain clear title to all submerged lands within the three-mile belt and would be free to present its claim to ownership beyond that point.

"It is my hope that our state can obtain . . . clear title to all lands at least 10 miles seaward from our shoreline," Ellender said, adding that when Louisiana entered the Union it's boundaries, as set by Congress, embraced all islands within three leagues, or 10 ½ miles, off the coast.

New Branch P. O. To Be Erected On North Fourth

A contract has been let for a branch station of the Monroe post office. William S. Adcock is the successful bidder. He will erect a suitable building at 711 North Fourth Street, between Louisville and Arkansas Avenues. The proposal is for a one - story structure of brick and cement blocks, about 53 feet long and 37 feet wide, with a floor space of around 2000 square feet. There will be a parking area, approximately 40 by 50 feet, at the rear of the building.

It is expected that the new station will be ready for occupancy around the first of August. Practically all the facilities of the main post office will be provided, including window service to cover the patrons' various needs. Two rural routes and eight city carrier routes will operate from the station. A superintendent and two regular clerks will form the basic office personnel.

The initial steps toward establishing this station were taken in February of 1952, at which time it was recommended by Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn. The post office department conducted an investigation, deciding that the need was legitimate. Following this, bids were invited for the purpose of obtaining an appropriate site and building. A number of proposals were submitted, and the information has just been released showing Mr. Adcock to have made the acceptable offer.

Brilliant Nevada Atomic Blast Is Seen 660 Miles

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 11—UP —An earth-jarring blast, accompanied by a brilliant flash visible 600 miles distant, rocked the Yucca Flat A-bomb proving grounds shortly before dawn Saturday as scientists detonated the second atomic device there within a week.

The highly-secret experimental nuclear explosion was set off from atop a 100-foot tower in a test which evenually may result in the consruction of half a dozen nuclear weapons.

Ideal atmospheric conditions made the flash appear as one of the brightest of the five shots held so far in the spring series on the Atomic Energy Commission's southern Nevada test site, but the size and duration of the fireball indicated it was less violent than earlier tests in the series.

The explosion lighted the surrounding desert with a blinding flash easily seen from Las Vegas, 65 miles away, and visible as far away as Durango, Colo., 600 miles distant. It also was seen in Los Angeles, Northern Nevada, southern Idaho and northern Mexico.

U. S. Army Will 'Reorient' Returning GI Prisoners

WASHINGTON, April 11—UP— The Army has readied a program to "reorient" returning Korean prisoners of war politically and psychologically to the American way of life.

The problem of how American prisoners will react to freedom after many months of imprisonment and communist propaganda is a matter of grave concern to Army officials.

At the same time, they emphasize the question should not be exaggerated to the point where American families may get the mistaken impression their sons are returning either neurotic or Communistic.

In the vast majority of cases, the Army does not believe this will be the reaction. But the Army feels it must be prepared for this eventuality among certain individuals.

The Army feels its task is the psychological and perhaps ideological readjustment of the returned prisoners.

Therefore it proposes to answer this problem with the voluntary "reorientation" program and the "red carpet treatment" of returning the prisoner of war as rapidly as possible to the luxury and comfort of home life.

Pshychologically, the Army believes the prisoner of war will face a mental readjustment problem in some ways similar to that of a long-imprisoned convict released to civilian life. As one Army spokesman put it: "A person can't be.. held for such a length of time and not have his mental outlook affected."

Lack Of Russian Atom Blasts Puzzling Officials

WASHINGTON, April 11—UP— Officials here just don't know what to make of the fact that it has been 18 months since the Russians last exploded an atomic weapon.

But, as one of them said Saturday, "nobody believes it is because they don't have them to explode. They have them all right—too many of them."

Nor do high officials believe the Russians could have been setting off test atomic blasts without the free world knowing it. Scientific detection methods are believed to be foolproof.

The last Soviet atomic explosions were the two set off in October, 1951. The late Josef Stalin said at that time that the Russians were testing several different sizes of A-bomb. The first Russian test was in September, 1949.

Some sources attribute the 18-month lapse to lack of atomic progress in the Soviet Union. They point out that frequency and variety of tests have been accepted as a rule-of-thumb tipoff to atomic developments in this country.

Counting those exploded in World War II, this country to date has fired 39 atomic "shots," five of them this spring—the latest one Saturday.

Persons who would like to believe the Russians aren't getting along so well suggest that perhaps they jumped into A-bomb production too hastily, without toiling through the long and arduous research necessary to determine the most efficient kind of plant and methods.

They point out that this country's big atomic plant at Hanford, Wash., was thrown together in a hurry during the war and practically fell apart, figuratively speaking, after the war. The AEC had to spend many millons to get Hanford back into high production.

This school of thought finds little comfort in official statements. The government has asserted repeatedly, on the basis of intelligence reports, that Russia has a big enough stockpile right now to hit every major U. S. industrial and metropolitan section with one or more A-bombs.

That lends weight to a theory held by many officials—that Russia, in order to get her stockpile built up as quickly as possible, froze designs after the first three tests and concentrated efforts on production rather than development.

Murder Victim's Body Returned To New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 11 (AP)— The body of a New Orleans real estate executive was returned from Mississippi today after a Negro soldier confessed murdering the man and led police to his bullet-punctured body.

Pfc. Mack C. Lewis of Buffalo, N. Y., told police he killed Kenneth L. Mason April 2 after Mason gave him a ride in his car.

Mason's body was found face down last night in a wooded area off a side road near Pearlington, Miss., close to the Louisiana - Mississippi border.

The Orleans Parish coroner's office planned an autopsy on Mason's body tonight.

The Negro soldier was charged with murder in Bay St. Louis, Miss., according to New Orleans Chief of Detectives Harry Daniels. Lewis is in jail there, Daniels said.

Mexico Boosts Border Troops

MEXICO CITY, April 11 —UP— Five thousand Mexican troops were ordered to the border Saturday to halt drug and gun-running and to prevent "wetbacks" from crossing illegally into the United States.

The Army announced it will patrol nearly 1,500 miles of border from Mexicali to Matamoros in a crackdown on multi-million dollar smuggling operations.

All private planes landing at airports within range of the frontier will be inspected by military squads.

Officers said the border patrols were ordered strengthened after the seizure of nearly a million dollars worth of contraband drugs and prohibited imports, including arms, in the first three months of this year.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

"Out of the Frying Pan," Little Theatre's closing comedy of the season was getting off to a slow start this week end because of the usual snag, casting problems.

A Friday night check with the director revealed that he had up to that time named only six members of the twelve who complete the cast. Those slated for roles in the hilarious production are Jean Milner Weil (she was Jean Milner when she appeared in last season's comedy "Kiss and Tell'); Barbara Sammons (newcomer to the stage); Merlyn Watkins (attractive high school daughter of Mrs. Hazel Watkins); Dr. Bill Epstein, who last appeared in "The Plays The Thing"; Maj. Charles Stratford and Tom Keller.

Casting is not the only question mark for "Out of the Frying Pan." There is speculation from every side whether we'll be seeing the gay and humorous dish of theatre on the familiar stage of the Little Playhouse. We don't know for sure and up to this wirting no one has made a positive statement about the anticipated eviction notice that looms on the horizon of the last few weeks of the '52-53 theatre season. "Out of The Frying Pan" settles down to its four - week rehearsal period next week and the odds are (we hope) that you will be seeing it on the stage of the Little Playhouse.

RANDOM NOTES. . .Little Theatre patron "Skipper" Perkins, who has given up the every day bustle of the business world, has been having a wonderful Texas holiday, Texas style. Annual Merchants' Barbecue Slated

The annual Retail Merchants Bar-B-Q outing has been scheduled for May 2, according to David C. Silverstein, chairman of the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants division.

Silverstein appointed Herbert Fink as chairman of the outing arrangements, and a sub-committee of five additional members will be designated early next week to coordinate the function.

Last year the Merchants Bar-B-Q was termed the "finest" ever staged, with over 325 members and guests attending the festivities at Fink's Hideaway.

Chairman Fink in accepting his appointment from Silverstein, stated, "We will immediately begin ordering prime steaks and will place them under special refrigeration, in order, to have them properly aged for that special flavor."

The executive committee of the Merchants division passed a resolution, that all individuals planning on attending the gala affair would of necessity have to make reservations well in advance.

"We will make plans to accommodate as many guests as our members wish to bring to the event," Retail Chairman Silverstein said, "however, proper reservations must be made, in order, to insure that enough food and refreshments are inventoried by the planning committees."

Special bulletins from the Chamber of Commerce offices will go into the mails on Tuesday, giving full details for making reservations for the affair.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Come On, You Dieters, Now's The Time To Weigh

This past week I have been publishing, through this column and your newspaper my Nine Day Reducing Diet which gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days time. Those of you who started in at the beginning are by now realizing the happy results of your self-discipline. Your belts are looser, I'll bet. Now is the time to weigh.

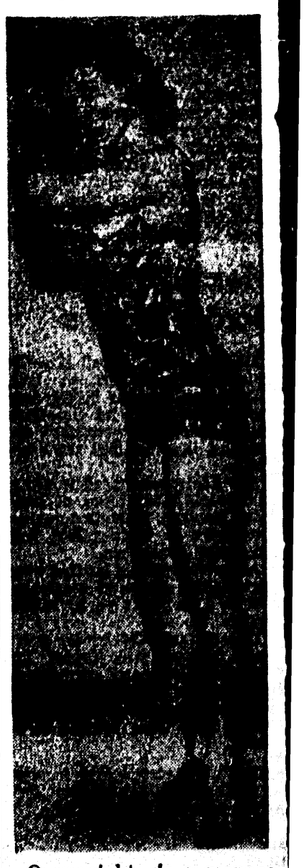

I warned earlier this week that you should not be discouraged if you diet for a few days with no results. It takes a little time before the unwanted pounds begin to slough off, and then suddenly, you realize that you have lost three or four pounds. There are three days left after today.

Overweight is a menace not only to good looks and to prolonged youthfulness and a vibrant personality, but to health. Today, more and more, the medical profession is emphasizing the hazards of too many pounds. Chronic diseases are being correlated with obesity and the mortality rate is frighteningly higher in overweights than in those of normal weight.

Do not keep this handicap to good health and longevity. Overweight sneaks up on women. If they are only five or 10 pounds overweight, they may regret it but do not worry about it. This is a great mistake.

Five pounds turns into 10, and 10 into 15, and 15 into 20 unless you correct the eating habits which dumped the first five pounds on your figure. The first five or 10 pounds are so much easier to lose than 15 or 20 or more.

If you missed some of the preceding menus and would like to have my Nine Day Reducing Diet booklet send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Overweight is a menace not only to good looks but to health.

Chairman Fink in accepting his appointment from Silverstein, stated, "We will immediately begin ordering prime steaks and will place them under special refrigeration, in order, to have them properly aged for that special flavor."

The executive committee of the Merchants division passed a resolution, that all individuals planning on attending the gala affair would of necessity have to make reservations well in advance.

"We will make plans to accommodate as many guests as our members wish to bring to the event," Retail Chairman Silverstein said, "however, proper reservations must be made, in order, to insure that enough food and refreshments are inventoried by the planning committees."

Special bulletins from the Chamber of Commerce offices will go into the mails on Tuesday, giving full details for making reservations for the affair.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Come On, You Dieters, Now's The Time To Weigh

This past week I have been publishing, through this column and your newspaper my Nine Day Reducing Diet which gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days time. Those of you who started in at the beginning are by now realizing the happy results of your self-discipline. Your belts are looser, I'll bet. Now is the time to weigh.

I warned earlier this week that you should not be discouraged if you diet for a few days with no results. It takes a little time before the unwanted pounds begin to slough off, and then suddenly, you realize that you have lost three or four pounds. There are three days left after today.

Overweight is a menace not only to good looks and to prolonged youthfulness and a vibrant personality, but to health. Today, more and more, the medical profession is emphasizing the hazards of too many pounds. Chronic diseases are being correlated with obesity and the mortality rate is frighteningly higher in overweights than in those of normal weight.

Do not keep this handicap to good health and longevity. Overweight sneaks up on women. If they are only five or 10 pounds overweight, they may regret it but do not worry about it. This is a great mistake.

Five pounds turns into 10, and 10 into 15, and 15 into 20 unless you correct the eating habits which dumped the first five pounds on your figure. The first five or 10 pounds are so much easier to lose than 15 or 20 or more.

If you missed some of the preceding menus and would like to have my Nine Day Reducing Diet booklet send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Overweight is a menace not only to good looks but to health.

La. G. O. P. Committeemen Mum At National Meet

WASHINGTON, April 11 (Special)— Louisiana's two members of the national Republican committee, at odds over distribution of Federal patronage in the state, Friday attended the meeting of the committee but refrained from airing their dispute before that body.

Possibility, however, that a meeting of the state committee may be called in the near future at which time John Minor Wisdom, who unseated longtime Republican leader of Louisiana, John E. Jackson, as national committeeman at the convention last year when Wisdom led the successful Eisenhower delegation, will be challenged over his handling of state patronage was expressed by Republican committeewoman Violet Allen of New Orleans.

Mrs. Allen, who frankly admits that she is a candidate for the post of collector of customs at New Orleans over the opposition of her colleague on the National Committee, said that she will urge an early meeting of the state executive committee to decide the winner in the controversy.

She said that she felt that old-line Republicans in the state are being discriminated against in selections for federal jobs in the state by the group led by Wisdom. Nevertheless, she declared that she had filed no protest with the officials of the national committee here. "I feel that this is a matter to be settled at home." she declared. "I hope that we will have a meeting of the state committee in the near future to determine just how this patronage will be handled."

Wisdom declined to comment on the controversy directly. He said that he had submitted several recommendations for appointments in Louisiana to administration leaders while here this week and believes that at least two of the initial appointments in the state will be made soon. One is understood to be collector of customs, the post Mrs. Allen is seeking.

Wisdom said that, insofar as he is informed, no action will be taken in the immediate future on filling the two federal judgeships in the state. He said that it will probably be several weeks, at least, before decisions are reached on successors to Judges Dan Dawkins of the western district, who is retiring, and Gaston L. Porterie of the eastern district, who died recently.

Wisdom praised outgoing chairman Wes Roberts during the meeting of the National Committee, when the Louisianan seconded the motion which had been made to accept Roberts resignation.

"I have had a deep personal relationship with Wes Roberts," Wisdom said, "and I have never seen him deviate from what is right and proper.

"The action taken by him in submitting his resignation was not the easiest thing for him to do. It would have been easier for him to fight the charges made against him. The action of offering his resignation was made in the best interests of the party," Wisdom said.

Rockies Hit By Raging Snowstorm

DENVER, April 11 (AP)—A snowstorm that snarled at spring battered the Rocky Mountain region today with a fury that at times reached the ferocity of a January blizzard.

The snowfall, beginning yesterday afternoon after nearly a week of lighter flurries and rain, was the heaviest to larrup the high country since the blizzard of mid-February.

With highways slippery and the wind stepping up ground blizzards that severely cut visibility, motorists were urged by the American Automobile Association branch here to keep their cars off country roads unless absolutely necessary. This applied to mountain passes and flat land travel alike.

Paul Swisher, state agriculture commissioner, said peach and apricot trees in blossom in Western Colorado were damaged badly by below-freezing temperatures.

So far only one death has been caused by the storm. Mrs. Harriet Wilson, 65, of Tribune, Kan., was injured fatally last night in a two-car collision on an icy stretch east of Denver.

The snow began tapering off in Denver this afternoon after reaching 7 inches. It spread into the dry land area of Eastern Colorado, leaving more than 9 inches at Kit Carson and 5 inches at Lamar in the southeast.

Adenauer Urges Unity On Europe, Asian Problems

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11 (AP)—West German Chancellor Adenauer said today that European and Far Eastern questions must be settled together.

His statement was made in a speech prepared for delivery to the Commonwealth Club, one of the oldest businessmen's groups in this gateway to the Orient.

"I am a European and Europe is therefore my main concern," he said. "But all of us, you as well as we must be clear in our mind that in this period of world-wide tension between the East and the West the question of the Far East and of Europe are most closely interwoven and that the ones can not be settled without the others."

The speech followed a news conference in which Adenauer declared Germany never would give up her place in West European defense, even if the Russians should offer free elections in a united Germany on the condition that she remain disarmed.

This was a clear-cut challenge to one strong school of German thought. Many Germans believe their country could exist as disarmed neutral between East and West.

Commerce Head Cites Plans For 'Real Economy'

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks declared today the Eisenhower administration was working the groundwork for "a real economy" in government that will result in a balanced budget and a reduction in taxes.

He appealed to businessmen and other groups to co-operate in this objective by withholding efforts for special benefits through organized pressure groups.

"Every penny cut from an estimate always arouses the complaint of a particular person, group or graphical area touched," he said in a talk before the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers Association here.

"It will not be of much avail for conscientious government officials to recommend savings if pressure groups try to have the eliminated items put back in the budget.

"Businessmen who talk about economy in principle and then act through their lobbys for special benefits, are often to blame for a share of the high cost of government."

A Boy, His Dog, And Summer

Spring vacation is behind the students of the schools in the Twin Cities and for that matter, all across the nation, and thoughts of students are turning to those glorious days ahead when the doors of the schools are closed for the summer. For many, the doors of the high schools will be forever closed unless for visits as the seniors will be leaving for the great adventure which is commonly known as "living." They will either be going to college, to the services or making a place for themselves in the world. However, it is not the graduating seniors who hold special thoughts of the three glorious months ahead. It is those young lads still in grammar school or just starting out in high school who look forward to summer with high anticipation.

Not so long ago, students returned to school after Christmas vacation. Ahead were long months of winter and "dreary" days of school with rains and gloomy weather. Ahead were many nights of home work and thoughts of the tests to come on the morrow. Report cards, that instrument by which the teachers notify parents of the youngsters' progress, were still to come. Now, it's all very different.

Spring vacation has come and gone and only a few weeks remain in the classrooms, weeks of balmy weather which make everyone wish they were any place but where they are at present, namely in geography class. These weeks will be spent daydreaming of the days ahead roaming along the levees, out on the bayous in the skiff, going fishing on the lake or just having nothing to do. The days of June will pass by as if they never had existed and along will come July. The week end of the "Fourth" with its usual fun and pleasure (and sometimes for the unwary with firecrackers, danger) will come ond go.

Then, maybe Dad will get his vacation and perhaps the family, with old "Spot" included will take off for the seashore. What could be more wonderful than several weeks at the seashore? Is there anything better than the sound of roaring surf to lull you to sleep at night? Never was there a child who didn't get up bright and early in the morning while at the beach to play in the sand or in the surf. Never was there a child, especially boys, who didn't, at some point, get a good roasting by the rays of the sun. Those days at the shore will end too soon and the return home will bring thoughts that only a few weeks remain until school reopens.

However, this is not the time for thoughts such as these when the whole world seems aglow with spring flowers, new leaves and carries the impression that some magic force has perhaps even repainted the face of the earth. Summer is nearly here and for those whose parents can't take a vacation this year, there are innumerable things for youngsters to do in their own home town. Monroe and West Monroe are graced with the presence of one of the most beautiful rivers in the nation and when the high water recedes and the river assumes its usual slow motion of the summer, there will be many Tom Sawyers and Huck Finns trying their luck on rafts. The weeks will go by and a phenomena typical to America will soon unfold—

Good Reason For Denial

Assistant Secretary of Defense Frank Nash said that congressional approval on all treaties "just wouldn't work." He referred to the Korean peace talks and armistice discussions and used them as an example to point out that congress would possibly hold up progress on such discussions if it had the right. If any secret agreements are being made in those or any other talks, progress should be held up without a shadow of a doubt. This nation has had many agreements made in the name of the American people by men who have given the Soviet Union every advantage, and this was done without the consent of the congress.

There were, unfortunately, many Congressmen who "rubber stamped" like sheep, their "commander in chief" (as a former President liked to call himself) and who, in doing so, not only undermined their nation but, as a result of their docility, have rendered the position of this nation into that of the greatest possible danger.

A new administration is present, and it is one which represents all the American people. It represents them before any other nation and before partisan politics, a statement which is backed by the facts of recent weeks, and it is pledged to keep up this policy. In this administration are many former "New Dealers" who unfortunately are still covered by the blanket of civil service so carefully planned by the same New Deal and who will attempt to wreck the new President before he even gets started. These men are planning the day when an administration to their liking and their philosophy will return to the White House and the City of Washington to handle the affairs of this nation.

It is in this case that the amendment proposed by Senator Bricker and 63 other Senators will become of the utmost importance. Should any new "one world" or left wing President ever take office without laws which bind him to respect the opinion of Congress (which is actually you, the people), there is no telling how far "down the river" will be sold the American people and their great constitution. Naturally, spokesmen for the administration, who have for many years, in many cases, been the allies of bureaucracy and who see themselves as being little "Caesars" on their own thrones, believe that they are being undermined by the Congress. They have forgotten that they are public servants and they are also paid by the hard-earned money (in most cases) of the American people to do their jobs as servants of the people, not rulers.

The "New Deal" philosophy was that the people were actually too ignorant to know what was good for them, and in such a case, the "planners" of a "great new America" would do all the thinking necessary. Many "New Dealers" have been heard to say of the Congressmen and Senators, "they are a bunch of hicks come to Washington." Many other statements of the same order were made. No matter who they were, the Senators and representatives were sent by you, the people. They are directly responsible to you and to no one else. When you are dissatisfied with their work, you can vote them out. In the case of the Senators who hold office for six years, the power of the people is always present, and they know that the people can eventually vote them out also. The bureaucrats, however, are responsible to their superior, who is only responsible to his superior. He cannot be voted out. Only the President can remove him.

Therefore, the Congress is the voice of the people and the one which respects the views of the people. These congressmen should be the guiding hand in the making of treaties which directly affect the laws of this nation and its international affairs.

The amendment sponsored by the junior senator from Ohio is a good one and binds all Presidents and bureaucrats from ever trampling upon the laws of the people. No "U. N." can ever take over the laws of this nation, as that would not be in the realm of possibility. No future talks and agreements can ever bind the U. S. to any deals such as were made at Yalta. It is learned that the Communists are turning over only 600 prisoners to the "U. N." while the "U. N" plans to turn over some 5000 Communist prisoners to the North Koreans. Is this actually a fair deal? Shouldn't the opinions of Congress be made known in this case? Suppose secret agreements are being made at Panmunjom? Shouldn't the Congress be advised?

The founders of this nation never believed that safeguards would be necessary. They also never could believe the present situation were they alive to see it. The assistant secretary is far from right in his idea that the Congress would always hold up progress. In many instances that "progress" never should have been made. The Bricker amendment is a weapon in your hands, the hands of you, the people, which would guarantee that there can never be any more Yaltas and that your constitution will be protected.

As such, it should be passed.

The Situation In Asia

The "peace" attitude adopted by the Soviet Union has apparently not spread to its satellites in Indo-China and its agents in Burma and Thailand. There is much trouble in both of the remaining independent nations and the Indo-Chinese situation is well known to all Americans. The Burmese government has announced that it will "no longer need any U. S. aid" and has, as a matter of fact, begun negotiations with the Chinese Reds. That was very nice of the Burmese to tell this nation that no longer was aid necessary. However, the message was sent not in this manner of thinking. Rather, it was meant as a "rebuff" to this nation which the Burmese claim is supporting the Chinese Nationalist "guerrillas" along the Burma-China border.

Isn't it amazing that nations and people should actually come to the point where they honestly feel that they are doing the United States a great favor by accepting help from a people who, if taxes are not eventually reduced in this nation, will soon need help themselves? The Burmese thought that they were actually hurting the U. S. by not accepting more aid and running to the Communists.

In 1948, the British gave India, Pakistan and Burma their independence with the right to join the British Commonwealth of Nations. The Burmese, fiery nationalists which they are, refused to join this body and preferred to remain aloof and independent. The Prime Minister was a devout Marxist who persisted in his arguments against the U. S. and toward the Soviet Union. When the Communists overran the Chinese mainland and established their "independence," the Burmese were one of the first nations to recognize this new world bandit.

When the Chinese Communists finished their work and completed the invasion, some Nationalists moved across the border into Burma seeking safety. These few soon became many, and the total now reaches some ten thousand well-armed Nationalists, breathing fire and making raids into China. They have penetrated as far as 65 miles before greater numbers turned them back. Recently, the Burmese, fearing Communist action, have attempted to retaliate against this Nationalist action only to bring the Nationalists down on their heads.

When the Burmese government sent its small army against the Chinese Nationalists, the Nationalists began to make many forays and have even occupied large communities and have captured large air fields. The Burmese have "appealed" to the "U. N." to help them and have blamed the Nationalists for disrupting the half-hearted war they carried on against the Communists. The American left-wing press, backed by the British, ever ready to condemn the Chinese Nationalists, has asserted that the "war against the Communists has been disrupted and the Communists who were beaten have sprung to new life."

Since when have left wingers wanted to see the Communists beaten? Since when have they worried about the outcome of wars against the Communists? These statements make intelligent people laugh. The "line" also makes people laugh. It is a known fact that any time the Burmese want help against the Communists, they could have readily called on the Chinese Nationalists. Instead, they have "permitted" the refugee Nationalists to stay in Burma while coddling the bandits who stole the Chinese nation away from its rightful owners and government, presenting it to Mao. Should the right attitude, and, incidently, the one which would have been best for Burma, have been adopted, the Burmese would be in the fight against Communism and, in fact, aiding the Chinese Nationalists in their battle to win back their nation. However, the Pro-Communist Burmese government is now screaming to the "U. N." to aid it in its "fight" against the Nationalists.

The majority of the "U. N." members would prefer to see the Chinese National government replaced by the Communists. Should this happen, the U. S. would have to immediately leave the "U. N." and send that organization off to some foreign shore. The Burmese may think that they have hurt this nation by not accepting more aid, but they have done America a great favor. This nation considers its aid as a helping hand, not as an act which is regarded by the recipient as a favor by its receipt.

Perhaps this nation should find out how many more nations regard themselves as doing this nation a favor by accepting American aid. The number would be surprising.

Wanted for Murder

The annals of bizarre crimes now include the case of Fred McManus. This 18-year-old killer was considered a "model boy" in his community. The wild streak that lurked in his subconscious suddenly exploded with a stream of hot lead and five innocent people were destroyed. McManus had everything to live for — but chose Death and the Devil.

Killers frequentl, follow a weird psychological pattern. They are afflicted with a twisted ego that comes slithering out of the darkness of their minds. Bayard Peakes was a ghastly illustration. He shot young Eileen Fahey to attract attention for his "research" ... Dillinger's downfall was hastened by a wild streak of self-esteem. The gunman was proud of his mustache. Although he submitted to plastic surgery, in an effort to remove identifying marks — Dillinger refused to shave the lip foliage. That made identification simple for law-enforcers and helped send him to Hell.

The conceit of some public enemies often verges on pure snobbery. Incredible as it seems, the underworld has a rigid caste system ... Alvin Karpis' criminal record encompassed bank-robbing, kidnapping and murder. After he was nabbed, J. Edgar Hoover called him a hoodlum. Karpis was astonished by what he considered a breach of etiquette. "I am not a hoodlum," he sulked. "I'm a thief."

The mobster then explained the subtle difference — which merits the nonsense medal for queer logic: "A thief is anybody who works for a living — like robbing a bank or kidnapping somebody. He really gives some effort to his work. A hoodlum is a lousy scum who works for gangsters and bumps guys off."

Mr. FBI froze Karpis with a stare and intoned: "From my standpoint, you're still a hoodlum."

Karpis, incidentally, had a familiar set-up before he got his come-uppance. He bribed local police officials and contributed hatfuls to the campaigns of shoddy politicos ...The extent of his influence can be gauged by this: Shortly before he was apprehended, Karpis enjoyed a honeymoon in the sumptuous summer mansion of a leading Chicago politico. Exclamation point.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch once shrewdly baited a plunder-world chief. Learning h- was an egomaniac, the paper published several complimentary pieces about him ... The mobster was delighted with the scrapbook contribs and permitted several exclusive interviews ... The reporter pumped him and collected enough evidence for a page one exciter plus an indictment ... The hammy hoodlum's final headline disclosed he was hanged.

The fascination of murder cases was deftly sized-up by Damon Runyon's grim but accurate appraisal: "The thrills are just as numerous as in any sports event I ever saw, with something new popping up at every turn. The game of murder trial is played according to very strict rules, with stern umpires called judges to prevent any deviation from the rules."

Runyon's coverage of murder cases offers the clearest indication of his reportorial genius. Read his story about the Hall-Mills case and you'll be enthralled by his skill for communicating facts in the form of high drama. He made reporting a fine art.

The murder of gambler Arnold Rothstein had the widest ramifications. It has been a pet subject for professional and amateur criminologists down through the years ... There are scads of theories about why it was never solved ... The most plausible argument is that Rothstein's links with high officials blocked an effective probe ... The reluctance of law-enforcers to dig deep into the case gives much credence to that theory ... The Dist. Att'y argued the investigation was a Police Dep't chore and the PD passed the buck to the DA ... Finally, they both invited Rothstein's killer to surrender!

The farcical aspect of the murder reached a nonsensical conclusion. A new District Attorney was elected after he promised the populace to solve the case within two weeks. Two weeks later he confessed that he didn't know anything about the murder.

The organization of Murder Inc. was as incredible as it was indefensible. Homicides were restricted to those who interfered with the plunderworld's business or betrayed its code. They inaugurated kangaroo courts for members who neglected to carry out orders. And they formed a murder school for young criminals — who were put on a weekly salary while they were trained to kill ... Ironically, the leaders of Murder Inc. seriously believed they were serving a noble cause. They insisted they saved lives — by preventing gang wars.

Bayard Peakes' happily unfulfilled plan to liquidate several unnamed editors recalls the Denver Post incident: A demented killer charged into the city room and emptied his six-shooter all over the place. Newsmen dived under desks and behind posts as bullets whizzed over their skulls. One frightened editor swooned ... A spunky staffer finally pounced on the madman — pinning him down — and held onto the gun until the others emerged from hiding to subdue him ... The daredevil who trapped the killer was a pretty newsgal named Polly Pry.

Murders reached their peak during the Prohibition era. The following statistic gives you an idea: Chicago had 257 gang murders in the Terrible Twenties. There was not a single conviction.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee (last year) published a report called: "Communist Domination of Union Officials in the Int'l Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers." Mr. Matusow (a former Red) became an undercover man for various Federal law enforcement agencies. He was a witness at the hearings held on Oct. 8, 1952, at Salt Lake City, Utah.

The report quotes his sworn testimony on page 162, in part: "In New York City today there are approximately 500 dues-paying Communists working in the newspaper industry. The New York Times has well over 100 dues-paying members."

The Times, says Mr. Adler, "examined minutely the published transcript and fou d not one mention of the N. Y. Times."

The Times was the punchline!

"Little Silver, N. J.: Dear Walter," shin-kicks Avery Giles, "re' your item about the Century Club's plaque to an unlamented waiter which says: 'God Finally Caught His Eye!' That's on page 353 of Pocket Book of Humorous Verse by David McCord in the Tombstone & Twilight section. McCord penned it to a waiter:

"By and by
God caught his eye."

Ethel Smith went to a society party packed with Snobs. Especially the hostess. Ethel overheard her complain: "That man is always dropping ashes on my finest ashtray!"

Geo. Jean Nathan counseled us 25 years ago: "Wait until you get a label that will stick to your targets and then keep repeating it."

Mencken and Nathan did that on their Smart Set mag. They put the old New Republic mag out of business by calling it: "Kept Uplifters."

Headline: "Peron Doesn't Like the Way Cattle Are Treated in Argentina."

The way dictators treat La Prensa editors?

Barbara Walters, producer of teevy's "Ask The Camera," was kidding her father, Lou Walters.

"More people," she said, "see my show in one night than go to your Latin Quarter in a year."

"Yes, honey," logic'd Papan "but my audiences pay!"

Verneuil married Bernhardt's granddaughter, and some of France's most famous women attended the wedding. She was asked: "Is there anyone here you'd rather be than Bernhardt?"

"Yes," sighed the aged actress, "the flower girl!"

The Russians are getting so friendly it wouldn't be a bad idea to hold more air-raid drills.

Prayer For Humility

DEAR God, let me remember now ... That I belong to You .... Give me humility of heart ... In everything I do ... Remind me in the worldly joys ... For which my heart may yearn ... I am but dust, and unto dust ... Someday I must return ... Allow me not to gather wealth ... Or popularity ... Unless I credit You, my God ... In all humility ... Unless I give whatever gain ... As much as I can share ... With my community and all ... Your people everywhere ... For all I am and all I have ... Belong to You alone ... And all I hope and ask and pray ... Is just to be Your own.

Timmons In Washington

By Bascom N. Timmons

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 11.—Pres. Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight learned that Washington newspaper correspondents cannot find much wrong with his administration - to - date — but can see plenty to make fun of about his appointments.

The historic Gridiron Club, in its 68th year, went into administration foreign policy to dig up old fossils which once belonged to Dean Acheson, which they presented to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep. - Wis.). But the members also needled the Eisenhower "millionaire" cabinet, as a transformation from "riches to rags" and found consolation in having a "plumber round the house" in the person of Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin.

President Eisenhower as the honor guest and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, minority leader of the senate were the respective speakers of their parties. Their speeches were off the record, in keeping with club tradition.

The program opened with a recital of songs which the Gridiron Club has sung to General Eisenhower at its semi - annual dinners since 1947, commenting on his attitude toward the presidential nomination. The 1948 song brought the biggest laugh. To the tune of "Civilization" it went:

"They tell me White House
might be just a dog house
That's what I fear
So Columbia can have me
That's my career
You can offer me what you like
But I'll still be Professor Ike
So nominations — take them
away."

The finale of the presidential temptations, to the tune of "This Ain't the Army, Mr. Jones," was:

"This ain't the army, Mr. Ike
You have been doing as you like You've had your own way in things before
But you won't have it now any more.
"This ain't the army Mr. Ike
Senate and House are just alike
You may have thought they are just a bore
But they won't bore you now any more."

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was stuck with a query on butter purchases, to which he responded in song:

"We've bought all these oddities,
surplus commodities,
Just to boost farm prices high,
But first keep that butter up
Rich creamery butter up
CCC butter up.
Buy!

The plumber song of Secretary Durkin in part was:

"I can stop the leaks that happen
constantly
Messrs. Taft and Hartley are my dish of tea
Thought I smiled so sweet at
Adlai,
Ike won't say I'm doing badly
With the CIO I'm playin' cat and mouse
It's so nice to have a plumber
round the house"

As the Demorats came together, one songster extended a concession to the south with this:

"Do not foresake us, O Dick Russell
Come next election year
Without the south we're lost Dick
Russell
Come along — come along.
I do not know what fate awaits
us
I only know we must agree
That we will face a man who beat us
A smilin' general
A winnin' general
A five star general — not named
Lee."

The Eisenhower Taft "peace treaty" was celebrated by two singers with:

"We're as close as corn on the
cob
For election is just around the corner
And the Congress is only barely ours
No one wants to be the GOP's
chief mourner
So we'll nurse our love 'till it
sours."

A Boy, His Dog, And Summer

Spring vacation is behind the students of the schools in the Twin Cities and for that matter, all across the nation, and thoughts of students are turning to those glorious days ahead when the doors of the schools are closed for the summer. For many, the doors of the high schools will be forever closed unless for visits as the seniors will be leaving for the great adventure which is commonly known as "living." They will either be going to college, to the services or making a place for themselves in the world. However, it is not the graduating seniors who hold special thoughts of the three glorious months ahead. It is those young lads still in grammar school or just starting out in high school who look forward to summer with high anticipation.

Not so long ago, students returned to school after Christmas vacation. Ahead were long months of winter and "dreary" days of school with rains and gloomy weather. Ahead were many nights of home work and thoughts of the tests to come on the morrow. Report cards, that instrument by which the teachers notify parents of the youngsters' progress, were still to come. Now, it's all very different.

Spring vacation has come and gone and only a few weeks remain in the classrooms, weeks of balmy weather which make everyone wish they were any place but where they are at present, namely in geography class. These weeks will be spent daydreaming of the days ahead roaming along the levees, out on the bayous in the skiff, going fishing on the lake or just having nothing to do. The days of June will pass by as if they never had existed and along will come July. The week end of the "Fourth" with its usual fun and pleasure (and sometimes for the unwary with firecrackers, danger) will come ond go.

Then, maybe Dad will get his vacation and perhaps the family, with old "Spot" included will take off for the seashore. What could be more wonderful than several weeks at the seashore? Is there anything better than the sound of roaring surf to lull you to sleep at night? Never was there a child who didn't get up bright and early in the morning while at the beach to play in the sand or in the surf. Never was there a child, especially boys, who didn't, at some point, get a good roasting by the rays of the sun. Those days at the shore will end too soon and the return home will bring thoughts that only a few weeks remain until school reopens.

However, this is not the time for thoughts such as these when the whole world seems aglow with spring flowers, new leaves and carries the impression that some magic force has perhaps even repainted the face of the earth. Summer is nearly here and for those whose parents can't take a vacation this year, there are innumerable things for youngsters to do in their own home town. Wanted for Murder

The annals of bizarre crimes now include the case of Fred McManus. This 18-year-old killer was considered a "model boy" in his community. The wild streak that lurked in his subconscious suddenly exploded with a stream of hot lead and five innocent people were destroyed. McManus had everything to live for — but chose Death and the Devil.

Killers frequently follow a weird psychological pattern. They are afflicted with a twisted ego that comes slithering out of the darkness of their minds. Bayard Peakes was a ghastly illustration. He shot young Eileen Fahey to attract attention for his "research" ... Dillinger's downfall was hastened by a wild streak of self-esteem. The gunman was proud of his mustache. Although he submitted to plastic surgery, in an effort to remove identifying marks — Dillinger refused to shave the lip foliage. That made identification simple for law-enforcers and helped send him to Hell.

The conceit of some public enemies often verges on pure snobbery. Incredible as it seems, the underworld has a rigid caste system ... Alvin Karpis' criminal record encompassed bank-robbing, kidnapping and murder. After he was nabbed, J. Edgar Hoover called him a hoodlum. Karpis was astonished by what he considered a breach of etiquette. "I am not a hoodlum," he sulked. "I'm a thief."

The mobster then explained the subtle difference — which merits the nonsense medal for queer logic: "A thief is anybody who works for a living — like robbing a bank or kidnapping somebody. He really gives some effort to his work. A hoodlum is a lousy scum who works for gangsters and bumps guys off."

Mr. FBI froze Karpis with a stare and intoned: "From my standpoint, you're still a hoodlum."

Karpis, incidentally, had a familiar set-up before he got his comeuppance. He bribed local police officials and contributed hatfuls to the campaigns of shoddy politicos ... The extent of his influence can be gauged by this: Shortly before he was apprehended, Karpis enjoyed a honeymoon in the sumptuous summer mansion of a leading Chicago politico. Exclamation point.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch once shrewdly baited a plunder-world chief. Learning he was an egomaniac, the paper published several complimentary pieces about him ... The mobster was delighted with the scrapbook contribs and permitted several exclusive interviews ... The reporter pumped him and collected enough evidence for a page one exciter plus an indictment ... The hammy hoodlum's final headline disclosed he was hanged.

The fascination of murder cases was deftly sized-up by Damon Runyon's grim but accurate appraisal: "The thrills are just as numerous as in any sports event I ever saw, with something new popping up at every turn. The game of murder trial is played according to very strict rules, with stern umpires called judges to prevent any deviation from the rules."

Runyon's coverage of murder cases offers the clearest indication of his reportorial genius. Read his story about the Hall-Mills case and you'll be enthralled by his skill for communicating facts in the form of high drama. He made reporting a fine art.

The murder of gambler Arnold Rothstein had the widest ramifications. It has been a pet subject for professional and amateur criminologists down through the years ... There are scads of theories about why it was never solved ... The most plausible argument is that Rothstein's links with high officials blocked an effective probe ... The reluctance of law-enforcers to dig deep into the case gives much credence to that theory ... The Dist. Att'y argued the investigation was a Police Dep't chore and the PD passed the buck to the DA ... Finally, they both invited Rothstein's killer to surrender!

The farcical aspect of the murder reached a nonsensical conclusion. A new District Attorney was elected after he promised the populace to solve the case within two weeks. Two weeks later he confessed that he didn't know anything about the murder.

The organization of Murder Inc. was as incredible as it was indefensible. Homicides were restricted to those who interfered with the plunderworld's business or betrayed its code. They inaugurated kangaroo courts for members who neglected to carry out orders. And they formed a murder school for young criminals — who were put on a weekly salary while they were trained to kill ... Ironically, the leaders of Murder Inc. seriously believed they were serving a noble cause. They insisted they saved lives — by preventing gang wars.

Bayard Peakes' happily unfulfilled plan to liquidate several unnamed editors recalls the Denver Post incident: A demented killer charged into the city room and emptied his six-shooter all over the place. Newsmen dived under desks and behind posts as bullets whizzed over their skulls. One frightened editor swooned ... A spunky staffer finally pounced on the madman — pinning him down — and held onto the gun until the others emerged from hiding to subdue him ... The daredevil who trapped the killer was a pretty newsgal named Polly Pry.

Murders reached their peak during the Prohibition era. The following statistic gives you an idea: Chicago had 257 gang murders in the Terrible Twenties. There was not a single conviction.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee (last year) published a report called: "Communist Domination of Union Officials in the Int'l Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers." Mr. Matusow (a former Red) became an undercover man for various Federal law enforcement agencies. He was a witness at the hearings held on Oct. 8, 1952, at Salt Lake City, Utah.

The report quotes his sworn testimony on page 162, in part: "In New York City today there are approximately 500 dues-paying Communists working in the newspaper industry. The New York Times has well over 100 dues-paying members."

The Times, says Mr. Adler, "examined minutely the published transcript and fou d not one mention of the N. Y. Times."

The Times was the punchline!

"Little Silver, N. J.: Dear Walter," shin-kicks Avery Giles, "re your item about the Century Club's plaque to an unlamented waiter which says: 'God Finally Caught His Eye!' That's on page 353 of Pocket Book of Humorous Verse by David McCord in the Tombstone & Twilight section. McCord penned it to a waiter:

"By and by
God caught his eye."

Ethel Smith went to a society party packed with Snobs. Especially the hostess. Ethel overheard her complain: "That man is always dropping ashes on my finest ashtray!"

Geo. Jean Nathan counseled us 25 years ago: "Wait until you get a label that will stick to your targets and then keep repeating it."

Mencken and Nathan did that on their Smart Set mag. They put the old New Republic mag out of business by calling it: "Kept Uplifters."

Headline: "Peron Doesn't Like the Way Cattle Are Treated in Argentina."

The way dictators treat La Prensa editors?

Barbara Walters, producer of teevy's "Ask The Camera," was kidding her father, Lou Walters.

"More people," she said, "see my show in one night than go to your Latin Quarter in a year."

"Yes, honey," logic'd Papan "but my audiences pay!"

Verneuil married Bernhardt's granddaughter, and some of France's most famous women attended the wedding. She was asked: "Is there anyone here you'd rather be than Bernhardt?"

"Yes," sighed the aged actress, "the flower girl!"

The Russians are getting so friendly it wouldn't be a bad idea to hold more air-raid drills.

Prayer For Humility

DEAR God, let me remember now ... That I belong to You .... Give me humility of heart ... In everything I do ... Remind me in the worldly joys ... For which my heart may yearn ... I am but dust, and unto dust ... Someday I must return ... Allow me not to gather wealth ... Or popularity ... Unless I credit You, my God ... In all humility ... Unless I give whatever gain ... As much as I can share ... With my community and all ... Your people everywhere ... For all I am and all I have ... Belong to You alone ... And all I hope and ask and pray ... Is just to be Your own.

Timmons In Washington

By Bascom N. Timmons

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 11.—Pres. Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight learned that Washington newspaper correspondents cannot find much wrong with his administration - to - date — but can see plenty to make fun of about his appointments.

The historic Gridiron Club, in its 68th year, went into administration foreign policy to dig up old fossils which once belonged to Dean Acheson, which they presented to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep. - Wis.). But the members also needled the Eisenhower "millionaire" cabinet, as a transformation from "riches to rags" and found consolation in having a "plumber round the house" in the person of Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin.

President Eisenhower as the honor guest and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, minority leader of the senate were the respective speakers of their parties. Their speeches were off the record, in keeping with club tradition.

The program opened with a recital of songs which the Gridiron Club has sung to General Eisenhower at its semi - annual dinners since 1947, commenting on his attitude toward the presidential nomination. The 1948 song brought the biggest laugh. To the tune of "Civilization" it went:

"They tell me White House
might be just a dog house
That's what I fear
So Columbia can have me
That's my career
You can offer me what you like
But I'll still be Professor Ike
So nominations — take them
away."

The finale of the presidential temptations, to the tune of "This Ain't the Army, Mr. Jones," was:

"This ain't the army, Mr. Ike
You have been doing as you like
things before
But you won't have it now any more.
"This ain't the army Mr. Ike
Senate and House are just alike
You may have thought they are just a bore
But they won't bore you now any more."

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was stuck with a query on butter purchases, to which he responded in song:

"We've bought all these oddities,
surplus commodities,
Just to boost farm prices high,
But first keep that butter up
Rich creamery butter up
CCC butter up.
Buy!

The plumber song of Secretary Durkin in part was:

"I can stop the leaks that happen
constantly
Messrs. Taft and Hartley are my dish of tea
Thought I smiled so sweet at
Adlai,
Ike won't say I'm doing badly
With the CIO I'm playin' cat and
mouse
It's so nice to have a plumber
round the house"

As the Demorats came together, one songster extended a concession to the south with this:

"Do not foresake us, O Dick Russell
Come next election year
Without the south we're lost Dick
Russell
Come along — come along.
I do not know what fate awaits
us
I only know we must agree
That we will face a man who beat us
A smilin' general
A winnin' general
Lee."

The Eisenhower Taft "peace treaty" was celebrated by two singers with:

cob
For election is just around the corner
ours
No one wants to be the GOP's
chief mourner
So we'll nurse our love 'till it
sours."

Jes' Ramblin'

Saturday that he could probably have been accorded the post he now holds for life, but he said that it had become known that he is a member of a specially long-lived family and that placed a taboo on the matter. He explained that an uncle recently died in New York at the age of 98 years, and that two of his aunts, living in Ohio, have reached the ages of 91 and 86 years. This information, in the hands of members of his congregation, he said, worked a hardship and completely eliminated him as a candidate for a lifetime job in Monroe.

Rev. A. T. Mitchell is nothing if not original. He has many worthy ideas of a strictly original nature for he never descends into the class of men who are imitators of others. Always, too, he endeavors to screen himself in the background and push the other fellow into the limelight, for he is himself an essentially modest man.

The other night he staged an old-time religious service in his church, the Ridge Avenue Baptist. It was supposed to be one to set back the clock 75 years. All electric lights were blacked out and weak illumination was afforded only by smoking oil lamps.

Women, attired in crude, old fashioned bonnets and dresses that nearly swept the floor when they walked, were in order. We did not hear how men were attired but we are sure that they appeared unshaven and possibly with handlebarred mustaches and possibly whiskers and goatees now and then observed.

The nursery was eliminated and small babes were brought into the sanctuary and if they cried,-well that did not matter, a baby is supposed to cry to his heart's content.

The affair, stated Rev. Mitchell, was not a burlesque. It was to show how times have changed and to make conscious the fact that we have innumerable improvements and scientific inventions that take the rough edges out of life and makes it more nearly a bed of roses.

"The Silver Chalice" by Thomas B. Costain, which is one of the best sellers today as it portrays the dramatic legend of the Cup of the Last Supper, will be reviewed by Rev. Dennis A. Curren, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's gymnasium - auditorium, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

"The Silver Chalice" is replete with adventure, - it opens with the Jerusalem setting and proceeds through Antioch to Rome, and those who enjoyed "Quo Vadis," will find a new interest in this review, especially when presented by a skilled speaker and dramatic interpreter such as Rev. Curren.

Bohlen Arrives In Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — Charles Eustis Bohlen, the United States' ninth ambassador to the Soviet Union, arrived here today to go to work.

He was accompanied on the flight from Berlin by his wife and two children.

The American embassy has been without an ambassador since last September when the Russians declared George F. Kennan persona non grata (personally not acceptable) after remarks he made to reporters in Berlin.

M. J. Carbone Buys Famed 'Hardtimes'

One of the oldest homes in Monroe and northeast La., Hartimes Plantation on Loop Road, was sold recently by Mrs. Melville Hunter, widow of the late Dr. Hunter, to a well-known local resident, M. J. Carbone.

The familiar landmark, Hardtimes, has passed through many hands in the past since its original beginning with a Spanish land grant to Abraham Morehouse, for whom Morehouse parish was named. The grant included 2,000 acres which was later sub-divided.

The home occupied by Mrs. Hunter at the present time was the site of the old home place. The two-story house was built more than 130 years ago of virgin hand hewn cypress cut and dressed by slaves before the intervention of saw mills. The timber was put together with pegs and hand made squares.

The dwelling was built long before the traditional Colonial period of the South. Architecture of the home is early American and in many instances Mrs. Hunter, who plans to vacate by April 20, has carried the theme throughout the furnishing of the residence.

When Dr. and Mrs. Hunter bought the Loop road residence 24 years ago both the house and grounds had deteriotated. Through the work of both the restoration today reflects one of the most beautiful places in this area.

Grounds in both the front and rear of the house include approximately nine acres of well kept garden and spacious open lawn. The Hunters planted a winding avenue of circular oaks, running through the area of the bayou front, joined with two groves of long leaf pines. The old trees in the yard, some of which are well over a 100 years old including magnolias, pecans and oaks, are found throughout the area, centering largely in the back yard.

Some of the older trees have individual names. An old seedling pecan, having more than a 100 feet spread, is named Carolyn. Mrs. Hunter pointed out an old Virginia cedar under whose branches a young girl had taken her life before the turn of the century. The limbs of the cedar were bent to the ground and Mrs. Hunter stated that the legend was that it was crying in grief.

Mr. Carbone is reported to have purchased the estate for more than $60,000. His intentions for the old house are not known but sources state that he plans to remodel one of the last landmarks in this area.

Mrs. Hunter issued a cordial invitation to persons who have known both her and Dr. Hunaer to visit her gardens on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday afternoons between 2 and 7 p.m.

Touring Group Of U. S. Editors Return Home

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Seven newspaper and radio executives came back from a week's visit to Moscow today amid a flurry of gibes at accounts by some of them of a pleasant, friendly atmosphere in the Russian capital.

They said they still had more to tell.

"Our object now is to make a complete and honest report to the American people," said James L. Wick, of the Wick Newspapers in Ohio, North Carolina and Louisiana.

"So far we have told only part of the story. The rest remains for us to write."

Dispatches some sent back about visits to Moscow factories, subways and the university brought a comment today from the New York Daily News that Russia is trying "the same old Soviet sucker game on gullible Westerners."

The New York Post has been referring to the group as "the Rover Boys in Moscow," and Time magazine in its current issue said it appeared "from their fatuous findings, all of the traveling editors had fallen on their faces."

One of the group, John H. Biddle, of the Huntington, Pa., Daily News, said: "This again is the long, loose tongue of 'Time' running away."

He said the news magazine's "caustic criticism" was unfair and without foundation, because the magazine had no way of knowing conditions in Moscow, or knowing what the touring editors saw there.

Also awaiting the group was a telegram from John Chapple, Ashland, Wis., editor, declaring the tourists will be "known as the editorial jackasses of the century for falling for this Soviet peace trickery."

He said they reported "mush" instead of "exposing why Stalin died and why Malenkov is slated for replacement by Beria and warning us of the coming intensified attack upon our civilization."

The Skillet Club

By UNCLE FRANK KOHLER

With This Dressing You Can Eat Salads And Reduce

(Chief Skilleteer)

"We were faced with the problem of reducing and at the same time we like salads, so we thought up a dressing and it rates as a favorite," writes Lt. Col. Karl S. Thornburg, U. S. A., Skilleteer of The Chicago Daily News Chapter. That it's delicious we think you'll agree. His ingredients are these:

1 can condensed tomato soup, 1-½ cups mineral oil, ½ cup malt vinegar, ¼ cup water, 10 quarter grain saccharin tablets, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 teaspoons minced onion, 1 clove minced garlic.

Mix and shake the whole thing well, and chill. It keeps well in the refrigerator. (An electric blender is ideal in this case).

There seems to be great difference of opinion among doctors about mineral oil. Those we know are agreed that the amount one takes in the dressing in an average portion of salad is not injurious. But all agree on this point: If you're going to diet, consult your own doctor before you start!

Our own doctor objected to the above dressing only because of the ingredients listed in the can of soup. They include wheat flour, corn oil, butter, salt and sugar.

We use as a salt substitute one of the preparations available on the market containing, among other things, potassium chloride and tricalcium phosphate. We use this preparation sparingly wherever salt is called for in a recipe, and it works well. This is our salt-free version of Col. Thornburg's recipe:

1 cup dietetic tomato puree (no salt or pepper), ½ cup malt vinegar, 1 teaspoon powdered mustard, 1 large garlic clove, crushed, 1 teaspoon shredded dried parsley, 1 tablespoon Lonalac (sodium - free milk powder), 1½ cups mineral oil, 1½ teaspoons salt substitute, 2 teaspoons minced onion and juice, ¼ teaspoon saccharin crystals, ¼ cup hot water, ½ teaspoon powdered horseradish.

Dissolve the saccharin and then the Lonalac powder in the hot water. Combine all ingredients, beat very thoroughly (the electric blender is best) and chill. Either dressing makes a delicious cole slaw, just stirred in with crisped, shredded cabbage.

We have actually found that many items available in dietetic pack (salt - free, oil - free and sugar - free) are as good or better than the ordinary pack for all use. This applies not only to canned tuna, salmon and boned chicken, but to the water pack or juice pack fruits, especially pineapple, which tastes more like the real thing without the syrup.

You can even buy low - calorie, salt - free mayonnaise, and this mixed with finely shredded lettuce, a can of dietetic boned chicken or tuna, some finely chopped onion and green pepper and finely sliced celery, makes a delicious low-calorie salad. We spice it up with celery seed, salt substitute, and capers.

Saturday that he could probably have been accorded the post he now holds for life, but he said that it had become known that he is a member of a specially long-lived family and that placed a taboo on the matter. He explained that an uncle recently died in New York at the age of 98 years, and that two of his aunts, living in Ohio, have reached the ages of 91 and 86 years. This information, in the hands of members of his congregation, he said, worked a hardship and completely eliminated him as a candidate for a lifetime job in Monroe.

Rev. A. T. Mitchell is nothing if not original. He has many worthy ideas of a strictly original nature for he never descends into the class of men who are imitators of others. Always, too, he endeavors to screen himself in the background and push the other fellow into the limelight, for he is himself an essentially modest man.

The other night he staged an old-time religious service in his church, the Ridge Avenue Baptist. It was supposed to be one to set back the clock 75 years. All electric lights were blacked out and weak illumination was afforded only by smoking oil lamps.

Women, attired in crude, old fashioned bonnets and dresses that nearly swept the floor when they walked, were in order. We did not hear how men were attired but we are sure that they appeared unshaven and possibly with handlebarred mustaches and possibly whiskers and goatees now and then observed.

The nursery was eliminated and small babes were brought into the sanctuary and if they cried,-well that did not matter, a baby is supposed to cry to his heart's content.

The affair, stated Rev. Mitchell, was not a burlesque. It was to show how times have changed and to make conscious the fact that we have innumerable improvements and scientific inventions that take the rough edges out of life and makes it more nearly a bed of roses.

"The Silver Chalice" by Thomas B. Costain, which is one of the best sellers today as it portrays the dramatic legend of the Cup of the Last Supper, will be reviewed by Rev. Dennis A. Curren, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's gymnasium - auditorium, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

"The Silver Chalice" is replete with adventure, - it opens with the Jerusalem setting and proceeds through Antioch to Rome, and those who enjoyed "Quo Vadis," will find a new interest in this review, especially when presented by a skilled speaker and dramatic interpreter such as Rev. Curren.

Bohlen Arrives In Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — Charles Eustis Bohlen, the United States' ninth ambassador to the Soviet Union, arrived here today to go to work.

He was accompanied on the flight from Berlin by his wife and two children.

The American embassy has been without an ambassador since last September when the Russians declared George F. Kennan persona non grata (personally not acceptable) after remarks he made to reporters in Berlin.

M. J. Carbone Buys Famed 'Hardtimes'

One of the oldest homes in Monroe and northeast La., Hartimes Plantation on Loop Road, was sold recently by Mrs. Melville Hunter, widow of the late Dr. Hunter, to a well-known local resident, M. J. Carbone.

The familiar landmark, Hardtimes, has passed through many hands in the past since its original beginning with a Spanish land grant to Abraham Morehouse, for whom Morehouse parish was named. The grant included 2,000 acres which was later sub-divided.

The home occupied by Mrs. Hunter at the present time was the site of the old home place. The two-story house was built more than 130 years ago of virgin hand hewn cypress cut and dressed by slaves before the intervention of saw mills. The timber was put together with pegs and hand made squares.

The dwelling was built long before the traditional Colonial period of the South. Architecture of the home is early American and in many instances Mrs. Hunter, who plans to vacate by April 20, has carried the theme throughout the furnishing of the residence.

When Dr. and Mrs. Hunter bought the Loop road residence 24 years ago both the house and grounds had deteriotated. Through the work of both the restoration today reflects one of the most beautiful places in this area.

Grounds in both the front and rear of the house include approximately nine acres of well kept garden and spacious open lawn. The Hunters planted a winding avenue of circular oaks, running through the area of the bayou front, joined with two groves of long leaf pines. The old trees in the yard, some of which are well over a 100 years old including magnolias, pecans and oaks, are found throughout the area, centering largely in the back yard.

Some of the older trees have individual names. An old seedling pecan, having more than a 100 feet spread, is named Carolyn. Mrs. Hunter pointed out an old Virginia cedar under whose branches a young girl had taken her life before the turn of the century. The limbs of the cedar were bent to the ground and Mrs. Hunter stated that the legend was that it was crying in grief.

Mr. Carbone is reported to have purchased the estate for more than $60,000. His intentions for the old house are not known but sources state that he plans to remodel one of the last landmarks in this area.

Mrs. Hunter issued a cordial invitation to persons who have known both her and Dr. Hunaer to visit her gardens on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday afternoons between 2 and 7 p.m.

Touring Group Of U. S. Editors Return Home

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Seven newspaper and radio executives came back from a week's visit to Moscow today amid a flurry of gibes at accounts by some of them of a pleasant, friendly atmosphere in the Russian capital.

They said they still had more to tell.

"Our object now is to make a complete and honest report to the American people," said James L. Wick, of the Wick Newspapers in Ohio, North Carolina and Louisiana.

"So far we have told only part of the story. The rest remains for us to write."

Dispatches some sent back about visits to Moscow factories, subways and the university brought a comment today from the New York Daily News that Russia is trying "the same old Soviet sucker game on gullible Westerners."

The New York Post has been referring to the group as "the Rover Boys in Moscow," and Time magazine in its current issue said it appeared "from their fatuous findings, all of the traveling editors had fallen on their faces."

One of the group, John H. Biddle, of the Huntington, Pa., Daily News, said: "This again is the long, loose tongue of 'Time' running away."

He said the news magazine's "caustic criticism" was unfair and without foundation, because the magazine had no way of knowing conditions in Moscow, or knowing what the touring editors saw there.

Also awaiting the group was a telegram from John Chapple, Ashland, Wis., editor, declaring the tourists will be "known as the editorial jackasses of the century for falling for this Soviet peace trickery."

He said they reported "mush" instead of "exposing why Stalin died and why Malenkov is slated for replacement by Beria and warning us of the coming intensified attack upon our civilization."

With This Dressing You Can Eat Salads And Reduce

(Chief Skilleteer)

"We were faced with the problem of reducing and at the same time we like salads, so we thought up a dressing and it rates as a favorite," writes Lt. Col. Karl S. Thornburg, U. S. A., Skilleteer of The Chicago Daily News Chapter. That it's delicious we think you'll agree. His ingredients are these:

1 can condensed tomato soup. 1-½ cups mineral oil. ½ cup malt vinegar, ¼ cup water. 10 quarter grain saccharin tablets. 1 teaspoon salt. 1 teaspoon dry mustard. 2 teaspoons minced onion. 1 clove minced garlic.

Mix and shake the whole thing well, and chill. It keeps well in the refrigerator. (An electric blender is ideal in this case).

There seems to be great difference of opinion among doctors about mineral oil. Those we know are agreed that the amount one takes in the dressing in an average portion of salad is not injurious. But all agree on this point: If you're going to diet, consult your own doctor before you start!

Our own doctor objected to the above dressing only because of the ingredients listed in the can of soup. They include wheat flour, corn oil, butter, salt and sugar.

We use as a salt substitute one of the preparations available on the market containing, among other things, potassium chloride and tricalcium phosphate. We use this preparation sparingly wherever salt is called for in a recipe, and it works well. This is our salt-free version of Col. Thornburg's recipe:

1 cup dietetic tomato puree (no salt or pepper). ½ cup malt vinegar. 1 teaspoon powdered mustard. 1 large garlic clove, crushed. 1 teaspoon shredded dried parsley. 1 tablespoon Lonalac (sodium - free milk powder). 1½ cups mineral oil. 1½ teaspoons salt substitute. 2 teaspoons minced onion and juice. ⅛ teaspoon saccharin crystals. ¼ cup hot water. ½ teaspoon powdered horseradish.

Dissolve the saccharin and then the Lonalac powder in the hot water. Combine all ingredients, beat very thoroughly (the electric blender is best) and chill. Either dressing makes a delicious cole slaw, just stirred in with crisped, shredded cabbage.

We have actually found that many items available in dietetic pack (salt - free, oil - free and sugar - free) are as good or better than the ordinary pack for all use. This applies not only to canned tuna, salmon and boned chicken, but to the water pack or juice pack fruits, especially pineapple, which tastes more like the real thing witnout the syrup.

You can even buy low - calorie, salt - free mayonnaise, and this mixed with finely shredded lettuce, a can of dietetic boned chicken or tuna, some finely chopped onion and green pepper and finely sliced celery, makes a delicious low-calorie salad. We spice it up with celery seed, salt substitute, and capers.

Taft Says U. S. Must Not Slow Arms Buildup

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today the free world must not be lulled into lowering its military guard by possibly false Russian peace moves or an unstable truce in Korea.

The Senate Republican leader said in an interview he does not believe a halt in hostilities in Korea will affect military spending substantially.

Without reference to what happens in Korea, he said he thinks four billion dollars in "fat" can be trimmed off the 46 billion dollar armed service spending budget sent to Congress by former President Truman. This can be done, Taft contended, without reducing the nation's combat strength.

The senator said he is not disposed to accept at face value present Russian peace gestures and does not believe any truce in Korea would be other than "continuously unstable," with a resumption of fighting possible at any time.

"I don't think anybody is disposed to accept the Russian peace offers at their face value," Taft said. He expressed the opinion that "Russia is trying to fool us."

Reminded that President Eisenhower had said such proposals must be regarded as valid until proved otherwise, the Ohio senator said he agreed that they must be so accepted "to follow them up, but not as an excuse for the reduction of military expenses."

On that score, the Republican leader differed from one of his close Senate associates, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), who recently said an end to fighting in Korea should bring a "substantial" cut in armed forces outlays.

Taft Says U. S. Must Not Slow Arms Buildup

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today the free world must not be lulled into lowering its military guard by possibly false Russian peace moves or an unstable truce in Korea.

The Senate Republican leader said in an interview he does not believe a halt in hostilities in Korea will affect military spending substantially.

Without reference to what happens in Korea, he said he thinks four billion dollars in "fat" can be trimmed off the 46 billion dollar armed service spending budget sent to Congress by former President Truman. This can be done, Taft contended, without reducing the nation's combat strength.

The senator said he is not disposed to accept at face value present Russian peace gestures and does not believe any truce in Korea would be other than "continuously unstable," with a resumption of fighting possible at any time.

"I don't think anybody is disposed to accept the Russian peace offers at their face value," Taft said. He expressed the opinion that "Russia is trying to fool us."

Reminded that President Eisenhower had said such proposals must be regarded as valid until proved otherwise, the Ohio senator said he agreed that they must be so accepted "to follow them up, but not as an excuse for the reduction of military expenses."

On that score, the Republican leader differed from one of his close Senate associates, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), who recently said an end to fighting in Korea should bring a "substantial" cut in armed forces outlays.

Boy Lives Entirely By Transfusion

DEQUINCY, La., April 11 (AP) — A 7½-year-old boy whose body cannot manufacture blood has been kept alive since he was seven months old by 127 transfusions, 106 donated by his father.

Marvin Bryant, who is "just as mischievous" as other boys according to his mother, can stay alive only as long as his body receives fresh blood.

Doctors explained that the disease, Coolie's Mediterranean anemia, increases the boy's need for blood in proportion to his growth. Doctors said there is no cure and blood transfusions are the only treatment.

Meanwhile, his father, Isaiah Bryant, and other donors continue to give blood at the rate of one pint every two weeks.

The Bryants have lost two other children at less than 10 months of age.

Would Strip 2 Programs From State Department

WASHINGTON, April 11—UP—President Eisenhower was reported Saturday to be studying a new plan that would strip the State Department of all U. S. overseas information programs and the Point Four technical aid program for underdeveloped countries.

Administration sources said the plan is contained in recommendations made recently by a special presidential committee on government organization headed by Nelson A. Rockefeller.

It calls for creation of a separate overseas information agency, including the Voice of America, to operate U. S. foreign information programs in the cold war. The move would cut approximately 10,000 information employees from the State Department payroll.

Under the plan, informants said the Point Four aid program would be shifted to the Mutual Security Agency. This in turn is expected to be recognized into a new Foreign Assistance Administration that would administer foreign aid programs now handled by a variety of agencies and departments. The State Department now has more than 700 point four employees at home and abroad who would be transferred out of the department.

The Rockefeller committee's recommendations seem certain to gain Mr. Eisenhower's approval. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is known to favor ridding his department of the international information administration and the Point Four program. He wants to transform the State Department into a purely policy-making arm of the government shorn of direct operating problems as much as possible.

More than 90 mission churches were built in New Mexico during the "Golden Age" of mission construction, 1620-1650, oldest being San Miguel Mission, at Santa Fe.

Work Outlook Faces Upward Outlook Here

Non-agricultural employment in Ouachita parish showed a very slight increase between February, 1953 and March, 1953. In February, 1953 total non-agricultural employment was 21,725 and in March, 1953 total non-agricultural employment was 21,750. Between March, 1952 and March, 1953 non-agricultural employment jumped from 20,375 to 21,750. All major industries indicated increases. Again, contract construction showed the largest gain.

The manufacturing group showed an increase of 25 employes during the past 30 days. The paper and allied industry indicated an increase of 20; the printing and publishing industry 5; and the apparel and related industry 5. Only one industry, lumber, showed a decrease and this was only 5.

Total employment in the non-manufacturing group remained stable between February and March, 1953. Decreases by the service industry; transportation, communication, and public utility industry; and finance industry were stabilized by the increase in the retail trade; contract construction; and wholesale trade industry.

Employment will probably continue its upward trend during the month of April. Reports from various employers indicate an increase of 100 by May, 1953. Several factors could cause this increase to be much larger.

OLD AND NEW VIEW of Library room — The two views shown here were taken before work was begun and following the conversion of a storeroom to a Children's room at the Ouachita parish public library on Jackson street. Storeroom At Library Is Made Reading Room Built to scale for youngsters of this area, the children's reading room at the Ouachita Parish Public Library has now been completed and will be open to the public in a two - week open house beginning Monday. During the two-week period a day will be set aside for pupils of the various elementary schools in the parish.

The newest addition to the parish library was sponsored and financed by the Monroe Junior Charity League, which has been working actively in furthering the advantages offered to children in the Twin Cities and throughout the parish.

The room has been transformed in slightly less than two months, from a periodical store room to a children's modern library, complete with small tables and chairs and indirect lighting. Cost of the remodeling and furnishing of the room ran in excess of $2,000 excluding the books, most of which were already in the possession of the library.

Work on the special room was done by the Gilbert Brothers Construction company working closely with Miss Frances Flanders, head parish librarian, and a committee of five from the Junior Charity League. Mrs. Richard Pierce has served as chairman of the committee, which is composed of Mrs. James Brothers, Mrs. Amos Shelton, Mrs. H. B. Hargrove and Mrs. Joe Dixon.

The open house schedule which will be observed by the parish library and elementary schools, in cooperation with the Junior Charity League, will begin Monday during which time the pupils of Lida Benton will be guests of the library. Other schools and their days will be: Barkdull Faulk, Tuesday; Central Grammar, Wednesday; Georgia Tucker, Thursday; Ouachita Parish Grammar school, Friday; Plum Street Elementary, Monday, April 20; Lexington School, Tuesday, April 21; Sherrouse School, Wednesday, April 22 and St. Matthew's Grammar School, Thursday, April 23.

A special invitation has been extended to all parents to visit the children room. "If parents cannot come with their children during the special open house, then we sincerely hope they will come around at their convenience," Miss Flanders and Mrs. Pierce, chairman of the Charity League committee, stated.

The room which is specifically for children up to and through the sixth grade is equipped with two tables, one of which is for the smaller children and the other on a larger scale. Both are of light-colored wood with matching chairs Walls of the room are finished in light green, "a color which it has been proved is easiest on the eyes," Mrs. Pierce said.

Drapes for the single window in the room have a design which is especially pleasing to children. A gay street scene in a typical town at the turn of the century is depicted.

Miss Flanders, in thanking the Junior Charity League for the room, said it was one of the "most needed and desirable additions which could have been made. The children are always coming into the parish library, yet have never had a place 'of their own.' Now, when they come for research or just for browsing, they can go into 'their own room' without any thought of worrying others."

Sharp Chorus Slated At 1-Act Opera

The Northeast State chorus to be used in the one-act opera, "Amelia Goes to the Ball," will give a performance showing the utmost in stage and musical ability, according to faculty directors of the production.

Considered a vitally important part of any opera, the chorus gives background music and support to the soloists as well as presenting important speaking parts and stage actions.

"Amelia Goes to the Ball," a comic opera by Gian-Carlo Menotti, is second on the twin bill opera program to be presented in Brown Auditorium Thursday and Friday nights at 8:15. These entertainment features are under auspices of the Northeast Music Department.

Mozart's "Bastien and Bastienne," casting three soloists and an orchestra, also will be presented on these evenings.

The chorus for the Menotti opera is under the direction of Mrs. Velma Nichols Willey. This group is composed of 24 Northeast musicians — music majors and those interested in music as a hobby. More than ten Northeast Louisiana parishes and three states are represented in this group of singers.

Members of the chorus are: Christine Clampit, Juanita Carpenter, Iva Johnson, Rose Carter, Ernestine Tullos, Polly Ann Head, Sue Hollingshead, Bob Jackson, Danny Sullivan, Dick Rietzell, Marianne Buce, Elaine Brothers, Jennings Wilkins, Johnny Goodwin, Mary Ann McDade, Jane Peterson, Jackie Jones, Margaret Pounds, Cora Lee Wimbish, Joyce Currie, Jane Wallace, Betty Holstead, Ethel Wilburn, Flora Dell Jones.

Eight soloists will be featured in this opera and the entire group of singers will be supported by an ensemble from the Ouachita Valley Civic Orchestra, under direction of Joe Barry Mullins of Northeast's Music faculty. Soprano and mezzo-soprano soloists are Betty Spurlock, Flora Dell Jones, Patricia Guerriero Brown, and Betty Landrum; Sylvester Breard and James Raymick, baritones, and Tommy Spurlock, tenor. These soloists are being coached by Miss Gertrude Sandrock.

Admission to the two operas is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. There will be no reserve seats.

Students Told Of Needs At Angola

"When our building program is completed, Angola will have one of the best prison physical plants in the entire country," eight Northeast State sociology students were told by Warden M. H. Sigler during a visit to the penitentiary.

Sigler estimates it will take from five to six years to complete the construction work.

The students, the first college group to visit the prison since the gates were open by the new state administration, were accompanied by Assistant Professor John A. Pritchett, Jr., sociology teacher here. Following a lengthy tour of the prison camps and a luncheon, the students engaged Warden Sigler in a question-and-answer session in his office.

Angola has 18,000 acres, 12,000 of which are under cultivation, the warden said. It is divided into a number of camps, and has a total population of 2,500. More than 350 of the prisoners are serving life sentences, he said, pointing out that this was a very high percentage.

When completed, the Angola building program will be second "only to the prison set-up in California," he stated. A $4,000,000 appropriation was provided for prison construction recently, but Sigler estimates it will require another $6,000,000 to finish the work. He said it would take at least five years to get an adequate staff to run the prison when building changes are made.

Plans are to centralize all prison compounds, with all men living in one area. Segregation will be carried out as far as possible, the warden said. "We will separate men and women, according to color and crime, with emphasis placed on the separation of first offenders and multiple offenders."

Homosexuality is the biggest problem at Angola, the warden said.

When asked where the average prisoner's trouble originates, Sigler replied that the average inmate at Angola comes from a broken home, as do most convicts. He added that whiskey and narcotics are causes of many men and women committing crimes.

He emphasized strongly the need of a good recreation program. Church attendance ranks high. The chaplain is as important to a prison program as any one man, the warden stated.

He cited instances of violence at the prison, most of which could be traced to the lack of proper recreation facilities.

Those who made the trip were Frank Bubblis of Huttig, Ark., Henry Boyd of Monroe, Elizabeth Douciere, of Hebert, Beverly Sue Hearne of Monroe, Robert Miller of Newton, Tex., Johnie Parkerson of Benton, Jack Reitzell and Charles D. Weaver, both of Monroe.

Mamie Crowns Festival Queen

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower crowned Janet Kaye Bailey, an 18-year-old Ohio beauty, Queen of the 1953 Cherry Blossom Festival today.

It was the first time a President's wife had taken part in this traditional spring ceremony in the capital.

Mrs. Eisenhower and her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, received an ovation from the spectators, who appeared unmindful that the famous Japanese cherry blossoms had already passed the peak of bloom.

Fifteen thousand people attended, in perfect spring weather.

Love Story Behind $ Billion Secret

M-G-M announces with pride that its great production "Above and Beyond" has been selected as one of the year's Ten Best Pictures by the National Board of Review.

Robert Taylor, fresh from his triumphs in "Quo Vadis" and "Ivanhoe," delivers another masterful performance in a powerful drama of today, in which he co-stars with beautiful Eleanor Parker.

The theme of this absorbing picture is the love story behind the Billion Dollar Secret. It is the personal story of a pretty girl who shared the glory and the heartache of being married to a hero. You too will share this glory, this adventure, this nerve-tingling suspense.

Few pictures have ever come to the public with such a wealth of endorsement as "Above and Beyond." It is interesting that famed women columnists such as Louella Parsons, Hedda Hopper, Sheilah Graham; women editors and writers representing such publications as Cosmopolitan, Redbook, Look, Harper's Bazaar, Good Housekeeping, Woman's Home Companion, Vogue, Parents', Better Living and Today's Woman have enthusiastically recommended this production.

Some of them have selected it as Picture of the Month; others predict it will be a contender for the Academy Award; others describe it as "extraordinary, wonderful, spectacular, a wonderful modern love story, a thrilling experience, spine-tingling."

The Management of this Theatre adds its wholehearted recommendation to what is being said in the press of the nation about "Above and Beyond." We predict without reservation that every man, woman and child of this community will applaud it as one of the most exciting and memorable entertainments they have ever seen. Starting Tuesday, 14th at the Tem, starring Robert Taylor and Eleanor Parker.

3 Red Aircraft Are Shot Down By U. S. Pilots

SEOUL, Sunday, April 12 (AP) — Sabre jets shot three Red MIGs out of North Korean skies Saturday, the Air Force said, while an unidentified light plane, presumed Communist, dropped two small bombs on U. S. 10th corps headquarters on the Eastern Front.

A spokesman said no damage or casualties resulted when two 100-pound bombs were dropped about 9:45 p. m. at the corps headquarters. The Eighth Army said there was an alert, but a Fifth Air Force spokesman said he knew nothing about the incident.

In addition to the three MIGs destroyed, the Air Force said pilots claimed three MIGs damaged. The claims were held up pending evaluation of gun camera films of air battles near the Yalu River frontier of Manchuria.

Despite the signing of an agreement for the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners at Panmunjom both the air and ground war continued at a bitter pace.

Atomic Energy In Industry Is Object Of Survey

CWASHINGTON, April 11—UP—The Atomic Energy Commission announced an agreement Saturday under which two firms serving the utilities industry will make a study aimed at industrial production of atomic power in "the next few years."

The new arrangement is part of a mushrooming program for enlistment of private enterprise in peacetime atomic power development the AEC soon will ask Congress to relax the government's presently airtight atomic monopoly to permit private investment in nuclear power.

The AEC said it has completed an agreement with the Pioneer Service & Engineering Co. of Chicago and the Foster Wheeler Corp. of New York under which these firms at their own expense will make a one-year study to:

Determine feasibility of their designing, building, and operating an atomic power plant.

Examine the economic and technical aspects of building the plant "in the next few years."

Determine whether the project will require any research and development work—beyond that already done by the government.

Make recommendations to the AEC on the power project "and industry's role in undertaking and carrying it out."

Pioneer Service is consultant to the electric utilities industry "in all phases of the electric power, power business," the AEC said. Several of its clients, including large utilities in the Midwest and West, are supporting the study.

Foster Wheeler makes equipment for the power, oil refining, and chemical industries.

The Pioneer Service-Foster Wheeler group is the fifth industrial team to undertake atomic power studies in co-operation with the AEC. Because of the atom's fantastic power possibilities, more than 225 firms have indicated interest in "starting new businesses based on atomic energy."

Illinois Plant Is Ripped By Blast

JOPPA, Ill., April 11 (AP)—An explosion inside a furnace jarred the Electric Energy Inc. plant here early today causing an estimated $50,000 damage. No one was injured.

About 200 workmen in the vicinity of the furnace were reported shaken up by the blast.

The steam electric plant is being built to supply power to an atomic energy project across the Ohio River at Paducah, Ky.

Atomic Energy In Industry Is Object Of Survey

CWASHINGTON, April 11—UP—The Atomic Energy Commission announced an agreement Saturday under which two firms serving the utilities industry will make a study aimed at industrial production of atomic power in "the next few years."

The new arrangement is part of a mushrooming program for enlistment of private enterprise in peacetime atomic power development the AEC soon will ask Congress to relax the government's presently airtight atomic monopoly to permit private investment in nuclear power.

The AEC said it has completed an agreement with the Pioneer Service & Engineering Co. of Chicago and the Foster Wheeler Corp. of New York under which these firms at their own expense will make a one-year study to:

Determine feasibility of their designing, building, and operating an atomic power plant.

Examine the economic and technical aspects of building the plant "in the next few years."

Determine whether the project will require any research and development work—beyond that already done by the government.

Make recommendations to the AEC on the power project "and industry's role in undertaking and carrying it out."

Pioneer Service is consultant to the electric utilities industry "in all phases of the electric power business," the AEC said. Several of its clients, including large utilities in the Midwest and West, are supporting the study.

Foster Wheeler makes equipment for the power, oil refining, and chemical industries.

The Pioneer Service-Foster Wheeler group is the fifth industrial team to undertake atomic power studies in co-operation with the AEC. Because of the atom's fantastic power possibilities, more than 225 firms have indicated interest in "starting new businesses based on atomic energy."

Illinois Plant Is Ripped By Blast

JOPPA, Ill., April 11 (AP)—An explosion inside a furnace jarred the Electric Energy Inc. plant here early today causing an estimated $50,000 damage. No one was injured.

About 200 workmen in the vicinity of the furnace were reported shaken up by the blast.

The steam electric plant is being built to supply power to an atomic energy project across the Ohio River at Paducah, Ky.

The number of violins made by Stradivarius has been estimated from 1000 to 3000, with experts reporting at least 325 of these as still in existence.

Canada ranks second to the United States among nations of the world in total output of electrical power per annum.

Abilene Tops Monroe; Play Again Today

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Give the Monroe Sports a quartet of steady pitchers and another dependable catcher and they will be well satisfied to go to work when the Class C Cotton States League opens its season April 21. The pitching may already be in camp, but Manager Charley Harrington isn't certain after only a few days of spring work.

The outfield and infield positions look most secure, particularly the outer garden which promises to be the best Monroe has had this early in the season since the Sports rejoined the circuit in 1950.

Nelson Daehn, all-star outfielder as a rookie last season, is patroling center field. J. T. Jaynes, briefly with Greenville last year before joining Ownesboro and Union City in the Kitty League where he batted .324, is tagged for right field, and Ray Coss, obtained in an El Dorado trade in 1950 and returned after two years' military service, is ticketed for left field. But all three are facing a serious threat from Lewis Stutts, a .287 batter with Alexandria in the Evangeline last year. Stutts played shortstop at Alexandria, and is also getting some infield work with the Sports.

The infield sees three members of the 1952 fourth place club returning, to be joined by "name player," Adrian Burk, quarterback of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. Burk, the former Baylor football hero, is taking a fling at pro baseball for the first time. He's tagged for first base here, taking over the job held by All-Star John Paul Jones, runner-up to Don Allen, Natchez, for the league batting championship last season.

In addition to Manager Charley Harrington, beginning his sophomore season as a club skipper and playing third base, the returning infielders include Shortstop George Andrews, beginning his third year with the Sports, and Bobby Weber of indefinite status. Weber is trying for second base with pressure on from a couple of new prospects, he also spells Harrington at third, and has even seen training camp duty as a catcher to assist Ray Rogers.

Second base is the position seeing the most infield competition. After Weber there are Freddie Harrist and Reed Stephens, both good prospects and Stephens just back from two years' duty in the army air force.

Ray Rogers, the chunky Louisiana native from Homer is back for his sophomore season as a catcher, but he's the only backstop on the roster at the present. Rogers is going to need help. Jim Long, who once played at Jersey City and was with the Sports as a third baseman the latter part of 1952 while Harrington was recovering from a bean-ball experience, has been helping with the catching during training although he is not under contract.

Marvin "Hoppy" Hatcher, the righthander who appeared in two no-hit games last season, heads the pitching corps at the present as the only hurler back from the staff that finished here last year. Hatcher was the victim in the first no-hitter he saw last year, working against Greenville's "Red" Kenny. Hatcher tossed a one-hitter in losing that May 17 game, but he came right back on June 19 to notch a no-hit win over Greenwood.

Among the new crop of hurlers yet to prove their worth to Harrington are Hugh Blanton, Gene Sumerlin, Roy Sorenson, Phil Possessky, Jim Tetrick, Bill Danowski, Johnny Stasney, Leon Fink, and Bill Sharp.

Blanton, Summerlin, Sorenson, Possessky, and Danowski look mighty promising. Blanton, a "hitting pitcher" with a .279 average in '51, won 21 and lost 10 at Crowley in the Evangeline last year. Sorenson posted an 11-15 mark at Blackwell of the defunct K-O-M League last year; Summerlin was 13-12 at Panama City of the Alabama-Florida League; Possessky showed a 7-12 mark at Sherman of the Sooner State; and Danowski is a rookie fresh out of the army who pitched for a service team in Japan in '52.

Blue Sox Take Exhibition Tilt By 9-5 Margin

Scoring in three-run clusters, the Abilene Blue Sox of the West Texas-New Mexico League, defeated the Monroe Sports, 9 to 5, here yesterday afternoon in the opener of a two-game exhibition series at Legion Memorial Stadium. Second game of the series will be played here this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Blue Sox, en route home from their Florida training camp, spotted the Sports three runs in the first two innings, tied the score in the third and went ahead to stay in the fifth.

Both clubs used young pitchers seeking to earn jobs with their respective Class C clubs, and except for the usual spring wildness the hurlers didn't look too bad. The Sports got to Abilene pitching for nine hits, two of them by Nelson Daehn, and the Blue Sox tagged Monroe hurling for seven hits. However, there were 24 bases on balls issued in the game and one batter hit by a pitched ball. Although Monroe drew nine walks in the first two innings, the Sports pitching finally gave the most free passes, 13 to 11.

George Bethany, starting Abilene pitcher, forced in the first run of the game when he walked Daehn, Lou Stutts, Adrian Burk, and J. T. Jaynes. And the next two runs, in the second inning, came the same way on free passes to Daehn, Bill Sharp, Stutt's, Burk, and Jaynes, all after two were out.

Abilene tied it up in the third as Weldon Day and Bill Scopetone led with singles. Ray Coss dropped "Dub" Akins' fly into left, allowing Day to score and putting runners on second and third. Scapetone scored after the catch on Cloyd Pearson's fly to Coss, and a double by Vincent Lautato scored Akins.

In the fifth, a single by Akins, free passes to Pearson, Lautato and Bill Plante, and a double by Bethany brought in three more runs to put the Sox ahead. They wrapped it up with three more in the sixth as Manager I. B. Palmer and Akins walked, Pearson singled, Lautato walked, and an error let in the last Abilene run.

Singles by Daehn, Reed Stephens and Jaynes brought the Sports one run in the sixth, and they added the fifth in the seventh when Manager Charley Harrington walked, advanced on a passed ball and a Jim Long single, and came home on a wild pitch.

Manager Harrington last night announced his choice of pitchers for this afternoon's scrap as Hugh Blanton, the slender hurler who won 21 games for Crowley in the Evangeline last year, and Gene Summerlin. For Abilene, Manager Palmer may work only two with his choice coming from Melvin Grant, Joe Williams, and Harold Hoffman.

Neville Blanks Ruston Bearcats By 3-0 Score

Outstanding fielding on the part of Neville High School baseball squad enable them to win a 3-0 victory over the Ruston Bearcats last night in Legion Memorial Stadium. It was a pitchers' duel between Neville's Art Swanson and Ruston's "Lefty" Layne Martin.

Although outhit, five to four, the Tigers salvaged the victory on good fielding, especially in the Ruston half of the seventh. Although leading 3-0 when Ruston came to bat, Neville faced a major threat in the last inning when, with one man on base, Oxford slugged what seemed to be a certain in-the-park home run. Jackie Neal jumped high into the air to make a one-handed catch for the second out. Then Hilman, Ruston's left fielder, hit a hot ground ball to Wayne Causey at second which took a very bad hop just as it got to him. Causey fielded the ball, however, and threw to first to end the game.

The first break in the all-even ball game came in Neville's half of the third. Ray Rhymes walked. He stole second, and then, when Freddie Frickie hit a bouncing ground ball to shortstop, Seghers threw to first. Wilson, Ruston's first baseman, let the ball get by momentarily, and Rhymes was in to score.

Neville added their other two runs in the fifth. Neal was hit by a pitched ball. He went to second when Rhymes singled. Frickie bunted when he came to bat, and the pitcher muffed the ball in a desperate try for it. This loaded the bases.

Neal scored on Hardy's sacrifice out. Causey hit a high fly to center, which was obviously an easy catch, but Terry, Ruston's center fielder, dropped the ball, scoring Rhymes. Causey and Gannaway struck out, ending the inning.

Kennel Club Will Conduct Classes In Handling Dogs

As a last tune-up for the Northeast Louisiana Kennel Club's sanctioned dog show to be held next Sunday afternoon at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe, members of the club will again conduct a class in handling of dogs for show appearances. Today's classes, open to all owners of pure-bred dogs, will be conducted at Forsythe Park, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, according to Hiller Hesdorffer, club president.

The deadline for entries for next Sunday's show is also set for noon Tuesday, and all owners expecting to show their dogs are being advised to have their entries in the mails for a postmark earlier than noon Tuesday to be accepted. Entry blanks are obtainable from James Cain, radio station KNOE.

Thoroughbred dogs of all breeds are acceptable whether registered or not. The entry fee is $1 per dog at the show next week, but the "school" this afternoon is free.

"Our show is the plan 'A' sanctioned type of match, and if we can show a success we will be eligible next year to put on a championship event entitling dogs to points toward a championship," Hesdorffer said. "A championship match will bring show dogs here from all over the country, insuring the annual success of our show. Right now its up to the owners of pure-bred dogs in our own area to make this sanctioned match a success if we are to win the championship approval of the American Kennel Club."

Although championship points will not be given for next Sunday's show, there will be seven different trophies offered and various ribbons for all breeds.

The advanced sale of admission tickets for the show is already in progress at R. and A. Jewelers and Hiller's Toy and Gift Shop. The admission tickets are 25 cents each.

Suggest Lowering Number Athletes In Olympic Tests

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, April. 11. (AP)— A commission appointed by the International Olympic Committee to study means of reducing the size of the Olympic games has recommended that participation be limited to 5,000 athletes and that the number of officials be reduced proportionately.

The commission, headed by Chancellor Otto Mayer of the International Committee, has asked all international sports federations and national Olympic committees to make similar proposals at the Mexico City Congress of the committee, starting Friday.

The commission suggested the percentage of athletes to represent each international federation be decided by the Olympic Committee in collaboration with these international bodies.

The commission proposed to exclude all substitutes in the individual sports and all "artificial" teams such as gymnastics and fencing. Where team sports are allowed, only eight teams would be selected for the games after regional eliminations.

Women's sports would be included in the program under the committees' plan.

In addition to reducing the number of judges and inspectors, the committee proposed that preference be given to officials of the inviting Nation rather than to foreigners. International juries would be maintained, however.

The committee proposed that the number of places assigned to the press be reduced to 1,000 with 100 additional for photographers and 150 for broadcasters. At Helsinki, the committee reported, 1,800 journalists claimed press seats. The duration of the games would not be altered.

The following sports would be maintained; track and field, gymnastics, boxing, swimming, shooting, equestrian sports, modern pentathlon, bicycling, sculling, canoing, yachting, soccer, basketball, fencing, weight-lifting.

Optional sports would be filed hockey, thandball, archery and water polo. The committee recommended that the following sports not be maintained: trapshooting, pelota, bowling, polo, lawn tennis, table tennis.

Coach Resigns Job

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 11. (AP)—Elmer Ripley, basketball coach at the United States Military Academy for the past two years, resigned today to accept a position with the Harlem Globetrotters.

During his career Ripley has been head coach at Yale, Georgetown, Notre Dame, Columbia and John Carroll. He will join the Globetrotters on Oct. 1, 1953.

Northeast State's Indians put in the sack their fourth victory of the year here yesterday afternoon by walloping the U. S. Naval Station of New Orleans by a one-sided score of 17-4. The game was called at 5:30 p.m. after eight and one-half innings had been played.

The Redskins guaranteed a total of nine hits, as compared to four by the Navy nine. The game was filled by errors, wild pitches and passed balls.

Each team used three hurlers in the contest, with Mark Boatright starting off for Northeast, being relieved by Sydney Langston in the fifth inning, who in turn was relieved by J. B. Nolan in the seventh. The Algiers Naval Station pitchers included Bruce, Svornik and Stonemetz.

Northeast's big inning was in the last of the fourth, when Davis' single over second scored Boatright, starting things off. A wild pitch let Gerald Hare and Harold Davis in. Wesley Jinks came to pay dirt on Tommy Leos' hit. A passed ball let Jo Harrell score.

Clyde (Bobo) Thompson slappd a single to allow Leos to score. Camillo Detore then beat out a slow rollr down to third bas. later scoring on the catcher's error (droppd ball). Clyd Thompson had previously stolen home. Har thn copid Thompson's actions by doing the same thing. A wild throw to third by th catchr allowed two more runs as Davis and Jinks scord. Altogthr in this inning the Indians scored 12 runs on six hits.

First team to score in the game wast h Navy. Alxandr battd in Monahan. The Navy diamondmen scord again in th third inning when Alexander again boosted his RBI total to thr, scoring Mli and Monahan. It was the top of th ninth bfor th Sailors tallid again. Jagadenski's double scored Montgomry from scond bas.

Two Northeast runs came in the first inning on rrors by Jagadnski and two passed balls. In the last of th svnth Langston's bunt-hit snt Clyd Thompson home. Thompson had doubled previously. In th last of th ighth, pinch-hitter Bob Bennett slapped out a long ball to th cntr fielder, who dropped it, allowing Bnntt and his long strid to carry him completely around the bass. Two runs wr chalkd up in this frame, since Jinks came hom bfor Bnntt.

Louisiana Training Institute had a baseball game on tap for today and a track meet scheduled here for next Saturday.

The Farmerville Trade School baseball team plays the Pelicans here this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the L. T. I. diamond with Joe Dunn, a two-time loser despite allowing averages of only 3½ hits and averaging 12½ strikeouts per game, again toiling for L. T. I.

Next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the Pelican emdermen face Grayson High School in a dual meet as a tuneup for the North Louisiana rally to be held the following weekend at Louisiana Tech.

L. T. I. has only two boys back from last year's team, Henry LaFleur, who was second in the district in the quarter-mile run, and first in the half mile and Richard Minton, sprinter, hurdler, and member of the mile relay team.

Texas Prep Elevens May Use Old Rules

AUSTIN, Tex., April 11 (AP) — Texas high schools may use the liberal (platoon system) substitution rules in football games this fall, the State Interscholastic League said Friday.

The league announced that administrators of Texas schools playing 11-man football in league competition voted overwhelmingly to reject the restricted substitution rules set up by the N. C. A. A. to govern collegiate football next fall.

Texas high schools generally have played under N. C. A. A. football rules set up for collegiate games. R. D. Eddy, chairman of the league's state executive committee, said the vote is the first time the league has repudiated any part of the N. C. A. A. rules.

Royal Bay Gem In 1st After Great Bowie Late Drive

BOWIE, Md., April 11. (AP)—Royal Bay Gem came through the sunlight of the stretch like a dark streak from last place today, passing 14 other 3-year-olds to win the Chesapeake Stakes and stamp himself a definite candidate for the Kentucky Derby May 3.

Eugene Constantin Jr's black colt took command shortly after the pack headed for the finish of the mile and a sixteenth race and had two lengths to spare on the runner-up.

The second spot was taken by Robert P. Levy's Hueso, a head in front of Brookfield Farms' Iscemoothie. The betting favorite of the crowd of 21,541, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Social Outcast, was fourth.

Royal Bay Gem's time of 1:47 wasn't outstanding on the fast track, but the manner in which jockey Jim Combest was able to take him to the front when it counted was.

The second choice at the betting windows, Royal Bay Gem returned $7, $4.60 and $3.40. His owner pocketed $24,735 to add to the $57,000 won previously this year by the colt.

The stable announced Royal Bay Gem will be shipped next week to Kentucky for completion of training for the Derby. He also is eligible for the Preakness and Belmont, other fixtures in the triple crown of racing.

Northeast Track Slate Altered; One Home Meet

Changes in the Northeast State track schedule were announced here today by Athletic Director-Track Coach Arnold Kilpatrick.

Instead of the meet scheduled here on April 14, the side of the contest has been switched to Pineville. Entrance of Delta State Teachers into the meet brought about the decision to move the meet to Pineville. Louisiana College and Northeast State will compete in addition to Delta State.

This means that Northeast State will have only one track meet at home this season. McNeese State College will come to Monroe on April 17 to run against the Indians thinclads. The contest for McNeese was originally set for April 18 here, but McNeese requested the change in dates because of a conflict in engagements in Lake Charles.

Northeast's meet against McNeese on April 17 will be their first one at home since the beginning of the season. In previous contests the Redskins have taken fifth place at Natchitoches in the Northwestern Relays, and two third places in meets at Ruston against Centenary, Tech and Northwestern trackmen.

Northeast State will journey to Shreveport on April 25 to complete their track season for this year when they meet the Centenary Gentlemen on the cinder paths and in the field.

Northeast State launched its first senior college track team last year, entering in only two meets, against Louisiana College and Mississippi College. In the Louisiana College meet the Indians copped five first places, place ribbons in the Mississippi College tournament.

The Northeast State home track meet will begin at 1 p.m. and will be run at Brown Field. The public is invited to witness the events. No admission will be charged.

National Buys Ex-Evangeline League Umpire

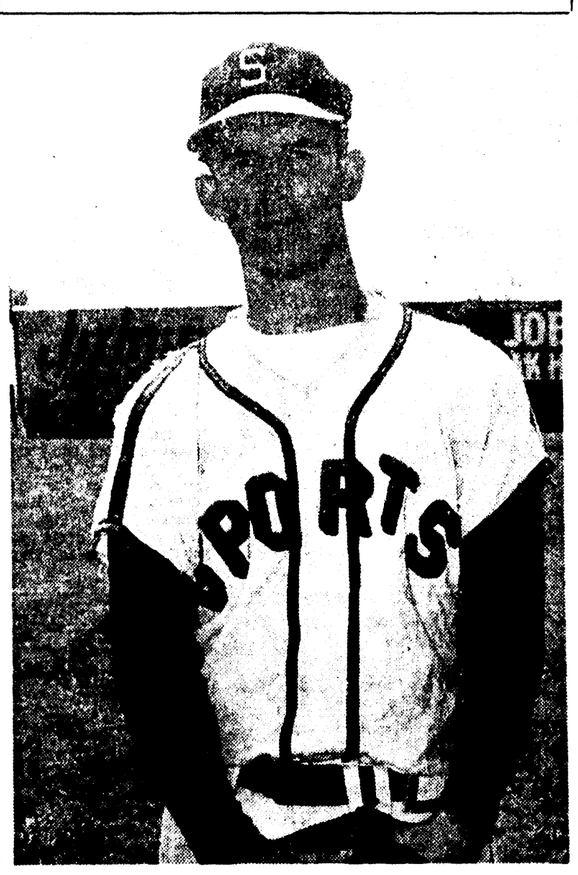

CINCINNATI, April 11 (AP)—Warren C. Giles, president of the National League, today announced purchase of Umpire Hal Hayworth Dixon from the American Association.

Dixon, who becomes the league's 17th umpire, was acquired last month on a trial basis, and worked a full schedule of exhibiton games in Florida.

He is 32 years old, six feet, 3½ inches tall, and weighs 230 pounds. His home is in Mount Vernon Springs, N. C.

Dixon played one year of minor league baseball. He broke into umpiring in the Evangeline League in 1948. He worked the 1949 and 1950 seasons and most of 1951 in the Class B Tri-State League, and was purchased in August of 1951 by the American Association.

A Day With A Sport

AMONG THE ROOKIES seeking to pry their way into the outfield for the Monroe Sports is Gene Robinson, a native son of Louisiana who calls Jonesboro home. The 21-year-old prospect, who is a graduate of Friendship High School and attended Northwestern Louisiana State for two years, is up from the Jackson-Bienville League where he performed with the Danville Deacons last year. In 1951 he played with Hodge in the Big Eight League. Married and the father of a two-year-old son, Robinson weighs in at 170 pounds and is six feet tall. (Staff Photo by Leon Noland, Jr.)

Abilene Tops Monroe; Play Again Today

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Give the Monroe Sports a quartet of steady pitchers and another dependable catcher and they will be well satisfied to go to work when the Class C Cotton States League opens its season April 21. The pitching may already be in camp, but Manager Charley Harrington isn't certain after only a few days of spring work.

The outfield and infield positions look most secure, particularly the outer garden which promises to be the best Monroe has had this early in the season since the Sports rejoined the circuit in 1950.

Nelson Daehn, all-star outfielder as a rookie last season, is patroling center field. J. T. Jaynes, briefly with Greenville last year before joining Ownesboro and Union City in the Kitty League where he batted .324, is tagged for right field, and Ray Coss, obtained in an El Dorado trade in 1950 and returned after two years' military service, is ticketed for left field. But all three are facing a serious threat from Lewis Stutts, a .287 batter with Alexandria in the Evangeline last year. Stutts played shortstop at Alexandria, and is also getting some infield work with the Sports.

The infield sees three members of the 1952 fourth place club returning, to be joined by "name player," Adrian Burk, quarterback of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. Burk, the former Baylor football hero, is taking a fling at pro baseball for the first time. He's tagged for first base here, taking over the job held by All-Star John Paul Jones, runner-up to Don Allen, Natchez, for the league batting championship last season.

In addition to Manager Charley Harrington, beginning his sophomore season as a club skipper and playing third base, the returning infielders include Shortstop George Andrews, beginning his third year with the Sports, and Bobby Weber of indefinite status. Weber is trying for second base with pressure on from a couple of new prospects, he also spells Harrington at third, and has even seen training camp duty as a catcher to assist Ray Rogers.

Second base is the position seeing the most infield competition. After Weber there are Freddie Harrist and Reed Stephens, both good prospects and Stephens just back from two years' duty in the army air force.

Ray Rogers, the chunky Louisiana native from Homer is back for his sophomore season as a catcher, but he's the only backstop on the roster at the present. Rogers is going to need help. Jim Long, who once played at Jersey City and was with the Sports as a third baseman the latter part of 1952 while Harrington was recovering from a bean-ball experience, has been helping with the catching during training although he is not under contract.

Marvin "Hoppy" Hatcher, the righthander who appeared in two no-hit games last season, heads the pitching corps at the present as the only hurler back from the staff that finished here last year. Hatcher was the victim in the first no-hitter he saw last year, working against Greenville's "Red" Kenny. Hatcher tossed a one-hitter in losing that May 17 game, but he came right back on June 19 to notch a no-hit win over Greenwood.

Among the new crop of hurlers yet to prove their worth to Harrington are Hugh Blanton, Gene Sumerlin, Roy Sorenson, Phil Possessky, Jim Tetrick, Bill Danowski, Johnny Stasney, Leon Fink, and Bill Sharp.

Blanton, Summerlin, Sorenson, Possessky, and Danowski look mighty promising. Blanton, a "hitting pitcher" with a .279 average in '51, won 21 and lost 10 at Crowley in the Evangeline last year. Sorenson posted an 11-15 mark at Blackwell of the defunct K-O-M League last year; Summerlin was 13-12 at Panama City of the Alabama-Florida League; Possessky showed a 7-12 mark at Sherman of the Sooner State; and Danowski is a rookie fresh out of the army who pitched for a service team in Japan in '52.

Blue Sox Take Exhibition Tilt By 9-5 Margin

Scoring in three-run clusters, the Abilene Blue Sox of the West Texas-New Mexico League, defeated the Monroe Sports, 9 to 5, here yesterday afternoon in the opener of a two-game exhibition series at Legion Memorial Stadium. Second game of the series will be played here this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Blue Sox, en route home from their Florida training camp, spotted the Sports three runs in the first two innings, tied the score in the third and went ahead to stay in the fifth.

Both clubs used young pitchers seeking to earn jobs with their respective Class C clubs, and except for the usual spring wildness the hurlers didn't look too bad. The Sports got to Abilene pitching for nine hits, two of them by Nelson Daehn, and the Blue Sox tagged Monroe hurling for seven hits. However, there were 24 bases on balls issued in the game and one batter hit by a pitched ball. Although Monroe drew nine walks in the first two innings, the Sports pitching finally gave the most free passes, 13 to 11.

George Bethany, starting Abilene pitcher, forced in the first run of the game when he walked Daehn, Lou Stutts, Adrian Burk, and J. T. Jaynes. And the next two runs, in the second inning, came the same way on free passes to Daehn, Bill Sharp, Stutt's, Burk, and Jaynes, all after two were out.

Abilene tied it up in the third as Weldon Day and Bill Scopetone led with singles. Ray Coss dropped "Dub" Akins' fly into left, allowing Day to score and putting runners on second and third. Scapetone scored after the catch on Cloyd Pearson's fly to Coss, and a double by Vincent Lautato scored Akins.

In the fifth, a single by Akins, free passes to Pearson, Lautato and Bill Plante, and a double by Bethany brought in three more runs to put the Sox ahead. They wrapped it up with three more in the sixth as Manager I. B. Palmer and Akins walked, Pearson singled, Lautato walked, and an error let in the last Abilene run.

Singles by Daehn, Reed Stephens and Jaynes brought the Sports one run in the sixth, and they added the fifth in the seventh when Manager Charley Harrington walked, advanced on a passed ball and a Jim Long single, and came home on a wild pitch.

Manager Harrington last night announced his choice of pitchers for this afternoon's scrap as Hugh Blanton, the slender hurler who won 21 games for Crowley in the Evangeline last year, and Gene Summerlin. For Abilene, Manager Palmer may work only two with his choice coming from Melvin Grant, Joe Williams, and Harold Hoffman.

Neville Blanks Ruston Bearcats By 3-0 Score

Outstanding fielding on the part of Neville High School baseball squad enable them to win a 3-0 victory over the Ruston Bearcats last night in Legion Memorial Stadium. It was a pitchers' duel between Neville's Art Swanson and Ruston's "Lefty" Layne Martin.

Although outhit, five to four, the Tigers salvaged the victory on good fielding, especially in the Ruston half of the seventh. Although leading 3-0 when Ruston came to bat, Neville faced a major threat in the last inning when, with one man on base, Oxford slugged what seemed to be a certain in-the-park home run. Jackie Neal jumped high into the air to make a one-handed catch for the second out. Then Hillman, Ruston's left fielder, hit a hot ground ball to Wayne Causey at second which took a very bad hop just as it got to him. Causey fielded the ball, however, and threw to first to end the game.

The first break in the all-even ball game came in Neville's half of the third. Ray Rhymes walked. He stole second, and then, when Freddie Frickie hit a bouncing ground ball to shortstop, Seghers threw to first. Wilson, Ruston's first baseman, let the ball get by momentarily, and Rhymes was in to score.

Neville added their other two runs in the fifth. Neal was hit by a pitched ball. He went to second when Rhymes singled. Frickie bunted when he came to bat, and the pitcher muffed the ball in a desperate try for it. This loaded the bases.

Neal scored on Hardy's sacrifice out. Causey hit a high fly to center, which was obviously an easy catch, but Terry, Ruston's center fielder, dropped the ball, scoring Rhymes. Causey and Gannaway struck out, ending the inning.

Kennel Club Will Conduct Classes In Handling Dogs

As a last tune-up for the Northeast Louisiana Kennel Club's sanctioned dog show to be held next Sunday afternoon at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe, members of the club will again conduct a class in handling of dogs for show appearances. Today's classes, open to all owners of pure-bred dogs, will be conducted at Forsythe Park, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, according to Hiller Hesdorffer, club president.

The deadline for entries for next Sunday's show is also set for noon Tuesday, and all owners expecting to show their dogs are being advised to have their entries in the mails for a postmark earlier than noon Tuesday to be accepted. Entry blanks are obtainable from James Cain, radio station KNOE.

Thoroughbred dogs of all breeds are acceptable whether registered or not. The entry fee is $1 per dog at the show next week, but the "school" this afternoon is free.

"Our show is the plan 'A' sanctioned type of match, and if we can show a success we will be eligible next year to put on a championship event entitling dogs to points toward a championship," Hesdorffer said. "A championship match will bring show dogs here from all over the country, insuring the annual success of our show. Right now its up to the owners of pure-bred dogs in our own area to make this sanctioned match a success if we are to win the championship approval of the American Kennel Club."

Although championship points will not be given for next Sunday's show, there will be seven different trophies offered and various ribbons for all breeds.

The advanced sale of admission tickets for the show is already in progress at R. and A. Jewelers and Hiller's Toy and Gift Shop. The admission tickets are 25 cents each.

Suggest Lowering Number Athletes In Olympic Tests

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, April 11. (AP)— A commission appointed by the International Olympic Committee to study means of reducing the size of the Olympic.. games has recommended that participation be limited to 5,000 athletes and that the number of officials be reduced proportionately.

The commission, headed by Chancellor Otto Mayer of the International Committee, has asked all international sports federations and national Olympic committees to make similar proposals at the Mexico City Congress of the committee, starting Friday.

The commission suggested the percentage of athletes to represent each international federation be decided by the Olympic Committee in collaboration with these international bodies.

The commission proposed to exclude all substitutes in the individual sports and all "artificial" teams such as gymnastics and fencing. Where team sports are allowed, only eight teams would be selected for the games after regional eliminations.

Women's sports would be inincluded in the program under the committees' plan.

In addition to reducing the number of judges and inspectors, the committee proposed that preference be given to officials of the inviting Nation rather than to foreigners. International juries would be maintained, however.

The committee proposed that the number of places assigned to the press be reduced to 1,000 with 100 additional for photographers and 150 for broadcasters. At Helsinki, the committee reported, 1,800 journalists claimed press seats. The duration of the games would not be altered.

The following sports would be maintained; track and field, gymnastics, boxing, swimming, shooting, equestrian sports, modern pentathlon, bicycling, sculling, canoing, yachting, soccer, basketball, fencing, weight-lifting.

Optional sports would be filed hockey, thandball, archery and water polo. The committee recommended that the following sports not be maintained: trapshooting, pelota, bowling, polo, lawn tennis, table tennis.

Pels To Meet Trade School On LTI Field

Louisiana Training Institute had a baseball game on tap for today and a track meet scheduled here for next Saturday.

The Farmerville Trade School baseball team plays the Pelicans here this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the L. T. I. diamond with Joe Dunn, a two-time loser despite allowing averages of only 3½ hits and averaging 12½ strikeouts per game, again toiling for L. T. I.

Next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the Pelican cindermen face Grayson High School in a dual meet as a tuneup for the North Louisiana rally to be held the following weekend at Louisiana Tech.

L. T. I. has only two boys back from last year's team, Henry LaFleur, who was second in the district in the quarter-mile run, and first in the half mile and Richard Minton, sprinter, hurdler, and member of the mile relay team.

Texas Prep Elevens May Use Old Rules

AUSTIN, Tex., April 11 (AP) — Texas high schools may use the liberal (platoon system) substitution rules in football games this fall, the State Interscholastic League said Friday.

The league announced that administrators of Texas schools playing 11 - man football in league competition voted overwhelmingly to reject the restricted substitution rules set up by the N. C. A. A. to govern collegiate football next fall.

Texas high schools generally have played under N. C. A. A. football rules set up for collegiate games. R. D. Eddy, chairman of the league's state executive committee, said the vote is the first time the league has repudiated any part of the N. C. A. A. rules.

Royal Bay Gem In 1st After Great Bowie Late Drive

BOWIE, Md., April 11. (AP)—Royal Bay Gem came through the sunlight of the stretch like a dark streak from last place today, passing 14 other 3-year-olds to win the Chesapeake Stakes and stamp himself a definite candidate for the Kentucky Derby May 3.

Eugene Constantin Jr's black colt took command shortly after the pack headed for the finish of the mile and a sixteenth race and had two lengths to spare on the runner-up.

The second spot was taken by Robert P. Levy's Hueso, a head in front of Brookfield Farms' Isasmoothie. The betting favorite of the crowd of 21,541, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Social Outcast, was fourth.

Royal Bay Gem's time of 1:47 wasn't outstanding on the fast track, but the manner in which jockey Jim Combest was able to take him to the front when it counted was.

The second choice at the betting windows, Royal Bay Gem returned $7, $4.80 and $3.40. His owner pocketed $24,755 to add to the $57,000 won previously this year by the colt.

The stable announced Royal Bay Gem will be shipped next week to Kentucky for completion of training for the Derby. He also is eligible for the Preakness and Belmont, other fixtures in the triple crown of racing.

McGonagill, Beard Clash For State Amateur Title

Majors, Lee Lose Out In Louisiana Golf Semi-Finals

BATON ROUGE, April 11 (AP) — Defending champion Jimmy McGonagill of Shreveport and young Tommy Beard of Louisiana State University blasted their way into the championship round of the state amateur golf tournament today with easy semi-final victories.

McGonagill who has won the state crown six times, beat Lamar Loe, LSU golfer from Tallulah, 8 and 7.

Tommy Beard of Baton Rouge, runnerup to McGonagill last year, got another crack at the perennial champ by eliminating D. P. Majors of New Orleans 8 and 6.

Beard defeated Majors in last year's semi-final round before bowing to McGonagill 3-1 in the championship match play.

Beard outplayed the former New Orleans city champ in every way today and had a five hole advantage at the halfway mark in the 32-hole semi-final.

McGonagill's strong point was his effortless and accurate putting which made up for occasional wide putting which made up for occasional wide of the mark approach shots.

He had the round's best medal score with two over par for 29 holes on the par 72 6,114-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course.

Seeking an unprecedented sixth straight championship as well as the distinction of being the first man to hold the title seven times, McGonagill led 9-up at the end of the first 18 holes.

Loe rallied briefly in the front nine of the second round and was seven down at the turn. However he three-putted the final hole while McGonagill made a par to win the match.

The first round of tomorrow's finals begins at 9 a. m. The last 18 holes will start at 2 p. m.

4-Man Softball Outfit Will Show Here Friday

Monroe's all-star softball team will be busy this week getting ready for the first softball game of the season here Friday night when Sam Rubin, Jr., sends his stars against the invading "King and His Court," a nation touring four- man team that has been sweeping past regulation-sized clubs across the country with ease.

Eddie Feigner, rated by many as the most sensation softball pitcher ever to show, is the head man of the four-man club. He throws strikes from all over the field, and, as an exhibition specialty, strikes out batters while blindfolded.

The King and His Court is being brought to Monroe in the interest of Little League baseball, all proceeds from the Friday game to go to the advancement of the Little League program for Monroe and West Monroe.

Tickets are already on advanced sale at R. and A. Jewelry, Lockhart's Sports Shop, and Hunt and Whitaker's Sporting Goods.

Intercollegiate Fistic Title Won By Idaho Staters

POCATELLO, Idaho, April 11 (AP) — Idaho State College won the National Intercollegiate boxing championship tonight, battling to three victories in the first six fights of the title round.

The Idaho State Bengals' Olympic boxer Ellsworth (Spider) Webb put on the clincher when he stopped Robert (Pete) Potter of Virginia in the second round of their 156-pound fight.

That gave Idaho State 25 points and no other team could catch up.

Earlier winners for the Bengals were Vic Kobe who won the 119 pound title and Paddy Garver who shared honors in the 132-pound division.

Kobe used a two-fisted attack in the second round to soften Gary Garber, 4-foot, 11-inch Maryland boxer, and went on to win a unanimous 3-0 decision.

The Bengals' Garver pummeled Gil Inaba of Washington State to also win a unanimous decision.

Louisiana State, team leader after last night's semi-final round, lost its chance at the team title when one of its three finalists lost tonight. The Tiger boxers would have had to win all three of their bouts tonight to win the championship. A sweep would have left them with 26 points.

The Tigers' 125-pounder, Bobby Jackson, lost when he suffered a cut over his left eye in the 125-pound final. The doctor ruled he could not continue and the decision was awarded to Mike Guerrero of San Jose State.

Calvin Clary of Louisiana State won the 139-pound title to keep the Tigers in contention. He pounded out a 3-0 decision over Anthony Flore of Penn State. Clary piled up points with a first-round knockdown.

Sagittarius Cops Jamaica Handicap In Stretch Duel

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)— Sagittarious, a seven-year - old black horse owned by a Long Island plumbing contractor, upset the dope today when he outfought Mrs. Samuel M. Pistorio's Tuscany in a stirring stretch duel to capture the $23,400 Jamaica Handicap by the margin of a very short head.

It was a whirlwind finish for young jockey Bennie Green, who got the mount late in the afternoon. But he was in there at the finish to get $16,150 for owner Phil Weinsier, who races under the name of the Winding Way Farm.

The Woolford Farm's nine-year-old Delegate, third in this race last year, was dead last in ninth place about 12 lengths behind the leaders with a half mile to go. But he surged up in the stretch to get third money, just two lengths behind Sagittarius and Tuscany.

Jan Burke's Squared Away, winner of the Paumonok Handicap here April 1 and a slight second choice to Tuscany, finished fourth, another three and a half lengths in arrears.

Another bulging crowd of 47,219 crammed the premises, and was heading toward a $3,000,000 betting day at the mutual windows. They bet $306,509 on the Jamaica Handicap alone.

Those who took a chance on Sagittarius got a $25.20, $9.30 and $6.50 payoff for $2 across the board. Tuscany paid $4.10 and $3.20, and Delegate $6.30.

Jockey Conn McCreary brought home the Woodvale Farm's Modest Pete, a Kentucky Derby - Preakness-Belmont eligible, in the six furlong Mapleton Purse proceeding the feature. The time was 1:11 three-fifth's, and the winner paid $17.90.

Patty, Bartzen Gain Finals In Naples Tourney

NAPLES, April 11. (AP)—Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., and Budge Patty of Los Angeles swept into the final round of the Naples International Tennis Tournament, the young Texan with ease and the California veteran with some difficulty.

Bartzen's left - handed shots completely confused Gianni Cucelli of Italy, as the southpaw breezed to a 6-3, 6-2 victory. The five games Bartzen did drop made a total of only 20 he's lost in the tourney thus far.

Patty battled through a gruelling match with Ladistaw Skonecki, a self - exiled Pole now living in Spain, 6-0, 2-6, 8-6. The veteran internationalist does not have to meet Bartzen until Monday, however.

Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., moved into the women's final with a 7-5, 6-2 victory over Pat Ward of England, and will meet Dotta Zehden of Germany tomorrow. The German player trounced Erica Vollmer of Germany, 6-3, 6-1.

Bartzen and Patty were eliminated in the doubles semi-finals by Skonecki and New Zealand's George Worthington, 9-7, 6-2.

Mrs. Knode also teamed with Worthington to breeze into the quarter-finals with a 6-0, 6-0 victory over Michele Bourbonnais of France and Tony Sarte of England.

City Softball League Meets Again Monday

A third meeting of the City Softball League will be held tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock at the Monroe Recreation Center in an effort to reorganize the men's circuit for the season. Few teams are ready to go.

"It is felt that sponsors and players can be secured, but we desperately need managers for the prospective teams," Jack Hesketh, recreation director, said.

Hesketh said a player draft can be conducted if necessary to carry on the league this year.

'Babe' Awaits Operation

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

BEAUMONT, Tex., April 11 (AP)— Babe Didrikson Zaharias, who never was stopped by anything on the athletic field, met her match today when physicians found she had a malignant condition, obviously cancer, and must undergo a major operation.

It may mean the end of the.... greatest athletic career of any woman— a career that spanned two decades and took her from teenage stardom in the Olympic games to the pinnacle of golf and excellence in any sport she ever tried.

Mrs. Zaharias heard the fateful words at noon when the results of tests by five physicians were announced--that she has a malignancy of the lower rectum and must undergo surgery. The operation is to be performed in about five days and the physicians said they thought it would correct the condition "but whether it will return is something else again."

The operation probably will be in Hotel Dieu here where the Babe has been for three days undergoing x-rays and tests to determine the malady that knocked her from the woman's golf tour.

"Tell everybody hello," was all Mrs. Zaharias had to say from her flower-banked room when informed of what the diagnosis showed.

It was a mighty blow to one of the greatest competitors of all time. The Babe had reached such perfection in sports that if she didn't win her fans considered it a calamity.

The brief announcement, made by the physicians who had conducted the tests--one in Fort Worth and four in Beaumont--Read: "The examining physicians and x - ray laboratory technicians agree that her condition is a malignancy and that she will undergo major surgery after the proper preparation."

The operation will be at Hotel Dieu if the proper specialists are obtained, the statement said. None of the physicians would permit use of his name.

Only Sunday, the Babe had won her second golf tournament of the year--the Babe Zaharias Open, named for her here. A native of Port Arthur, Tex., the Babe came to Beaumont at the age of two .... and lived here 15 years, developing into such a great basketball player that an insurance company in Dallas brought her to that city to play with its team. She was All-America twice and sparked the Dallas sextet--the Golden Cyclones --to the National AAU Championship.

Mrs. Zaharias stopped off in Fort Worth for a checkup, explaining that she had been feeling weak and tired, and what the Fort Worth physicians found sent her back to Beaumont to enter the hospital.

The Babe was cheerful all the way and predicted that she would return to sports soon but there was worry in her face despite the thin-lipped smiles.

Mrs. Zaharias had undergone a hernia operation in Beaumont last year. But the attending physicians said there was no relation between the operation and her present condition.

The spokesman for the physicians would not forecast on Mrs. Zaharias' future in golf. He did not think, however, that her golfing had brought on her present condition. "It is just one of those .... mysteries of malignancy," he said.

No one in authority would say exactly what Mrs. Zaharias' ailment is but there appeared no doubt but that it was cancer.

The Babe, daughter of a Norweigan ship's carpenter--Ole Didriksen--first attracted national attention in 1932 when she won the women's National AAU track and field championship single- handed, topping in five events and tying in another. Then she went to the Olympic games and won three events--all the officials would allow her to enter--but she was ruled out of one of them, the high jump, for using improper form in going over the bar. She bettered world's records in all three.

Previously, she had earned acclaim by leading the Golden Cyclones to the greatest glory a Dallas girls basketball team ever knew.

The Babe was a thin but wiry girl with tow hair held back by spit curls. She was a hurdler, sprinter, jumper and weight star in track and she averaged over 20 points per game in the two years she played basketball with the Golden Cyclones.

She played softball and baseball, several times appearing with professional teams in the latter sport. She could throw a baseball as far as a man.

The Babe turned to golf after her Olympic conquests but her amateur standing was removed by the AAU after her picture appeared in an automobile advertisement. But she waited the required time and regained her amateur status in golf. She won all the amateur tournaments, including the British, then turned professional where she won all the championships, too. In recent years golf, endorsements, motion pictures and other enterprises have netted her between $100,000 and $200,000 a year. She and her husband own a golf course near Tampa, Fla. Today she weighs about 140 pounds and dresses in fashion.

McIntyre, Jones Spark Mangham In 14-2 Victory

MANGHAM, La., April 11. (Special — Paced by veteran First Baseman Bob McIntyre, Mangham High School's team of youngsters defeated Fort Necessity this week, 14-2, in the opening game of the season for Coach Buck Hollis' Dragons.

McIntyre, a senior, collected a triple, a double, and a single, driving in five runs. Claude Jones, sophomore hurler, held Fort Necessity to two hits, one a triple by his rival pitcher, Turner. Jones aided his own cause with two singles and a double.

Shelton Sharbono, sophomore shortstop, and Sidney McKay, sophomore second sacker, came up with a pair of timely twin killings for the Dragons. Johnny Boughton, a junior, was Jones' catcher. Jimmy Lowery, an eighth grader, rounds out the Mangham infield at third base. The Dragon outfield includes Paul Rieger, Prentice Jones, and Manzy Brown.

Next Tuesday afternoon Mangham goes to Baskin to meet Coach Bagwell's club, and next Friday night the Dragons will be at home to St. Matthew's of Monroe for a game beginning at 8 o'clock.

Billy Sandow, Ex-Wrestler, Shoots Self; Near Death

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 11. (AP)—Billy Sandow, 52, of Toledo, O., a professional wrestler and grandson of the famed Strongman Eugene Sandow, was near death today from a bullet wound in the head which police said was self-inflicted.

Patrolman J. C. Brock reported the wrestler fired the bullet while lying on the bed of his trailer while his wife, Virginia, ate breakfast a few feet away. The gun fell beside the bed.

Physicians at Mound Park Hospital said the bullet entered the right temple and lodged in his brain. His condition was "very critical."

Police Capt. Evan A. Whittier quoted Mrs. Sandow as saying her husband had been despondent since he was seriously injured in an automobile accident in Idaho last January.

"He was afraid he would never reach his peak as a top wrestler again," he quoted her as saying.

Sandow was widely known in wrestling circles throughout the United States. He was to meet Austin Shivers of Tampa in a match here Wednesday night.

Promoter Pat O'Hara identified Sandow as the grandson of the famous strong man.

L. H. Shearer, a former Chicago policeman whose trailer was just across the road, said he heard the shot and started for the Sandow vehicle just as Mrs. Sandow ran out screaming for help.

The couple registered at the trailer park a week ago.

Lack Of Entries Cancels Monday Race At Jamaica

NEW YORK, April 11. (AP)—It was apparent today nobody wants to hook up with Native Dancer, Alfred Vanderbilt's unbeaten Kentucky Derby favorite, until there is a rich purse worth the effort despite the possibility of taking a sound licking.

Because of insufficient entries, the six furlong assault purse scheduled Monday with a $7,500 value, was cancelled and Native Dancer must wait to make his 1953 racing debut in the Gotham Stakes.

The Gotham, carrying $30,000 in added money, is over the one mile route a week from today, in which all entries will carry 120 pounds.

Jamaica officials didn't disclose how many entries were received for the Assault Purse but one source indicated only one other unidentified three-year-old had been entered.

Native Dancer's slightly revised pre-derby program now calls for a public workout at Jamaica Tuesday afternoon, the Gotham Stakes April 18, the $100,000 Wood Memorial at a mile and one-eighth April 25, then the big one for another $100,000 at Louisville May 2.

McLendon To Air Recreated Major Scraps At Night

DALLAS, Tex., April 11. (AP)—Gordon McLendon, who has a 12-million-dollar suit pending against 13 major league baseball clubs, says he's going back on the air this season with a "game of the night" broadcast.

The broadcast is to be carried over a new radio chain, Knickerbocker Network. Formation of the network was announced today by Ray A. Lewis, who will be its general manager.

McLendon, 31, who build "recreated" broadcasts of major league baseball games into a far flung radio empire, said that his Liberty Broadcasting System dwindled away last year when he was barred from broadcasting big league baseball. He said the reason he was "tossed off the air" was the claim that his broadcasts hurt attendance at minor league baseball games.

The new series of broadcasts will occur at a time when most minor league baseball teams are playing.

Asked if he felt his nighttime broadcasts would hur. minor league attendance, McLendon said:

"I hope the minor league will view it as free advertising for baseball, which it is."

The announcement said the networks were not going to charge the major league clubs for broadcasting.

"Newspapers don't charge baseball for reporting it and advertising it, and I guess I won't either," McLendon said.

The first game to be broadcast will be Tuesday night between St. Louis and Detroit of the American League.

McLendon said the broadcasts would be "recreated" from reports of the game as it is being played. He said later this season, some of the games might be broadcast "live" or direct from the playing site.

The youthful radio executive sued the major league baseball clubs for the 12 million on the grounds they had damaged his network because the ywould not let him broadcast their baseball games.

Aussie Olympic Members Depart For Mexico City

SYDNEY, April 10. (AP)—Hugh R. Weir and Arthur W. Coles, Australia's official Olympic emassaries, left today for Mexico City and the meeting of the International Olympic Committee on Friday. Both were confident the 1956 games would be held at Melbourne as scheduled.

William P. Barry, who will represent the city of Melbourne at the meeting, will leave by plane Monday.

Coles, asked what chance Melbourne had of keeping the games, said "it isn't a chance, it is a ... certainty. We had a little teething trouble about finances but that is all over now."

For a time it appeared that Melbourne might have to give up the games because of financial troubles and political squabbles but these all were ironed out two weeks ago.

McGonagill, Beard Clash For State Amateur Title

Majors, Loe Lose Out In Louisiana Golf Semi-Finals

BATON ROUGE, April 11 (AP) — Defending champion Jimmy McGonagill of Shreveport and young Tommy Beard of Louisiana State University blasted their way into the championship round of the state amateur golf tournament today with easy semi-final victories.

McGonagill who has won the state crown six times, beat Lamar Loe, LSU golfer from Tallulah, 8 and 7.

Tommy Beard of Baton Rouge, runnerup to McGonagill last year, got another crack at the perennial champ by eliminating D. P. Majors of New Orleans 8 and 6.

Beard defeated Majors in last year's semi-final round before bowing to McGonagill 3-1 in the championship match play.

Beard outplayed the former New Orleans city champ in every way today and had a five hole advantage at the halfway mark in the 32-hole semi-final.

McGonagill's strong point was his effortless and accurate putting which made up for occasional wide putting which made up for occasional wide of the mark approach shots.

He had the round's best medal score with two over par for 29 holes on the par 72 6,114-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course.

Seeking an unprecedented sixth straight championship as well as the distinction of being the first man to hold the title seven times, McGonagill led 9-up at the end of the first 18 holes.

Loe rallied briefly in the front nine of the second round and was seven down at the turn. However he three-putted the final hole while McGonagill made a par to win the match.

The first round of tomorrow's finals begins at 9 a. m. The last 18 holes will start at 2 p. m.

Monroe's all-star softball team will be busy this week getting ready for the first softball game of the season here Friday night when Sam Rubin, Jr., sends his stars against the invading "King and His Court," a nation touring four-man team that has been sweeping past regulation-sized clubs across the country with ease.

Eddie Feigner, rated by many as the most sensation softball pitcher ever to show, is the head man of the four-man club. He throws strikes from all over the field, and, as an exhibition specialty, strikes out batters while blindfolded.

The King and His Court is being brought to Monroe in the interest of Little League baseball, all proceeds from the Friday game to go to the advancement of the Little League program for Monroe and West Monroe.

Tickets are already on advanced sale at R. and A. Jewelry, Lockhart's Sports Shop, and Hunt and Whitaker's Sporting Goods.

Intercollegiate Fistic Title Won By Idaho Staters

POCATELLO, Idaho, April 11 (AP) — Idaho State College won the National Intercollegiate boxing championship tonight, battling to three victories in the first six fights of the title round.

The Idaho State Bengals' Olympic boxer Ellsworth (Spider) Webb put on the clincher when he stopped Robert (Pete) Potter of Virginia in the second round of their 156-pound fight.

That gave Idaho State 25 points and no other team could catch up.

Earlier winners for the Bengals were Vic Kobe who won the 119 pound title and Paddy Garver who shared honors in the 132-pound division.

Kobe used a two-fisted attack in the second round to soften Gary Garber, 4-foot, 11-inch Maryland boxer, and went on to win a unanimous 3-0 decision.

The Bengals' Garver pummeled Gil Inaba of Washington State to also win a unanimous decision.

Louisiana State, team leader after last night's semi-final round, lost its chance at the team title when one of its three finalists lost tonight. The Tiger boxers would have had to win all three of their bouts tonight to win the championship. A sweep would have left them with 26 points.

The Tigers' 125-pounder, Bobby Jackson, lost when he suffered a cut over his left eye in the 125-pound final. The doctor ruled he could not continue and the decision was awarded to Mike Guerrero of San Jose State.

Calvin Clary of Louisiana State won the 139-pound title to keep the Tigers in contention. He pounded out a 3-0 decision over Anthony Flore of Penn State. Clary piled up points with a first-round knockdown.

Sagittarius Cops Jamaica Handicap In Stretch Duel

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)— Sagittarious, a seven-year - old black horse owned by a Long Island plumbing contractor, upset the dope today when he outfought Mrs. Samuel M. Pistorio's Tuscany in a stirring stretch duel to capture the $23,400 Jamaica Handicap by the margin of a very short head.

It was a whirlwind finish for young jockey Bennie Green, who got the mount late in the afternoon. But he was in there at the finish to get $16,150 for owner Phil Weinsier, who races under the name of the Winding Way Farm.

The Woolford Farm's nine-year-old Delegate, third in this race last year, was dead last in ninth place about 12 lengths behind the leaders with a half mile to go. But he surged up in the stretch to get third money, just two lengths behind Sagittarius and Tuscany.

Jan Burke's Squared Away, winner of the Paumonok Handicap here April 1 and a slight second choice to Tuscany, finished fourth, another three and a half lengths in arrears.

Another bulging crowd of 47,219 crammed the premises, and was heading toward a $3,000,000 betting day at the mutual windows. They bet $306,509 on the Jamaica Handicap alone.

Those who took a chance on Sagittarius got a $25.20, $9.30 and $6.50 payoff for $2 across the board. Tuscany paid $4.10 and $3.20, and Delegate $6.30.

Jockey Conn McCreary brought home the Woodvale Farm's Modest Pete, a Kentucky Derby - Preakness-Belmont eligible, in the six furlong Mapleton Purse proceeding the feature. The time was 1:11 three-fifth's, and the winner paid $17.90.

Patty, Bartzen Gain Finals In Naples Tourney

NAPLES, April 11. (AP)—Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., and Budge Patty of Los Angeles swept into the final round of the Naples International Tennis Tournament, the young Texan with ease and the California veteran with some difficulty.

Bartzen's left - handed shots completely confused Gianni Cucelli of Italy, as the southpaw breezed to a 6-3, 6-2 victory. The five games Bartzen did drop made a total of only 20 he's lost in the tourney thus far.

Patty battled through a gruelling match with Ladistaw Skonecki, a self - exiled Pole now living in Spain, 6-0, 2-6, 8-6. The veteran internationalist does not have to meet Bartzen until Monday, however.

Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., moved into the women's final with a 7-5, 6-2 victory over Pat Ward of England, and will meet Dotta Zehden of Germany tomorrow. The German player trounced Erica Vollmer of Germany, 6-3, 6-1.

Bartzen and Patty were eliminated in the doubles semi-finals by Skonecki and New Zealand's George Worthington, 9-7, 6-2.

Mrs. Knode also teamed with Worthington to breeze into the quarter-finals with a 6-0, 6-0 victory over Michele Bourbonnais of France and Tony Sarte of England.

Hesketh said a player draft can be conducted if necessary to carry on the league this year.

'Babe' Awaits Operation

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

BEAUMONT, Tex., April 11 (AP)— Babe Didrikson Zaharias, who never was stopped by anything on the athletic field, met her match today when physicians found she had a malignant condition, obviously cancer, and must undergo a major operation.

It may mean the end of the .... greatest athletic career of any woman— a career that spanned two decades and took her from teenage stardom in the Olympic games to the pinnacle of golf and excellence in any sport she ever tried.

Mrs. Zaharias heard the fateful words at noon when the results of tests by five physicians were announced--that she has a malignancy of the lower rectum and must undergo surgery. The operation is to be performed in about five days and the physicians said they thought it would correct the condition "but whether it will return is something else again."

The operation probably will be in Hotel Dieu here where the Babe has been for three days undergoing x-rays and tests to determine the malady that knocked her from the woman's golf tour.

"Tell everybody hello," was all Mrs. Zaharias had to say from her flower-banked room when informed of what the diagnosis showed.

It was a mighty blow to one ... of the greatest competitors of all time. The Babe had reached such perfection in sports that if she didn't win her fans considered it a calamity.

The brief announcement, made by the physicians who had conducted the tests--one in Fort Worth and four in Beaumont--Read: "The examining physicians and x - ray laboratory technicians agree that her condition is a malignancy and that she will undergo major surgery after the proper preparation."

The operation will be at Hotel Dieu if the proper specialists are obtained, the statement said. None of the physicians would permit use of his name.

Only Sunday, the Babe had won her second golf tournament of the year--the Babe Zaharias Open, named for her here. A native of Port Arthur, Tex., the Babe came to Beaumont at the age of two ... and lived here 15 years, developing into such a great basketball player that an insurance company in Dallas brought her to that city to play with its team. She was All-America twice and sparked the Dallas sextet--the Golden Cyclones --to the National AAU Championship.

Mrs. Zaharias stopped off in Fort Worth for a checkup, explaining that she had been feeling weak and tired, and what the Fort Worth physicians found sent her back to Beaumont to enter the hospital.

The Babe was cheerful all the way and predicted that she would return to sports soon but there was worry in her face despite the thinlipped smiles.

Mrs. Zaharias had undergone a hernia operation in Beaumont last year. But the attending physicians said there was no relation between the operation and her present condition.

The spokesman for the physicians would not forecast on Mrs. Zaharias' future in golf. He did not think, however, that her golfing had brought on her present condition. "It is just one of those ... mysteries of malignancy," he said.

No one in authority would say exactly what Mrs. Zaharias' ailment is but there appeared no doubt but that it was cancer.

The Babe, daughter of a Norweigan ship's carpenter--Ole Didriksen--first attracted national attention in 1932 when she won the women's National AAU track and field championship single- handed, topping in five events and tying in another. Then she went to the Olympic games and won three events--all the officials would allow her to enter--but she was ruled out of one of them, the high jump, for using improper form in going over the bar. She bettered world's records in all three.

Previously, she had earned acclaim by leading the Golden Cyclones to the greatest glory a Dallas girls basketball team ever knew.

The Babe was a thin but wiry girl with tow hair held back by spit curls. She was a hurdler, sprinter, jumper and weight star in track and she averaged over 20 points per game in the two years she played basketball with the Golden Cyclones.

She played softball and baseball, several times appearing with professional teams in the latter sport. She could throw a baseball as far as a man.

The Babe turned to golf after her Olympic conquests but her amateur standing was removed by the AAU after her picture appeared in an automobile advertisement. But she waited the required time and regained her amateur status in golf. She won all the amateur tournaments, including the British, then turned professional where she won all the championships, too. In recent years golf, endorsements, motion pictures and other enterprises have netted her between $100,000 and $200,000 a year. She and her husband own a golf course near Tampa, Fla. Today she weighs about 140 pounds and dresses in fashion.

Billy Sandow, Ex-Wrestler, Shoots Self; Near Death

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 11. (AP)—Billy Sandow, 32, of Toledo, O., a professional wrestler and grandson of the famed Strongman Eugene Sandow, was near death today from a bullet wound in the head which police said was self-inflicted.

Patrolman J. C. Brock reported the wrestler fired the bullet while lying on the bed of his trailer while his wife, Virginia, ate breakfast a few feet away. The gun fell beside the bed.

Physicians at Mound Park Hospital said the bullet entered the right temple and lodged in his brain. His condition was "very critical."

Police Capt. Evan A. Whittier quoted Mrs. Sandow as saying her husband had been despondent since he was seriously injured in an automobile accident in Idaho last January.

"He was afraid he would never reach his peak as a top wrestler again," he quoted her as saying.

Sandow was widely known in wrestling circles throughout the United States. He was to meet Austin Shivers of Tampa in a match here Wednesday night.

Promoter Pat O'Hara identified Sandow as the grandson of the famous strong man.

L. H. Shearer, a former Chicago policeman whose trailer was just across the road, said he heard the shot and started for the Sandow vehicle just as Mrs. Sandow ran out screaming for help.

The couple registered at the trailer park a week ago.

McIntyre, Jones Spark Mangham In 14-2 Victory

MANGHAM, La., April 11. (Special — Paced by veteran First Baseman Bob McIntyre, Mangham High School's team of youngsters defeated Fort Necessity this week, 14-2, in the opening game of the season for Coach Buck Hollis' Dragons.

McIntyre, a senior, collected a triple, a double, and a single, driving in five runs. Claude Jones, sophomore hurler, held Fort Necessity to two hits, one a triple by his rival pitcher, Turner. Jones aided his own cause with two singles and a double.

Shelton Sharbono sophomore shortstop, and Sidney McKay, sophomore second sacker, came up with a pair of timely twin killings for the Dragons. Johnny Boughton, a junior, was Jones' catcher. Jimmy Lowery, an eighth grader, rounds out the Mangham infield at third base. The Dragon outfield includes Paul Rieger, Prentice Jones, and Manzy Brown.

Next Tuesday afternoon Mangham goes to Baskin to meet Coach Bagwell's club, and next Friday night the Dragons will be at home to St. Matthew's of Monroe for a game beginning at 8 o'clock.

Lack Of Entries Cancels Monday Race At Jamaica

NEW YORK, April 11. (AP)—It was apparent today nobody wants to hook up with Native Dancer, Alfred Vanderbilt's unbeaten Kentucky Derby favorite, until there is a rich purse worth the effort despite the possibility of taking a sound licking.

Because of insufficient entries, the six furlong assault purse scheduled Monday with a $7,500 value, was cancelled and Native Dancer must wait to make his 1953 racing debut in the Gotham Stakes.

The Gotham, carrying $30,000 in added money, is over the one mile route a week from today, in which all entries will carry 120 pounds.

Jamaica officials didn't disclose how many entries were received for the Assault Purse but one source indicated only one other unidentified three-year-old had been entered.

Native Dancer's slightly revised pre-derby program now calls for a public workout at Jamaica Tuesday afternoon, the Gotham Stakes April 18, the $100,000 Wood Memorial at a mile and one-eighth April 25, then the big one for another $100,000 at Louisville May 2.

Directors Of Little Loop Meet Tuesday

A meeting of the Little League board of directors is scheduled for Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Monroe Recreation Center to complete plans for sponsoring the four-man softball team, "The King and His Court," here next Friday night.

Work on the Little League schedule for the season will also be tackled.

McLendon To Air Recreated Major Scraps At Night

DALLAS, Tex., April 11. (AP)—Gordon McLendon, who has a 12-million-dollar suit pending against 13 major league baseball clubs, says he's going back on the air this season with a "game of the night" broadcast.

The broadcast is to be carried over a new radio chain, Knickerbocker Network. Formation of the network was announced today by Ray A. Lewis, who will be its general manager.

McLendon, 31, who build "recreated" broadcasts of major league baseball games into a far flung radio empire, said that his Liberty Broadcasting System dwindled away last year when he was barred from broadcasting big league baseball. He said the reason he was "tossed off the air" was the claim that his broadcasts hurt attendance at minor league baseball games.

The new series of broadcasts will occur at a time when most minor league baseball teams are playing.

Asked if he felt his nighttime broadcasts would hurt minor league attendance, McLendon said: "I hope the minor league will view it as free advertising for baseball, which it is."

The announcement said the networks were not going to charge the major league clubs for broadcasting.

"Newspapers don't charge baseball for reporting it and advertising it, and I guess I won't either," McLendon said.

The first game to be broadcast will be Tuesday night between St. Louis and Detroit of the American League.

McLendon said the broadcasts would be "recreated" from reports of the game as it is being played. He said later this season, some of the games might be broadcast "live" or direct from the playing site.

The youthful radio executive sued the major league baseball clubs for the 12 million on the grounds they had damaged his network because the ywould not let him broadcast their baseball games.

Aussie Olympic Members Depart For Mexico City

SYDNEY, April 10. (AP)—Hugh R. Weir and Arthur W. Coles, Australia's official Olympic emassaries, left today for Mexico City and the meeting of the International Olympic Committee on Friday. Both were confident the 1956 games would be held at Melbourne as scheduled.

William P. Barry, who will represent the city of Melbourne at the meeting, will leave by plane Monday.

Coles, asked what chance Melbourne had of keeping the games, said "it isn't a chance, it is a ... certainty. We had a little teething trouble about finances but that is all over now."

For a time it appeared that Melbourne might have to give up the games because of financial troubles and political squabbles but these all were ironed out two weeks ago.

Hogan Jumps Augusta Masters Lead To 4 Strokes

'Porky' Oliver Nearest Threat For Last Round

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 11. (AP)—Ben Hogan shot a six-under-par 66 today, matching the second best score ever recorded in the Masters Golf Tournament. He set a 54-hole record of 205 and stretched his lead to where it will be al-.. most impossible to catch him in tomorrow's final round.

And, he proved that the Greens on the Augusta National course aren't the big, bad ogres that they've been pictured.

The determined little man from Texas played a near-perfect round over the picturesque, 6,900-yard course, but it was his putting that turned it into a masterpiece.

The huge putting surfaces are supposed to be the chief trouble-makers on the spacious, rolling Augusta National layout. But today Hogan had only two three-putt greens, despite difficult pin locations, and he took only 31 putts for the round. He was dropping them from 20 and 30 feet—and on the ninth green from 40 feet—for his birdies.

Hogan's 32-34—66 was only two strokes behind the record for the par 36-36—72 course. Lloyd Mangrum set the mark of 64 in the 1940 Masters, when he finished second. There have been several other 66's in the 16 previous tournaments but probably none more gratifying than the one Hogan shot today.

The only one near Hogan in the scoring when he finished was Ed "Porky" Oliver, his playing partner. Oliver, who played with Ben in the final round of the National Open and beat him out for the runner-up spot, had a pleasing 7 today. That gave him a 54-hole total of 209.

Athletic Director At Gonzaga U. Quits

SPOKANE, Wash., April 11 (AP)—Archie P. Sherar today announced his resignation as director of athletics and head of the department of physical education at Gonzaga University.

Sherar said he had asked school officials to relieve him of his duties Sept. 1 because of pressure of private business. He has been on the faculty staff for four years.

Kid Nichols, Hall Of Fame Baseball Twirler, Expires

KANSAS CITY, April 11 (AP)—One of baseball's old-timers, Charley A. (Kid) Nichols, died today at the age of 83.

A member of baseball's Hall of Fame, the Kid's career as a pitcher in the Major Leagues spanned 15 years, from 1890 to 1905. During that time he won 360 games and never was removed in a single game for a relief pitcher.

He spent 11 years with the Boston Nationals, and played the leading role in the five pennants won by that club.

In later years he was fond of comparing his own salary as a Major Leaguer with the sums received nowadays. His top with Boston was $3,000 in 1892. That was the year he won 36 games and lost 16.

The frequency of arm ailments among modern-day hurlers disturbed him.

"If a pitcher today wins 15 games a year he is considered great," he said recently. "We used to work 40 or 50 games a season and pitch every day. If we got a kink in the arm we kept on pitching until we worked it out. Nowadays they rush a pitcher to the hospital."

Nichols, born in Madison, Wis., was 11 years old when his parents moved to Kansas City. Six years later he got his start with Kansas City of the Western League. Because of his age, he was named "the Kid."

After playing with Kansas City and Omaha in the Western League, he went with Boston in 1890.

Leaving the Boston club in 1901, he managed the St. Louis Cardinals and the Kansas City club, piloting the latter to a title in 1903.

After his retirement in 1905 he coached baseball at Missouri Valley College and aided several Kansas City amateur clubs.

He was named to the Hall of Fame in 1949, the 15th pitcher to be so honored.

Jordan Sets New Track Record In Steeplechase Win

MONKTON, Md., April 11 (AP)—Favored Philstar won the My Lady's Manor steeplechase over 18 ences for the second straight time today and Stuart S. Janney, Jr., seemed well on the way to a new domination of Maryland's point-to-point racing.

Janne's Philstar was six lengths ahead of George T. Weymouth's Done Sleeping when four of the five entries came to the finish of the gruelling three-mile cross country course.

Another half a length back was W. J. Strawbridge's Land's Corner.

Philstar won in 6 minutes, 26.6 seconds.

Janney, Baltimore lawyer and horseman and for a time several years ago chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, came back into the limelight of point-scored an upset in the My Lady's Manor last year.

The Grand National, second and oldest of the three-race spring timber series, comes next Saturday. The Maryland Hunt Cup follows on April 25.

Jungle Boy, Kelly Tag Return With Curtises

Jungle Boy returns to Kallio's Arena Tuesday night, paired with "Irish Jack" Kelly in a tag team return battle with Jack and George Curtis in the two-fall-to-win main event.

The spectacular Jungle Boy, who was christened Joe Vetucci, surprised the packed crowd, as well as the Curtis boys last week, with his ring know-how. The newcomer was colorful, but he was also rough and tough. A lithe, muscular youthful lad, something on the order of young Johnny Henning, only a little heavier; he certainly knew his way around a ring, and those who missed seeing him last Tuesday may find it worth their time to see a nationally recognized mat man in action, wrestling with the most popular grapplers ever to appear here, the Curtis brothers; and paired with a villain who is so mean that many come just to see him get his knocks.

NFA sports editor, Harry Grayson, in one of his syndicated columns appearing frequently in the daily News-Star, proved Jungle Boy's national prominence, by mentioning him in his wrestling story, along with other such famous stars as Gorgeous George and the Angel.

West Monroyan Bill Barney, who openly declares Jungle Boy is one of the best he's ever seen in a ring, will referee all matches, of which there will be two one-fall preliminaries between opposing contestants, to warm up the main event foursome.

BUCS OPTION HURLER

PITTSBURGH, April 11. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today optioned pitcher Bill Dunn to the Burlington, (N. C.) club of the Carolina League.

Pet Bully First, Hill Gail 2nd In Phoenix Handicap

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 11. (AP)—Pet Bully upset Kentucky Derby winner Hill Gail's comeback try by capturing the $10,000 Phoenix Handicap at Keeneland today.

The five year old bay son of Petrose-Camelina, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice of Danada Farm, covered the six furlongs in the impressive time of 1:10 4-5 under the guidance of jockey Doug Dodson. The track record is 1:10 2-45, equaled by Hill Gail last year.

Hill Gail, returning to the races for Calumet Farm for the first time since winning last May's Derby at Churchill Downs, had to settle for second spot.

Hasty House Farm's Seaward was third in the field of seven.

The four year old Hill Gail, trying for his second straight Phoenix victory, has been absent from the Country's race tracks since being sidelined by an injury after winning the Derby. Jockey Eddie Arcaro was astride the big son of Bull Lea-Jane Gail today, as he was in the Phoenix and Derby victories last spring.

Pet Bully, second in the weights at 118, returned his backers $16.40, $3.60 and $2.20 through the mutuels.

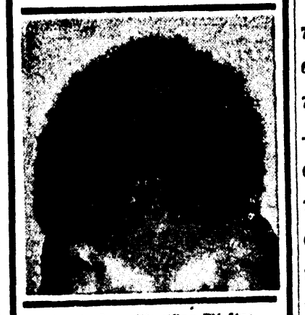

Hill Gail, carrying an impost of 128 pounds and the decided choice in the betting, returned $2.60 and $2.20 and Seaward $2.20.

The entire race was a battle between Pet Bully and Hill Gail with the winner leading by a narrow margin all the way and taking the victory by a nose.

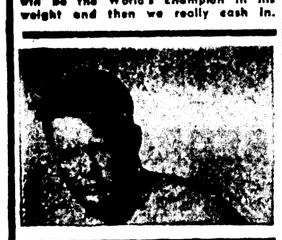

A crowd of 15,226, the second largest since Keeneland opened in 1936, bet $582,835 on the eight race card. The Keeneland attendance record of 16,229 was set during the spring meeting of 1949.

Jungle Boy—Wrestling TV Star While in Jungle, He had to get Monkeys alive and they often gave him a struggle, but he didn't mind it because he knew how to subdue them. He also knows how to subdue his opponents in Wrestling order to win his matches. Jungle Boy's Manager said, If Jungle Boy keep on winning his matches like he has done so far, He will be the World's champion in his weight and then we really cash in.

Irish Jack Kelly—Claim to be pride of the Yankees. Said—It was the greatest revenge I have ever had in my wrestling career. It is wonderful to know that you really have security with a partner like Jungle Boy. Every time I get in trouble he was always there to rescue me. I am confident that Jungle Boy and myself can beat Curtis Brothers just like my Grandpappy ran the rebels to the Mississippi river during the Civil war.

Jack Curtis—Former World's Light-heavyweight champion. I might as well admit that last Tues. night match was one of toughest matches I have been in for a long time. Now we know Jungle Boy's style of wrestling well as we know Jack Kelly's style and therefore my Brother George and myself feel like we have a good chance to win. The way George and myself plan to wrestle with the Jungle Boy—Kelly may wishes to have his Great Grandpappy here again . . .

George Curtis—Vicksburg, Miss. Kelly and Jungle Boy are a very tough team to beat. Jungle Boy took unexpected advantages of me when he pulled me into the ring while I was outside the ropes. He used illegal hold to defeat me when he drew me in the corner post and hurt my shoulder. If I could have tagged Jack, it might have been a different outcome of the match. I am glad that Jack challenged Jungle Boy and Kelly for a return match. My shoulder was hurt little, but I will be alright by Tuesday night.

Main event--Wrestling tag team match 90 minute time limit—two falls to win. Wrestling teams brings together Jungle Boy and his partner Jack Kelly VS Jack Curtis and his partner George Curtis, . . . Two other short time limit matches.

Hogan Jumps Augusta Masters Lead To 4 Strokes

'Porky' Oliver Nearest Threat For Last Round

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 11. (AP)—Ben Hogan shot a six-under-par 66 today, matching the second best score ever recorded in the Masters Golf Tournament. He set a 54-hole record of 205 and stretched his lead to where it will be almost impossible to catch him in tomorrow's final round.

And, he proved that the Greens on the Augusta National course aren't the big, bad ogres that they've been pictured.

The determined little man from Texas played a near-perfect round over the picturesque, 6,900-yard course, but it was his putting that turned it into a masterpiece.

The huge putting surfaces are supposed to be the chief trouble-makers on the spacious, rolling Augusta National layout. But today Hogan had only two three-putt greens, despite difficult pin locations, and he took only 31 putts for the round. He was dropping them from 20 and 30 feet—and on the ninth green from 40 feet—for his birdies.

Hogan's 32-34—66 was only two strokes behind the record for the par 36-36—72 course. Lloyd Mangrum set the mark of 64 in the 1940 Masters, when he finished second. There have been several other 66's in the 16 previous tournaments but probably none more gratifying than the one Hogan shot today.

Jordan Sets New Track Record In Steeplechase Win

MONKTON, Md., April 11 (AP)—Favored Philstar won the My Lady's Manor steeplechase over 18 ences for the second straight time today and Stuart S. Janney, Jr., seemed well on the way to a new domination of Maryland's point-to-point racing.

Janne's Philstar was six lengths ahead of George T. Weymouth's Done Sleeping when four of the five entries came to the finish of the gruelling three-mile cross country course.

Another half a length back was W. J. Strawbridge's Land's Corner.

Philstar won in 6 minutes, 26.6 seconds.

Janney, Baltimore lawyer and horseman and for a time several years ago chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, came back into the limelight of point-scored an upset in the My Lady's Manor last year.

The Grand National, second and oldest of the three-race spring timber series, comes next Saturday. The Maryland Hunt Cup follows on April 25.

Jungle Boy, Kelly Tag Return With Curtises

Jungle Boy returns to Kallio's Arena Tuesday night, paired with "Irish Jack" Kelly in a tag team return battle with Jack and George Curtis in the two-fall-to-win main event.

The spectacular Jungle Boy, who was christened Joe Vetucci, surprised the packed crowd, as well as the Curtis boys last week, with his ring know-how. The newcomer was colorful, but he was also rough and tough. A lithe, muscular youthful lad, something on the order of young Johnny Henning, only a little heavier; he certainly knew his way around a ring, and those who missed seeing him last Tuesday may find it worth their time to see a nationally recognized mat man in action, wrestling with the most popular grapplers ever to appear here, the Curtis brothers; and paired with a villain who is so mean that many come just to see him get his knocks.

NFA sports editor, Harry Grayson, in one of his syndicated columns appearing frequently in the daily News-Star, proved Jungle Boy's national prominence, by mentioning him in his wrestling story, along with other such famous stars as Gorgeous George and the Angel.

West Monroyan Bill Barney, who openly declares Jungle Boy is one of the best he's ever seen in a ring, will referee all matches, of which there will be two one-fall preliminaries between opposing contestants, to warm up the main event foursome.

Pet Bully First, Hill Gail 2nd In Phoenix Handicap

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 11. (AP)—Pet Bully upset Kentucky Derby winner Hill Gail's comeback try by capturing the $10,000 Phoenix Handicap at Keeneland today.

The five year old bay son of Petrose-Camelina, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice of Danada Farm, covered the six furlongs in the impressive time of 1:10 4-5 under the guidance of jockey Doug Dodson. The track record is 1:10 2-45, equaled by Hill Gail last year.

Hill Gail, returning to the races for Calumet Farm for the first time since winning last May's Derby at Churchill Downs, had to settle for second spot.

Hasty House Farm's Seaward was third in the field of seven.

The four year old Hill Gail, trying for his second straight Phoenix victory, has been absent from the Country's race tracks since being sidelined by an injury after winning the Derby. Jockey Eddie Arcaro was astride the big son of Bull Lea-Jane Gail today, as he was in the Phoenix and Derby victories last spring.

Pet Bully, second in the weights at 118, returned his backers $16.40, $3.60 and $2.20 through the mutuels.

Hill Gail, carrying an impost of 128 pounds and the decided choice in the betting, returned $2.60 and $2.20 and Seaward $2.20.

The entire race was a battle between Pet Bully and Hill Gail with the winner leading by a narrow margin all the way and taking the victory by a nose.

A crowd of 15,226, the second largest since Keeneland opened in 1936, bet $582,835 on the eight race card. The Keeneland attendance record of 16,229 was set during the spring meeting of 1949.

Jungle Boy—Wrestling TV Star While in Jungle, He had to get Monkeys alive and they often gave him a struggle, but he didn't mind it because he knew how to subdue them. He also knows how to subdue his opponents in Wrestling order to win his matches. Jungle Boy's Manager said, If Jungle Boy keep on winning his matches like he has done so far, He will be the World's champion in his weight and then we really cash in.

Irish Jack Kelly—Claim to be pride of the Yankees. Said—It was the sweetest revenge I have ever had in my wrestling career. It is wonderful to know that you really have security with a partner like Jungle Boy. Every time I got in trouble he was always there to rescue me. I am confident that Jungle Boy and myself can beat Curtis Brothers just like my Grandpappy ran the rebels to the Mississippi river during the Civil war.

Jack Curtis—Former World's Light-heavyweight champion. I might as well admit that last Tues. nights match was one of toughest matches I have been in for a long time. Now we know Jungle Boy's style of wrestling well as we know Jack Kelly's style and therefore my Brother George and myself feel like we have a good chance to win. The way George and myself plan to wrestle with the Jungle team—Kelly may wishes to have his Great Grandpappy here again . . .

George Curtis—Vicksburg, Miss. Kelly and Jungle Boy are a very tough team to beat. Jungle Boy took unexpected advantages of me when he pulled me into the ring while I was outside the ropes. He used illegal hold to defeat me when he drew me in the corner post and hurt my shoulder. If I could have tagged Jack, it might have been a different outcome of the match. I am glad that Jack challenged Jungle Boy and Kelly for a return match. My shoulder was hurt little, but I will be alright by Tuesday night.

Main event--Wrestling tag team match 90 minute time limit—two falls to win. Wrestling teams brings together Jungle Boy and his partner Jack Kelly VS Jack Curtis and his partner George Curtis. . . . Two other short time limit matches.

I just do my best giving each team a fair deal and I let it go for that, I am not worrying about it afterwards who did like it and who didn't. That's Me. Bill Barney.

The way it look and sound—In this wrestling game nobody has anything to worry about except poor Promoter—That's me—Gus Kallio.

Aid Is Asked For Triplets

Citizens of Rayville have asked their close neighbors, the Twin Cities, to join with them in a mercy campaign to aid a family of their community to provide for their three daughters, triplets, who were born on March 6.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Payne, parents of six other children besides the triplets, have no means to care for the new babies who have been at the clinic since birth.

The father, who farms 32 acres near Rayville, has had poor crops the last three years and at the present time the family is in dire financial straits.

The Paynes reside in a four-room "shotgun" house and do not have electricity, gas or running water. One room is used for a kitchen and the other three, which are extremely small, are used as bedrooms.

The father works at night in a black-smith shop, but the small salary in no way is enough to care for his family. The oldest child is 13 and the youngest, besides the triplets, is only two.

Dr. J. E. Ball, co - owner of the Ball Clinic, who delivered the triplets, has cared for the three girls since birth at his clinic.

Dr. Ball, in conjunction with Dr. J. C. Ellington and nurses at the clinic, has formed a fund for the children known as the "Triplet Fund." The purpose of the fund is to raise money to purchase lumber to build onto the house a room for the triplets. At present Rayville carpenters have agreed to give free of their labor to build the room and all that's needed is money to purchase the material.

The brotherhood of the Rayville Baptist Church has agreed to furnish milk for the children and the W. M. U. of the same church has agreed to furnish bed linens and clothing.

If the needed money is not raised the Payne's state that the only recourse they have is to offer the children for adoption.

The Payne family needs help and the Twin Cities have never failed to help their neighbors.

With the joint efforts of Rayville, Monroe and West Monroe the Payne family can be kept together.

Anyone desiring to help those who need help at this time, can send their responses to the "Triplet Fund" at the Ball - Ellington Clinic in Rayville, it was stated.

Members Of Country Club Dance To 'Papa Celestine'

With Lenten Days a thing of the past, Monroe society was at its gayest on Saturday evening when "Papa" Celestine and his Dixieland Band played for the members of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Out of town guests inspired several cocktail parties with the party of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Masur being the most festive of the evening. They invited about 65 guests to their home on Park Avenue between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock.

Papa Celestine, famous in the '30s in New Orleans, was brought from retirement several years ago at "Old New Orleans Day" during the Spring Festival and since then his "High Society," "When the Saints Come Marching Home," E'Labais,' and his two favorites "Madam Lebeau, the Voodoo Queen" and "When You're Lonesome, Just Telephone Me," have made for a gala evening, whether dancing or listening.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Lyons II of Shreveport. The Ed Shavers had as their guests their brother, Mr. Carl Shaver and Mrs. Shaver of Frankfort, Ind. who are their house guests this week. With Dr. and Mrs. Fred Amman were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Barham of Bastrop. Also there were: Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Sevier and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sevier of Tallulah with them were Mrs. Malquin Ducrest of St. Joseph and Mr. Roger Dorshaw of New York City, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Newcomer and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Meredith of Bastrop. More than 300 members enjoyed this festive occasion.

After the program delicious refreshments were served by the hostess to the following members: Mesdames R. B. Bailey, W. A. Cotton, Dan Dennett, L. A. Fluesmeier, L. M. Frey, G. M. Heidenreich, B. Frank Maxwell, E. A. Porter, Jr., George Rietzie, Buddy Tolson, W. O. Webb, and W. A. Whitfield, Jr.

Two Art Films Will Be Shown

The art feature for this Sunday afternoon's entertainment includes two excellent films. One movie will give a glimpse into the life and work of Maillol, the famous French sculptor. Another film, the "Loon's Necklace," is based on an Indian legend using ceremonial masks of the British Columbia Indians. The latter film has been awarded one of the best art films ever produced.

No admission is charged, and the public is cordially invited to attend the showing which opens at 3 p.m. this Sunday afternoon at The Art Shop on Louisville Ave.

New Officers Of Charity League Assume Duties

The contagious spirit of springtime enthusiasm was reflected in the activity of the April buffet luncheon meeting of the Jr. Charity League held Saturday at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The buffet table was decorated with white candles in silver candelabra on either side of an arrangement of yellow and purple iris, yellow calendula, yellow dutch iris and mixed ferns. Attractively displayed on the speakers table were white tulips, pink snapdragons and yellow iris.

Following the invocation, the new president, Mrs. Roy Johns thanked the luncheon committee. Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. Amos Shelton, and Mrs. Robert Wood. The minutes were approved as read and reports were given by Mrs. Thomas May, the treasurer and Mrs. Robert Wood the social chairman. Mrs. Amos Shelton reported that Mrs. Roy Cole had resigned and also announced that Mrs. Nathaniel Long of the National Junior League of Dallas had been invited to become a transfer member of the League.

Mrs. Johns announced that the new reading room for children at the Ouachita Parish Library which has been sponsored by the League was completed and that extensive plans had been made for an open house from April 13 to 23, with nine parish schools being designated a day in which to be represented. The League members will greet the visitors.

Before adjourning, Mrs. Johns announced that the May meeting would be open to all life, inactive and provisional members and their guests. It will be held at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club at 12:30 p.m. Members attending were: Mrs. Johns, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Thomas May, Mrs. Edwin Rowan, Mrs. James Larkan, Mrs. Amos Shelton, Mrs. W. C. Cookston, Jr., Mrs. William Gannaway, Mrs. Cyril Yancey, Mrs. Charles Searcy, Mrs. William Husted Jr., Mrs. Edward Holmes, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Atkinson, Mrs. Charles Amman, Mrs. James Brothers, Mrs. W. Magnolia Study Group Meets

Mrs. W. E. Young was hostess to the Magnolia Study Club at their regular Thursday meeting.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Ed Hislop, Jr. and an interesting devotion by Mrs. Joe F. Smith followed.

Mrs. Tom Leos discussed the recent convention in Lake Providence. Members of the club toured Mrs. Young's gardens leaving.

Those present for the meeting were: Mrs. Aline Banister; Mrs. L. N. Copes; Mrs. R. L. Fuller; Mrs. Milton Ford; Mrs. Ed Hislop, Jr., Mrs. Leos; Mrs. R. P. McKay; Mrs. Frank Rietzell; Mrs. Smith; Mrs. R. L. Grayson; Mrs. Ralph Miller; Mrs. Lenn Kirh; Mrs. W. E. Young. Guests were Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Floyd Matthews.

Shower curtains are easily laundered in the bathtub. Swish them in suds, then in clear water. Hang back on rod and spread out to dry. The crisp type of curtain, like water-repellent taffeta, must not be squeezed, wrung or twisted. Such treatment will put in deep creases which won't hang out.

NEW LEADERS—These young matrons will be at the head of the Jr. Charity League for the 1953-54 regime. Left: Mrs. Thomas May, treasurer, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, vice-president and Mrs. Roy John, president. Mrs. Burt Sperry, secretary, is not in the picture. Members Of Country Club Dance To 'Papa Celestine'

With Lenten Days a thing of the past, Monroe society was at its gayest on Saturday evening when "Papa" Celestine and his Dixieland Band played for the members of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Out of town guests inspired several cocktail parties with the party of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Masur being the most festive of the evening. They invited about 65 guests to their home on Park Avenue between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock.

Papa Celestine, famous in the '30s in New Orleans, was brought from retirement several years ago at "Old New Orleans Day" during the Spring Festival and since then his "High Society," "When the Saints Come Marching Home," E'Labais,' and his two favorites "Madam Lebeau, the Voodoo Queen" and "When You're Lonesome, Just Telephone Me," have made for a gala evening, whether dancing or listening.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Lyons II of Shreveport. The Ed Shavers had as their guests their brother, Mr. Carl Shaver and Mrs. Shaver of Frankfort, Ind. who are their house guests this week. With Dr. and Mrs. Fred Amman were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Barham of Bastrop. Also there were: Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Sevier and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sevier of Tallulah with them were Mrs. Malquin Ducrest of St. Joseph and Mr. Roger Dorshaw of New York City, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Newcomer and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Meredith of Bastrop. More than 300 members enjoyed this festive occasion.

Soup and salad makes a delicious and nutritious luncheon combination. Team cream of spinach soup with egg sandwiches; cream of tomato tastes delicious with tuna sandwiches.

News From Public Library

New books continue to arrive almost every day to be added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and there are titles in this week's additions to appeal to almost every type of reader. Historical novels continue to be popular and there are two this week with an old world setting: "The Big Chariot" by Charmian Clift and George Johnston and "Men Like Shadows" by Dorothy Charques. "The Big Chariot" is the story of the fall of the Ming dynasty in the year 1643.

The fall of the Mings threw China into chaos and this is the story of how it affected two brothers, Yuan and Wei, twin sons of a chief minister to the Ming emperor. This is a beautifully written book about a little known period of Chinese history. It is one that should prove vastly interesting to those who like this type of work. "Men Like Shadows" retells with complete authenticity the little- known story of the Third Crusade. In the pride of an English April morning they set out for King Richard's Holy War. Here is a human story of high hopes and bitter disappointment, which the author makes as real as if the characters were living today.

Two of the new novels deal with the early history of our own country. They are "The Golden Season" by Oriana Atkinson and "Tennessee Hazard" by Maristan Chapman. "The Golden Season" is a love story, the story of gentle freedom Ware, set against the lusty and crude and tremendously alive world which was early America. This book has been hailed by critics as the "Oklahoma" of the Catskill country. "Tennessee Hazard" is a glowing chapter in the history of frontier Tennessee. The time is 1788, a year of crisis in the history of our country. Involved in all of the political intrigue there is also a good love story.

Three of the new novels have contemporary settings in far away places. "Blanket Boy" is a novel of South Africa. This is a story of Monare, the tribesman, caught between age - old superstition and the tenets of western civilization. The author Peter Lanham based this novel on a story told by the chieftain of Basutoland. Two of the new novels have their setting in Australia.

"In the Wet" by Nevil Shute is one of his best stories. It is a glorious love story of a man and a girl who, in time of crisis, put country first and love second in order to build a sound and enduring life together. "The Cardboard Crown" by Martin Boyd is a family chronicle that will appeal to the readers who enjoyed his earlier "Lucinda Brayford." Mr. Boyd has again caught the spirit of Anglo-Austrian family life and has written a fascinating book.

Readers of mystery stories will welcome the new title by Patricia Wentwork, "Out of the Past." This is another Miss Silver mystery. Clarence Buddington Kelland's new title is called "Tombstone" and his public is always ready for another western from his pen.

Some readers prefer books with a contemporary setting. There are four of these in this week's offerings. "Oh, What A Wonderful Wedding," by Virginia Rowans is the same type of book as "Father of the Bride" and will appeal to all of those who have taken part in a large wedding. "The Daughter of Bugle Ann" by McKinlay Kantor will be eagerly read by those who liked "The Voice of Bugle Ann."

No better dog stories have ever been written than these, laid in the fox - hunting country of Missouri.

"The High and the Mighty" by Ernest K. Gann is a story of modern day aviation and of the people who almost met disaster on a certain flight. It is written with great feeling and will have a very large audience. Last of all there is "The Birds and the Bees" by James Aswell. We hesitated a long time before purchasing it, but because of numerous requests, we decided to purchase one copy. Frankly it is trash and you will read it at your own risk.

No matter what your taste, there is a book for you at the Ouachita Parish Public Library.

Lacquer is not a paint and has no oil in its composition. Therefore, it should never be put on over paint or enamel. Since it dries very fast — in about 20 minutes — it should be flooded on with a perfectly clean brush rather than brushed as in a paint job.

This beautiful wedding was attended by a large throng of friends and well - wishers, and took place just at the twilight hour. The pews were marked by specimen gladioli tied by white satin ribbon streamers.

Pre - nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Will Calhoun at the organ, and Mrs. J. E. Ball, who sang "O, Promise Me," "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in traditional bridal white. Her wedding gown was of goddess nylon lace over taffeta, with long sleeves, which extended in a graceful point over the hand. The graceful folds of the skirt fell in a long court train. Her bridal bouquet was fashioned of five white orchids, surrounded by white violets.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Carey O'Neal, as matron - of - honor. Her bridesmaids were Mesdames Sidney Reech, Lula McMahon, Truman Green, and John M. Binion, Jr. Serving as junior bridesmaid was charming young Rosemary Ball.

The bridal attendants were lovely in their identical gowns of nylon net over taffeta and hoop skirts. The many - layered skirts of net were in three shades of blue. Their dainty hats were heart - shaped coronets, fashioned in net of soft royal blue, which was the shade predominating in the bridesmaid's gowns. Their mitts were of the same nylon net, and a soft stole of the same material was gracefully draped about their shoulders.

The groom was attended by his father as best man. Ushers were Carey O'Neal, Carey Ellis, Jr., John Morris, Jr. and A. C. Williams. The men of the wedding party wore formal attire, with boutonnieres of feathered carna - tions.

Mrs. Guynes, mother of the bride was becomingly gowned in a formal length model of powder blue crepe, with beaded blouse, hat of matching blue, elbow length pink gloves and a corsage of feathered pink carnations.

Mrs. Stodghill, mother of the groom, chose a formal gown of mauve, with matching accessories and a corsage of mauve feathered carnations.

Mrs. E. E. Stodghill, the groom's grandmother, was gracious and lovely in a pink formal gown with corsage of pink.

Immediately following the ceremony was the reception given at the home of the bride's parents. The bridal party received at the door of the hospitable reception rooms, which were beautifully adorned for the occasion with lovely floral arrangements at all the vantage points. The bride's table was laid with heavy damask, centered by an exquisite arrangement of white jumbo carnations and candy tuft, interspersed with greenery. The corners of the table were caught by small bouquets of white carnations and fern, green and white satin ribbon tied.

The beautiful three - tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. C. M. Koontz. Presiding at the handsome silver punch service was Mrs. Lyman Gladney. Mrs. J. C. Ellington was in charge of the bride's guest book.

Assisting in extending the courtesies were Mesdames Carey Ellis, Jr., Woodrow Coats, Eugene Hotzclaw, Allen Buie, and Misses Josephine Mendolia and Hootie Davie

Mrs. Jesse Stodghill, Jr. chose as her going - away ensemble a spring suit of becoming blue-grey, with a polka dot blouse. Her shoes and bag were of navy, with gloves and hat of white. She wore an orchid from her bridal bouquet, and presented the bouquet to her mother.

The newly married couple left for a wedding trip to Sea Island, Ga., and will return to make their home in Rayville. The bride is employed at the Production - Marketing Administration officer here, and the groom has a position with the Peoples' Lumber and Supply Co.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Willis were Mrs. Paul Adams and Mrs. Thomas Zeigler.

As the unsuspecting couple approached the foyer they were greeted with the words "Happy Anniversary" from their many friends gathered there to begin the celebration of this silver anniversary. There are limitless attractions and places of interest in the capitol."

The slides of places visited on her trip, which Mrs. Colmer showed after her talk added much interest. The beautiful blue water of the bay around Acapulca, the floral luxuriance, the magnificent homes and hotels built along the water, with others just back of them as they are built up the sides of the steep mountains of this rugged country, the stupendous Cathedrals and lovely parks of Mexico City all defy description.

Mrs. Womack Is Hostess To Monroe Literary Club

The Monroe Literary Club met on Wednesday, April 8th, in the home of Mrs. J. W. Womack. Mrs. J. E. Baugh, president, presided.

After the reading of the club collect in unison, the roll call, minutes, and treasurer's report, Mrs. A. M. Kite stated that the cookies sent by the Monroe Literary Club to the Veterans' Hospital in Alexandria for Easter numbered 35 dozen.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. C. E. Coe, who presented the member speaker, Mrs. A. B. Colmer. Mrs. Colmer's subject was: "Mexico — Our Neighbor to the South"; and since Mrs. Colmer is a very able speaker, and since she had made this trip the past season, her descriptpion of Mexico was most impressive. She said in part:

"Mexico is so endowed with talents and attractions that are so dramatic and exciting that she makes the States seem a bit pale. Boasting a very fascinating history, Mexico is now changing, growing, developing and becoming modern overnight. The resorts of Acapulca, Cuernavaca and Taxco have become world famous. Mexico City is the very center of everything in Mexico — government, business, air travel, railroading, manufacturing, education. There are limitless attractions and places of interest in the capitol."

The slides of places visited on her trip, which Mrs. Colmer showed after her talk added much interest. The beautiful blue water of the bay around Acapulca, the floral luxuriance, the magnificent homes and hotels built along the water, with others just back of them as they are built up the sides of the steep mountains of this rugged country, the stupendous Cathedrals and lovely parks of Mexico City all defy description.

After the pictures were shown, delightful refreshments were enjoyed by one guest, Mrs. H. D. DuPriest, and the following members: Mrs. J. S. Worley, Mrs. J. W. Womack, Mrs. J. E. Shannon, Mrs. C. T. Pifer, Mrs. H. C. Miller, Mrs. A. M. Kite, Mrs. J. D. Kelly, Mrs. W. L. Howard, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. D. A. Altick, Guy DuPriest, Mrs. J. H. Drake, Mrs. A. B. Colmer, Mrs. C. E. Coe, Mrs. T. D. Girl Scout News

Among the eleven fields of interest which make up the Girl Scout program, International Friendship is one of the most popular. It is fun to learn first hand about girls in other countries and to realize that they are Scouts, or Guides as some are called, just like us. As one of the girls on the birthday program said, the queens of England and of the Netherlands were once Scouts and the four Dutch princesses are Padvinsters or Pathfinders, the Dutch name for Scouts. Scouting is for all girls, including princesses.

Recently three troops that we've heard of have had international friendship projects that sound interesting. Troop 34, invited Troop 39, made up of girls of the same age, to a meeting at Grace Church Parish house to hear Mrs. Edward F. Hayward, Jr. tell about life in Germany. School, games, clothes, were all subjects for questions by the Scouts.

The hostess troop had carefully planned the meeting, making the guests feel at home and performing introductions graciously. Afterward they served refreshments of punch and cookies. Mrs. S. C. Strausser and Mrs. Tom Keller are leaders of Troop 34, while Mrs. J. B. Corder and Mrs. Leon Noland are leaders of Troop 39.

Mrs. Tom Johnson found an eager audience among the girls of Troop 7 when she visited them last week to tell them about her homeland, Greece. She made an instant hit by serving delicious cookies made by Greek recipes. She also brought beautiful embroideries costumes and dolls to show to the girls. Children in Greece she told them received eggs dyed red at Easter instead of the multi-colored ones we are used to. She brought a few so that the girls could practice hitting them together.

Mrs. Johnson in response to the questions asked by the girls told about Scouting in Greece particularly the share the girls took in rebuilding of their country after the war.

A foreign language is usually fascinating to a child. The girls practiced the phrases Mrs. Johnson taught them until they were at least reasonably proficient in saying such useful ones as "John loves Mary." They played the familiar game of "Gossip" using a Greek sentence. Bet that ended up scrambled.

Mrs. Haskell Fairchild and Mrs. Bill Ervin are leaders of this first year intermediate troop.

Mrs. Howell Heard has graciously responded to many invitations to talk to troops about her native England. The last troop which enjoyed meeting with Mrs. Heard was Troop 31 Mrs. Harry Martin leader. The girls were completing requirements for Second Class Class rank.

Glad of a chance to do a bit of community service Troops 25, 31, 23 and 7 made cookies for the Red Cross to sent to the veterans hospital for Easter.

Speaking of cookies it's Girl Scout Cookie time in the Twin Cities. Don't be content with just one box but buy and eat cookies for the next ten days. The profits go to the camping program particularly to the upkeep and improvement of Pine Wood which all Scouts enjoy.

Troop 41 Mrs. W. H. Pace leader went to Pine Wood for Friday night and Troop 4 Mrs. N. L. Huckabee leader moved in as soon as Troop 41 left and is out there today. As soon as we hear details on these trips we'll pass them on.

More and more the camp is serving the purpose for which it was built. Many Brownie troops are finding that they can go out after school now that the days are longer have time for a cookout or a picnic supper and still get home before dark. Some are finding it a good idea to ask their families to join them at supper time.

The council held its April meeting at camp. A cool drizzly morning gave a good excuse for a fire in the fireplace. First time around here that a council meeting has been held in a camp situation.

The Business and Professional Women's club is going ahead with plans for the little cabin they are going to build to provide additional sleeping facilities and to free a larger portion of the building for other activities.

Roamin' In The Rural

It was said that ancient poets called their Iris, Ground Rainbows. They also called them Children of God given to earth as a promise that there would ever be beauty on earth. I certainly believed this when I visited the garden of iris in Ouachita Parish.

Mrs. J. B. Filhoil, Sr. of Logtown Community called Monday and invited me to see her gardens —an invitation which I immediately accepted. Mrs. Filhoil has done exactly what Dr. Seaman A. Knapp said must be done 50 years ago and I quote, "The farm home must be made a place of beauty, so attractive that every passing stranger inquires, 'Who lives in that lovely home?' "

Mrs. Filhoil has them planted in masses, as borders, and around her fish pond where they are reflecting their beauty in the water. In these gardens, and I mean gardens, she has a wide choice of colors and varieties of bearded iris, and in the largest range of rainbow colors and the largest of number of varieties of the Louisiana Natures — I've ever seen. Most of these have been grown by seed fathered and sown by Mrs. Filhoil.

"Another fine point about Iris," she says, "is the graceful foliage —a thing of beauty after the blossoms are past."

When I asked Mrs. Filhoil who cared for all those iris she said, "Marie and I do, but iris require such little care."

At Mrs. J. B. Filhoil, Jr. is another demonstration of creating beauty in and around the farm home. Although her planting is only beginning it is correctly and well done.

Thank you, Mrs. Filhoil for calling me. Wish others would do the same as it's impossible for me to know about your success unless you call me.

During my tours of the parish this week I found a little iris farm located at Calhoun, situated just south of the L. C. Railroad stop is a picturesque hill. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hipp grow tall bearded iris as a hobby and have collected many fine varieties. They have most all the Dykes' medal winners (highest award given each year for the best iris) and many others near the top. I saw many of them blooming while others were just budding.

I saw seventeen different varieties of pink and pink blends including the famed Cherie which is a beautiful flamingo pink with a deep tangerine beard.

Then there were the beautiful whites that Mr. Hipp says so many people overlook in favor of the colors. New Snow is now blooming and is the whitest iris I have seen. I must mention Helen McGregor, 49 Dykes' medal, a shade of blue that is perhaps better described as the sky on a bright early morning. Then there were yellows and golds that were most beautiful including Ola Kala, the Dykes' medal of 48. Many of these iris have stems that reach a height of 48 inches.

There were reds, blues, purples, browns, tans, and the near blacks that space does not permit me to describe, but I can't resist telling about one of these — the Grace Mohr — We found this beautiful blossom on a 26 inch stem. The large flaring blossom was six inches or more in width and 5 inches in depth. The colors ran from pale lilac — veined manganese-violet to a deep royal purple.

This setting among the pines is worthwhile seeing and Mr. Hipp likes to talk iris, their blooming habits, culture, hybridizing, etc. He belongs to the American Iris Society and is getting ready to set an acre of these beautiful flowers. He is happy to show them, but insists there be no Sunday morning visits.

Well, I thought I had most seen every color of iris in the gardens of Mrs. Filhoil and Mr. and Mrs. Hipp, but I stopped by to see Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Frantom late Wednesday afternoon and after I had a cup of coffee, made by Mr. Frantom, in one of those gold 50th anniversary cups, we went to see the garden. Among these was a variety I had never seen before. I studied all the books I had on Iris but failed to find any description that fitted, it, so I decided to say it has a large wide open 6 inch blossom in grayed purple with standards and falls prominent bronze veining on the upper part of falls, of grayed yellow fading into a lavender. You'll have to see it as it is impossible to tell its beauty in words. Mrs. Frantom says there will be more of them next year as she has divided with several iris lovers.

Disease and Insect Pests of Iris

Iris are hardy and have few enemies but two were observed while on tour. Scelertium Rot or Mustard Seed Fungus, and leaf spot and rust according to the bulletin on Louisiana Native Iris. Mustard Seed Fungus occurs in warm and wet soil conditions. A fungicide such as Semesan or sulphur applied as a dust, or in solution, may help reduce the damage. An effective way to control this soil fungus, if it becomes a serious problem is to move the iris to another location temporarily and treat the soil with formaldehyde. Remove the dead foliage and burn before spraying or dusting to admit sunlight to the base of the clump.

Some of the earlier blooming varieties are susceptible to this disease. The infection starts at the tip of the leaves and works downward. You may have to discard the most susceptible varieties removal and burning of all diseased leaves as soon as they appear will help to control it. A spray of Fermite, or wettable sulphur, may also check the disease.

Trips are the most destructive insect. They suck the sap from the iris bloom causing bloom to look wilted. Control by spraying or dusting with a 5 per cent of D. D. T. when insects appears.

If the orioles fly in at Iris blooming time, they may go for the nectar in the Iris flowers, and tear them up. How to stop them is a problem.

Mrs. Jack Major, 408 Linderman, West Monroe, has about four dozen of pint glass fruit jars she will give to anyone that needs them and if you are interested, you may call 2-3264 for further information.

Trips are the most destructive insect. They suck the sap from the iris bloom causing bloom to look wilted. Control by spraying or dusting with a 5 per cent of D. D. T. when insects appears.

If the orioles fly in at Iris blooming time, they may go for the nectar in the Iris flowers, and tear them up. How to stop them is a problem.

Bristol, Tenn. Pastor To Head Local Church

College Place Baptist Church, 301 Sherrouse Avenue, which in 10 years has grown from its inception to now have nearly or quite 1,000 members and property valued at $250,000 or more, has called

Rev. T. Earl Ogg, of Bristol-Tenn.-Va., to become its pastor. Since January 1 last, the church has been without a pastor. At that time, Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, Jr., the first and only pastor, resigned to go to mission work in South America.

The selection of a capable, consecrated and ambitious young pastor will be good news for this church and the arrival of the new pastor and his family will be greeted with unusual interest.

Reverend Ogg has had pastorates that extended over a decade and all have been highly successful. He was pastor of the First Baptist Church in Andrews, N. C. for several years and his second charge was Mountain View Baptist church, Knoxville, Tenn.

His third church was Calvary Baptist in Bristol from which place he will come to Monroe.

He is a graduate of Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary, Fort Worth, Tex.

His wife is also a graduate of the same seminary. They have two children, a daughter, Peggy Earline, six years; and a son, Daniel Arthur Ogg, 22 months of age.

The new pastor and his wife will arrive May 1 and he will occupy his new pulpit for the first time on Sunday, May 3.

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Conversion, as the word implies, means a turning about. And no turning about was ever more complete than that in which Saint Paul turned from his persecuting zeal of threats against the disciples of the Lord (Acts 9:1), to become a Christian disciple himself.

Sudden conversions, strange as they may seem, have been by no means rare. In many instances, as I think was true in the conversion of Saint Paul, they are not as sudden as they seem to be. Though the experience of sudden conversion may be very real and may have a clear evidence of its determining cause.

The conversion of Saint Paul as he himself has vividly described it in Acts 22, took place upon the road to Damascus. He was going there to persecute the Christians. It was accompanied by a challenging voice and blindness. But I think his conversion really began on the day he stood guarding the garments of those who stoned Stephen to death (Acts 7:58).

In the story of Paul's conversion he was "kicking against the pricks." But what was pricking him and making him all the more furious in his resistance? It was the voice of conscience.

Could one versed in the Hebrew Scriptures who a few years later was to write so eloquently of divine and brotherly love, see a man who was being stoned to death while praying for forgiveness for his enemies and crying, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit," and not hear a voice of challenge in his heart? That I think was when the conversion of Paul began.

Nevertheless conversion can be as sudden as it is real and complete.

Often it has come through crucial or enlightening experience, which has changed one's views and attitude. It is as if one has always lived in a valley. Then one day climbing a mountain peak, he suddenly sees a world that he has never known before. There can be peaks on which the atmosphere of the soul may be completely changed.

Nor are complete conversions either sudden or through some long process, as strange and unexplainable as they may seem. Underlying such conversions is usually a conscientious attitude. In these cases conversion means a change of association and allegiance rather than a change from a life of sin to a life of righteousness.

Paul said that he had lived in all good conscience all his life. Others called his Christian way heresy (Acts 24:14), but he called it still worshipping the God of his fathers. Conversion was an emergence into what he considered a further and better way.

In all such conversions there is an experience, strange as it may seem to others, that brings spiritual satisfaction. Sin, insincerity, and untruth are the only enemies of the soul.

Chaplain Tells How Bibles Were Taken To Army

Chaplain Lester E. Burnett reports from Korea as follows: "Whether reading the Word, preaching the Word, or distributing the Word, the chaplains in Korea reach the men in uniform with the message of the Bible.

"At Thanksgiving day, 1952 approached, I was challenged with the task of reaching all of the units of my organizations in recognition of the day. The units were scattered over the mountains of Korea, and it was not possible to reach all of them by jeep on one day. So the commanding general cooperated, making it possible for me to reach my men by air — slow air helicopter.

"With my Bible in my hand and as many copies of the American Bible Society's New Testaments as I ducked under th rotating blades of the 'copter, climbed in beside Major Thomas H. Evans, of Akron, O. the pilot. We said a brief prayer for protection; then, suddenly rising from the earth, we swished away like an Elijah and the heavenly chariot.

"In a few moments, I was sitting poised above the trees on a mountaintop where over one hundred men had gathered to hear the Word. It would have taken several hours to reach these men by the winding, snake-like, twisting mountain trails. The pilot picked out his spot to land. Then gently, like a baby rocked in the arms of its mother, the 'copter swayed and rocked. As it descended, the whirling blades blew the dust off the landing place, and the 'copter softly settled on the peak.

"The Word of God was ready, a prayer was said—and off we flew to men in other places. Over 1,000 men heard the Word of the Lord in this manner on that one day. It was indeed a day of Thanksgiving and also a most auxpicious beginning of my month-long project to encourage all of my men to read a chapter daily in the Bible.

"We had over 300 men sign up to read "a chapter daily" Thanksgiving to Christmas. How often we gave thanks for the American Bible Society, who had promoted this great project around the world. Our attendance also increased at chapel services. We seem to be really reaching the men judging from the increased attendance each Sunday when services are conducted."

Calvary Church Starting Today With Revival

Calvary Baptist Church is to initiate a revival today which will run through Sunday, April 19. It will be the first revival held in the newly-restored church. Since the fire, the building has been completely rebuilt with substantial brick masonry and is even better than before the fire.

Since services were resumed in the new Calvary church, 26 new members have been added and enthusiasm is said to run high. Great results are anticipated for the revival, states the pastor, Rev. D. W. Nix, who has been selected to conduct the coming revival meeting. He urges all members to attend all the services, and invites everybody who will to come and enjoy the services.

John W. Davis, band master of Neville High School and minister of music of Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, will conduct the music. He is a man of unusually ability and a striking personality and the church feels doubly blessed in being able to get him for this work. He is a good soloist as well as a splendid conductor.

Services will be conducted daily at the church, 812 Mississippi St., Monroe, at 10:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

If interested in such subjects as: "Where Are the Dead?" "How May I Know That I Am A Christian?" "Me and My House," "My Life and My Youth," "Sin Is Fatal," you are cordially invited to attend all services.

Bible Words to Live by

There are many passages in Scripture which come at different times to have enduring meaning for one's life. One kind of experience will recall one verse, another experience another verse. But I have found myself going back time and again to verse 13 in Chapter ten of Paul's first letter to the Corinthians. "God is faithful, and he will not let you be tempted beyond your strength, but with the temptation will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it." Whether the testing be of one's strength, or patience, or faith in both God and man, and whether the trial be through defeat or disillusionment, I have always found it true that God has given the strength to endure, and has proved Himself faithful.

Sterlington Pastor Starts His 5th Year

April 1 began the fourth year of Rev. Thomas J. Welch as pastor of First Baptist Church of Sterlington, La. In the three years, Rev. Welch has been the pastor the financial program has increased remarkably under his leadership. The church has been strengthened in all its organizations; its educational standards have been raised, and many members have been received into the church by letter and baptism.

Whereas there were no paid employes, the church now has three. Rev. and Mrs. Welch are graduates of East Texas Baptist College, Marshall, Tex.; Ouachita Baptist College, Arkadelphia, Ark.; Southwestern Seminary, Fort Worth, Tex.; both graduating with high honors. Mrs. Welch holds her master's degree. She is the former Miss Jeffie E. Liner, sister of the late J. C. Liner, of Monroe and is well known in this section of the state.

Rev. Welch was chosen as a member of Who's Who among Students in American Universities and Colleges. From the time he entered the seminary until he accepted the Sterlington pastorate, Rev. Welch completed all required work toward the Doctor of Theology degree. Recently he spent three weeks in Fort Worth completing the first draft of his thesis.

Rev. Welch is known through the state, having held a place of service on a state committee. The members of the First Baptist Church rejoice in the blessings that have come to them through the ministry of Rev. and Mrs. Welch.

Mission Work In India Told By Pomeroys

From Mussoorie, India, a letter has been received by Rev. W. H. Giles, district superintendent of the Monroe district of the Methodist church, from Vivian and Jim Pomeroy, natives of Bastrop, who are in medical mission work in the far eastern country.

By way of explanation, Jim is a graduate of Louisiana State Medical School and his wife, Vivian, is a graduate of Charity Hospital School of Nursing in New Orleans.

Because Jim had tuberculosis as a senior in medical school, his interest in the disease grew as the years went by and he had three and a half years of Thoracic training in Nashville, Tenn. and Portland, Oreg.

The Pomeroys dedicated their lives to mission and medical work. The story is told of some of their experiences in the letter to Reverend Giles which is in part as follows:

"On October 1, 1951, we sailed from San Pedro on a Norwegian freighter, making port calls at Manila, Singapore, Colombo and Bombay. It was a wonderful six weeks across the oceans and we had a lot of time for meditation and study.

"When we landed in Bombay on November 14, 1951, all of the thrill and excitement of the far east suddenly disappeared and we found ourselves face to face with a strange country — strange dress, language, habits and religions. A grueling week through customs did not help to simplify our problems. Bombay was full of filth, poverty, sickness and death. Our first reaction was to fly back to the good ole U. S. A. God was very close to us but we were a trying family.

"Our first assignment was at Madar Union Sanatorium, a tuberculosis unit of about two hundred beds, on the edge of a desert in Rajputana. It was hot and dry but we were surrounded by mountains which made the view interesting. Jim grew to love his patients there and enjoyed his work.

"On Oct. 1, 1952, we were transferred to Bareilly, at the Clara Swain Hospital to start a tuberculosis unit there. Jim has about fifty beds, all of them full and a large out-patient clinic. He is working with Dr. Hankins, a lady Indian doctor, to keep Almora going. Almona is a 80 bed tuberculosis hospital in the Himalayas, a day trip from Bareilly. We have great interest and enthusiasm from Almora because it is needed so badly. It is Jim's hope that it can be used for a non-surgical unit and for convalescents and all surgical cases sent to Bareilly. Tuberculosis is so prevalent here, one can't say too much about it.

"In India, our children have to go to the mountains to school. Ours attend Woodstock in the Himalayas. The boys and I came up on March 5th and will return to the plains and Daddy on Nov. 25th. It is another problem that we face but older missionaries tell us they'll go into boarding when they're older and all will be well. We have three sons, Ricky, who is 9½, Toby, who is 8, and Larry 7. They are all average, active fellows and enjoy a good time, all the time.

"Please keep us in your prayers and all the mission work around the world."

"Vivian and Jim Pomeroy — Ricky, Toby & Larry."

Bristol, Tenn. Pastor To Head Local Church

College Place Baptist Church, 301 Sherrouse Avenue, which in 10 years has grown from its inception to now have nearly or quite 1,000 members and property valued at $250,000 or more, has called

Rev. T. Earl Ogg, of Bristol-Tenn.-Va., to become its pastor. Since January 1 last, the church has been without a pastor. At that time, Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, Jr., the first and only pastor, resigned to go to mission work in South America.

The selection of a capable, consecrated and ambitious young pastor will be good news for this church and the arrival of the new pastor and his family will be greeted with unusual interest.

Reverend Ogg has had pastorates that extended over a decade and all have been highly successful. He was pastor of the First Baptist Church in Andrews, N. C. for several years and his second charge was Mountain View Baptist church, Knoxville, Tenn.

His third church was Calvary Baptist in Bristol from which place he will come to Monroe.

Reverend Ogg was licensed to preach by the Broadway Baptist Church of Knoxville in 1936 and he was ordained there in 1941.

He is a graduate of Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary, Fort Worth, Tex.

His wife is also a graduate of the same seminary. They have two children, a daughter, Peggy Earline, six years; and a son, Daniel Arthur Ogg, 22 months of age.

The new pastor and his wife will arrive May 1 and he will occupy his new pulpit for the first time on Sunday, May 3.

Calvary Church Starting Today With Revival

Calvary Baptist Church is to initiate a revival today which will run through Sunday, April 19. It will be the first revival held in the newly-restored church. Since the fire, the building has been completely rebuilt with substantial brick masonry and is even better than before the fire.

Since services were resumed in the new Calvary church, 26 new members have been added and enthusiasm is said to run high. Great results are anticipated for the revival, states the pastor, Rev. D. W. Nix, who has been selected to conduct the coming revival meeting. He urges all members to attend all the services, and invites everybody who will to come and enjoy the services.

John W. Davis, band master of Neville High School and minister of music of Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, will conduct the music. He is a man of unusually ability and a striking personality and the church feels doubly blessed in being able to get him for this work. He is a good soloist as well as a splendid conductor.

Services will be conducted daily at the church, 812 Mississippi St., Monroe, at 10:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

If interested in such subjects as: "Where Are the Dead?" "How May I Know That I Am A Christian?" "Me and My House," "My Life and My Youth," "Sin Is Fatal," you are cordially invited to attend all services.

To make discolored brass gleam, apply a paste made of equal parts of flour, salt, and hot vinegar. Allow to stand 10 minutes. Wash off with soap and water. Rinse, dry and polish.

Winter plants should be kept in a comfortably warm room by day and in a cool place by night. This duplicates the condition provided by nature.

Bible Words to Live by

There are many passages in Scripture which come at different times to have enduring meaning for one's life. One kind of experience will recall one verse, another experience another verse. But I have found myself going back time and again to verse 13 in Chapter ten of Paul's first letter to the Corinthians. "God is faithful, and he will not let you be tempted beyond your strength, but with the temptation will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it." Whether the testing be of one's strength, or patience, or faith in both God and man, and whether the trial be through defeat or disillusionment, I have always found it true that God has given the strength to endure, and has proved Himself faithful.

Sterlington Pastor Starts His 5th Year

April 1 began the fourth year of Rev. Thomas J. Welch as pastor of First Baptist Church of Sterlington, La. In the three years, Rev. Welch has been the pastor the financial program has increased remarkably under his leadership. The church has been strengthened in all its organizations; its educational standards have been raised, and many members have been received into the church by letter and baptism.

Whereas there were no paid employes, the church now has three. Rev. and Mrs. Welch are graduates of East Texas Baptist College, Marshall, Tex.; Ouachita Baptist College, Arkadelphia, Ark.; Southwestern Seminary, Fort Worth, Tex.; both graduating with high honors. Mrs. Welch holds her master's degree. She is the former Miss Jeffie E. Liner, sister of the late J. C. Liner, of Monroe and is well known in this section of the state.

Rev. Welch was chosen as a member of Who's Who among Students in American Universities and Colleges. From the time he entered the seminary until he accepted the Sterlington pastorate, Rev. Welch completed all required work toward the Doctor of Theology degree. Recently he spent three weeks in Fort Worth completing the first draft of his thesis.

Rev. Welch is known through the state, having held a place of service on a state committee. The members of the First Baptist Church rejoice in the blessings that have come to them through the ministry of Rev. and Mrs. Welch.

Mission Work In India Told By Pomeroys

From Mussoorie, India, a letter has been received by Rev. W. H. Giles, district superintendent of the Monroe district of the Methodist church, from Vivian and Jim Pomeroy, natives of Bastrop, who are in medical mission work in the far eastern country.

By way of explanation, Jim is a graduate of Louisiana State Medical School and his wife, Vivian, is a graduate of Charity Hospital School of Nursing in New Orleans.

Because Jim had tuberculosis as a senior in medical school, his interest in the disease grew as the years went by and he had three and a half years of Thoracic training in Nashville, Tenn. and Portland, Oreg.

The Pomeroys dedicated their lives to mission and medical work. The story is told of some of their experiences in the letter to Reverend Giles which is in part as follows:

"On October 1, 1951, we sailed from San Pedro on a Norwegian freighter, making port calls at Manila, Singapore, Colombo and Bombay. It was a wonderful six weeks across the oceans and we had a lot of time for meditation and study.

"When we landed in Bombay on November 14, 1951, all of the thrill and excitement of the far east suddenly disappeared and we found ourselves face to face with a strange country — strange dress, language, habits and religions. A grueling week through customs did not help to simplify our problems. Bombay was full of filth, poverty, sickness and death. Our first reaction was to fly back to the good ole U. S. A. God was very close to us but we were a trying family.

"Our first assignment was at Madar Union Sanatorium, a tuberculosis unit of about two hundred beds, on the edge of a desert in Rajputana. It was hot and dry but we were surrounded by mountains which made the view interesting. Jim grew to love his patients there and enjoyed his work.

"On Oct. 1, 1952, we were transferred to Bareilly, at the Clara Swain Hospital to start a tuberculosis unit there. Jim has about fifty beds, all of them full and a large out-patient clinic. He is working with Dr. Hankins, a lady Indian doctor, to keep Almora going. Almona is a 80 bed tuberculosis hospital in the Himalayas, a day trip from Bareilly. We have great interest and enthusiasm from Almora because it is needed so badly. It is Jim's hope that it can be used for a non-surgical unit and for convalescents and all surgical cases sent to Bareilly. Tuberculosis is so prevalent here, one can't say too much about it.

"In India, our children have to go to the mountains to school. Ours attend Woodstock in the Himalayas. The boys and I came up on March 5th and will return to the plains and Daddy on Nov. 25th. It is another problem that we face but older missionaries tell us they'll go into boarding when they're older and all will be well. We have three sons, Ricky, who is 9½, Toby, who is 8, and Larry 7. They are all average, active fellows and enjoy a good time, all the time.

"Please keep us in your prayers and all the mission work around the world."

"Vivian and Jim Pomeroy — Ricky, Toby & Larry."

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Conversion, as the word implies, means a turning about. And no turning about was ever more complete than that in which Saint Paul turned from his persecuting zeal of threats against the disciples of the Lord (Acts 9:1), to become a Christian disciple himself.

Sudden conversions, strange as they may seem, have been by no means rare. In many instances, as I think was true in the conversion of Saint Paul, they are not as sudden as they seem to be. Though the experience of sudden conversion may be very real and may have a clear evidence of its determining cause.

The conversion of Saint Paul as he himself has vividly described it in Acts 22, took place upon the road to Damascus. He was going there to persecute the Christians. It was accompanied by a challenging voice and blindness. But I think his conversion really began on the day he stood guarding the garments of those who stoned Stephen to death (Acts 7:58).

In the story of Paul's conversion he was "kicking against the pricks." But what was pricking him and making him all the more furious in his resistance? It was the voice of conscience.

Could one versed in the Hebrew Scriptures who a few years later was to write so eloquently of divine and brotherly love, see a man who was being stoned to death while praying for forgiveness for his enemies and crying, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit," and not hear a voice of challenge in his heart? That I think was when the conversion of Paul began.

Nevertheless conversion can be as sudden as it is real and complete.

Often it has come through crucial or enlightening experience, which has changed one's views and attitude. It is as if one has always lived in a valley. Then one day climbing a mountain peak, he suddenly sees a world that he has never known before. There can be peaks on which the atmosphere of the soul may be completely changed.

Nor are complete conversions either sudden or through some long process, as strange and unexplainable as they may seem. Underlying such conversions is usually a conscientious attitude. In these cases conversion means a change of association and allegiance rather than a change from a life of sin to a life of righteousness.

Paul said that he had lived in all good conscience all his life. Others called his Christian way heresy (Acts 24:14), but he called it still worshipping the God of his fathers. Conversion was an emergence into what he considered a further and better way.

In all such conversions there is an experience, strange as it may seem to others, that brings spiritual satisfaction. Sin, insincerity, and untruth are the only enemies of the soul.

Chaplain Tells How Bibles Were Taken To Army

Chaplain Lester E. Burnett reports from Korea as follows: "Whether reading the Word, preaching the Word, or distributing the Word, the chaplains in Korea reach the men in uniform with the message of the Bible.

"At Thanksgiving day, 1952 approached, I was challenged with the task of reaching all of the units of my organizations in recognition of the day. The units were scattered over the mountains of Korea, and it was not possible to reach all of them by jeep on one day. So the commanding general cooperated, making it possible for me to reach my men by air — slow air helicopter.

"With my Bible in my hand and as many copies of the American Bible Society's New Testaments as I could stuff in my pockets, I ducked under th rotating blades of the 'copter, climbed in beside Major Thomas H. Evans, of Akron, O. the pilot. We said a brief prayer for protection; then, suddenly rising from the earth, we swished away like an Elijah and the heavenly chariot.

"In a few moments, I was sitting poised above the trees on a mountaintop where over one hundred men had gathered to hear the Word. It would have taken several hours to reach these men by the winding, snake-like, twisting mountain trails. The pilot picked out his spot to land. Then gently, like a baby rocked in the arms of its mother, the 'copter swayed and rocked. As it descended, the whirling blades blew the dust off the landing place, and the 'copter softly settled on the peak.

"The Word of God was ready, a prayer was said—and off we flew to men in other places. Over 1,000 men heard the Word of the Lord in this manner on that one day. It was indeed a day of Thanksgiving and also a most auspicious beginning of my month-long project to encourage all of my men to read a chapter daily in the Bible.

"We had over 300 men sign up to read "a chapter daily" Thanksgiving to Christmas. How often we gave thanks for the American Bible Society, who had promoted this great project around the world. Our attendance also increased at chapel services. We seem to be really reaching the men judging from the increased attendance each Sunday when services are conducted."

Garden News

Growing Fruit In Home Garden Requires Study

Do you yearn for the day you can go out into the back yard and pick strawberries for supper or enough apples for a pie?

What about growing fruit in the home garden? I put this question up to Ernest G. Christ, fruit specialist at Rutgers and I'm happy to pass along his advice:

First of all, don't be tempted by those juicy, ready-to-eat pictures on the nursery catalogs until you have done careful planning. The varieties shown in the pictures may not fit your condition.

You can be sure if a variety is adapted to your location by asking your county agricultural agent, a public employee who will give an unbiased answer.

The most important factor to weigh is space. If your lot is small, you may have to limit your fruit to grapes and some of the small fruits or berries, with maybe a few dwarf apple or pear trees. Consider that one standard apple or sweet cherry tree will need 35 to 40 feet when it is mature.

Then there's the matter of pollination. Apples and pears need to be cross-pollinated for best results, meaning you'll need two varieties unless there are other apple or pear trees nearby. Most peaches do not need cross-pollination, nor do European sorts of plums.

Trees and berry bushes are most successfully transplanted while they are dormant. Between now and fall, when your nursery will be ready to deliver your stock, you can take time to study the situation.

You'll also have time to improve your fruit garden soil, if it needs improving. Acidity can be prevented by adding lime, and organic matter can be dug in. Good soil is important, fruit men agree, because trees and bushes stay in place a long time.

Meanwhile, though, you can start some strawberry plants. Many gardeners rotate strawberries with vegetables. Plants set this spring will bear next year and possibly the following year; then they are removed and the space is planted to vegetables.

Any good garden soil will produce strawberries, but it's important to get them off to a good start. This means setting each plant so that the tip of the crown of growing point, comes just above the surface of the soil.

If the tip is covered the plant may die, and if the crown is too high out of the ground the lower part may dry out enough to slow down growth or kill the plant. It's important also to make the hole wide enough to spread the roots out.

To get fruit of the highest quality, set the plants 15 inches apart in rows 2 feet apart, Christ advises, and then remove runners as they form. Another method is to set the plants 2 feet apart with rows 3 ½ to 4 feet apart. Some runner plants are permitted to remain in the row.

And, of course, you'll have to pick all blossoms this first year. This gives the plant a chance to gather strength so that it can reward you with berries you can be proud of next year.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q—Will the Firethron lend itself for use as a tall hedge along a driveway?

A—Firethorn, crataegus pyracantha, can be used as a hedge. However, when used along a driveway it should be kept well sheared, since by nature it is a sprawling large shrub. Trimming will remove most of the flowers and thus very few red berries will develop.

Winner of the Nobel Peace Prize is honored with a gold medal and approximately $30,000.

Bearded Iris Are In The Height Of Bloom

Iris is truly named because the word means rainbow. The blooms of our many varieties of Dutch Iris are waning, just as the bearded ones appear, in all their splendor.

The bearded Iris need good drainage, sunshine, clean cultivation, alkaline soil and frequent resetting with rhizomes planted very shallow. They're lovely planted in clumps in a border with other perennials or in a bed by themselves. This bulb is easier cultivated when given a bed of its own. The bearded Iris gives a better effect if set in groups of three to five rhizomes---just one variety in a group. Often Iris are planted in rows along one or both sides of a wall.

Before resetting, spade the soil well to a depth of ten inches, remove grass roots and work in generous amounts of bonemeal. A handful to the clump, well worked into the soil, and again in the spring a month before blooming season, will give you what you want in blooms. Just after they quit blooming is a good time to divide and reset this bulb.

The Native Iris are just beginning to bloom. They need acid soil, plenty of compost and moisture. They bloom best standing in water, and will grow in semi-shade.

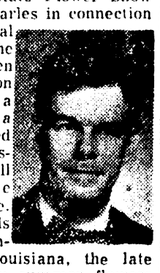

In about a month the Siberian Iris will bloom followed by the Japanese. Both of these like acid soil, sun and plenty of water.

Remember when you were a child how you chased the rainbow to find the pot of gold? When your Iris are in bloom, you'll feel you've found that gold in your garden among your Iris.

Southern Gardener

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Your columnist has just seen the big Louisiana State Flower Show held at Lake Charles in connection with the annual convention of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation where he was a speaker. It is a rare thing indeed to see flowers displayed from all over a whole state at one time. While daffodils were still blooming in north Louisiana, the late spring and early summer flowers were blooming in south Louisiana, and all of these were there together in one big show. The tricolor in the horticultural section was taken, this year, by a tall bearded iris, Bel Air, from Shreveport. At the same time, there were fine specimens of the "Louisiana irises" just coming into flower along the coast. The show was dominated by a huge "color wheel" revolving at one end of the big coliseum to remind flower arrangers of the rules for the use of colors in their arrangements. They needed little reminding from the appearance of the many splendid arrangements.

It was refreshing for us uplanders to see a lot of the flowers and vegetables in the arrangements which are the common flowers and vegetables of New Orleans and the coastal country. Artichokes are beautiful in themselves, and one arrangement used them so cleverly that one did not stop to think that they are usually eaten and not smelled.

The show had a good many of the unusual flowers from bulbs which the column sometimes writes about. There were the south African Ornithogolums—the white kinds with black eyes. There were some Watsonias — those spike gladiolas. There were also some of the old fashioned small flowered gladiolas which are often called "Jacob's Ladders". These were labelled "Watsonias." They do look somewhat like Watsonias, so the horticultural classifiers were not so far off.

There seem to be about three kinds of these old fashioned flowers in old gardens in the south. The main difference to us gardeners is that they bloom at slightly different times. All of them are dainty and easy to use in arrangements. In the garden, they just stay there and multiply from year to year. Of course, you cannot use red near them because they are "but magenta"! Another flower from a bulb which is really a rarity anywhere except in California was Scilla hyacinthoides. It had just flowered in time to get into the show. The long, foot-and-a-half stems have several inches of lavender blue flowers at the ends like the commoner kinds of scillas we all grow in spring gardens. This scilla is sometimes hard to get to flower.

In England, gardeners have to dig the bulbs and leave them in the sun for several days to get them hot enough to cure and set flower buds for the next spring or summer. As time goes on, we southerners will be growing still more of these giant kinds of scillas from North and South Africa and the shores of southern Europe.

Although it is very common in gardens of New Orleans and the warmer sections, one could see people from upstate Louisiana admiring plants of the shrimp plant. There was a fine touch of the low country and iron lace in the show, too, in the specimens of hens-and-chickens (Echeverias) which had probably been taken off some balcony and brought to the show.

That splendid horticulturist and gardening enthusiast, Mrs. U. B. Evans, was at the convention, and your columnist soon found himself travelling across the state visiting the Louisiana iris fans and breeders with her party. The handsome new Louisiana iris varieties we saw — many of them just opening up the morning we arrived were such a jump in the progress of these grand garden plants that it reminded us of the early days of the development of the tall bearded irises and the birth of The American Iris Society. Everywhere we went, we saw rather spectacular new seedlings that were either very different from the ones now in existence or were much larger. One white was a flower with falls almost two inches wide and hanging in the most graceful possible form with a fine golden mark in the center. The whole flower will probably measure five inches across.

Freshly made chicory coffee and Cajun hospitality greeted us everywhere, and, of course, the comradeship of other people all "hipped" on flowers is something which those who do not share this delightful form of insanity can never enjoy. New Orleans was settling up her accounts with spring and rapidly getting ready for summer. The riot of strong color in people's yards made one wish that some god would suddenly descend upon it all an set it into orderly color schemes. It would be a good discipline for everybody if we could live in New Orleans a while and garden in a tiny back yard. Then we would learn how to make the very best use of quite small spots, and our gardens would be better ordered and much more unified.

New Orleans gardens can also teach us how to use potted plants to good advantage. Every little slit in the wall is a beautiful picture with either something growing on the wall or something in a pot. Then, too, these people who are accustomed to pink houses, are not afraid to use color in any form or fashion, tint or hue. In City Park, we visited the Louisiana Iris seedlings of Mr. Davis. Out near the park, a whole front yard of pink geraniums reminded us of California gardens. There simply was not any grass — just pink geraniums in one huge blanket. Well, that is one solution.

Along the Mississippi Gulf coast and up into the state as far as Columbia, the orange and yellow forms of the native azaleas is a sight to see right now. These azaleas are the same colors as the Azalea calendulacea which will be blooming in the high mountains of North Carolina when we all get there in late spring or early summer. People are beginning to take them into their gardens in place of so many cultivated kinds. One can begin to see the waning of the great azalea and camellia craze which has swept the south for the past 20 years.

Lawn Care Now Means Fewer Woes

Garden Chores for the Week End: The lawn is either a challenge or a nuisance to the novice home gardener. If he wants to achieve a real carpet of green, the sooner he gets busy the fewer worries he will have this summer.

First on the list of chores is to rake the lawn with a flexible metal tooth rake, or leaf rake, to loosen the dead grass and to roughen the surface of the soil so that the fertilizer can enter the soil and reach the grass roots.

A second raking to remove the fertilizer from the grass blades is recommended—then water well so that the fertilizer gets into the soil where it belongs—and also to prevent it burning the grass. A 4-12-4, 4-10-5 or any fertilizer strong in phosphous is recommended. Apply at the rate of two or three pounds per 100 square feet of lawn area.

The Old Gardener again says "If you feel that you must roll the lawn—do so with the lightest roller you can get—an empty water ballast roller is fine." Remember that rolling is not to pack the soil down or to even up bumps or hollows—but to gently firm back into the soil any grass plants which were heaved out by frost action.

Reseeding of bare and thin areas should be done but only after the soil has been loosened to a depth of an inch and some peatmoss and fertilizer has been worked in. Seeding should be light, using no more than one half pound for each 100 square feet. Heavier seeding is wasteful.

Hardy roses may be pruned as soon as one is reasonably sure that danger of freezing weather is past. Replacements of roses which have died during the winter may be made as soon as the ground can be worked. Some losses must be expected.

Hardy chrysanthemums and most other late-flowering perennials may be divided when they start to grow. Have the beds ready, so that they may be replanted as soon as the divisions are made. Chrysanthemums need dividing each spring.

As soon as planting conditions are right, sow the following vegetables: Peas, parsnips, spinach, beets, carrots, lettuce, parsley, radishes and salsify. Potatoes may go in early, too.

It is wise to test vegetable seeds. This testing is easily done by folding them in a strip of blotting paper and inserting the paper in a pan of moist sand. If the sand is kept moist and warm for several days, possibly a week, the best of the seeds will have sprouted. With most vegetables, 75 out of each 100 seeds should start. Annual flowers of most kinds should do as well.

The Home Shift With

Mildred Swift

We're really having some beautiful weather. Remember though, I'm writing this on Wednesday. It may be pouring torrents by Sunday. Oh, Well! April showers make May flowers, so the old folks say.

Plentiful Foods

Eunice Forman says she likes for me to list the best buys in foods. Well—here you are. Cabbage takes over as a plentiful food for this month along with carrots, celery, onions and cauliflower. Higher priced plentifuls include fresh corn, cucumbers, peppers, new potatoes and sweet potatoes. The cooking greens and raw salad greens are excellent in quality. Tomatoes are relative low priced for this time of year and are in good supply. Homemakers who buy their food in season get the best qualities and at the most favorable prices.

Explanation

Mr. Joyce thinks I'd better explain a statement made in last Sunday's column. 2-4-D bought under a commercial name can be used to poison the bur grass in your yard and it will not kill lawn grass. Then I said use this same mixture to kill the grass growing between brick. Was that confusing? Due to the fact that the bricked are "jammed" together, the grass can get no air. Therefore, the 2-4-D will kill those crowded pieces. A poison with an aresenic base will do the same.

For Your Sunday Drive

Of course Mrs. Gates' Iris (404 Linderman, W. Monroe) are always a treat. Be sure to notice her pink blooms. The arrangement of this garden is as lovely as the blooms.

Other unusual Iris can be seen at the Garrett Residence (708 Jackson, Monroe); the Kent Womacks, (111 South 1st, Monroe) and at Mrs. W. H. Hill's, (304 Anderson, W. Monroe). Mrs. Hill's blooms are in the back. Note how much this gardener has done in two years.

Hither And You

My pink daisies are blooming, the ones Carolyn Miller gave me in February. She also gave hundreds of plants to others calling for them, but they're all gone now. We'll save some plants for you next year. They're just as gorgeous as the painted daisy and so easy to grow. I don't know the botonical name but I just don't know why we haven't been growing these more in Ouachita Parish.

Soon the pink lillies will be blooming. So many people don't seem to be familiar with these. They look very much like the white crocus. You can order them from the Weekly Market Bulletin.

You can transplant your Native Iris while they're in bloom if you're careful not to injure the rhizome. Remember they like an acid soil and grow equally as well on land or in water. I have some yellow ones blooming in the edge of the bayou, and some in a dry place.

Are you familiar with the little ground cover plant, adjuga? It's blooming now a lovely blue bloom. Planted in front of oxalis, the pink and the blue blooms blend beautifully. However, I'm not a lover of oxalis because it sneaks in among your other plants and soon is all over the place. Annie Gray Noe is the only gardener I know who can keep oxalis under control. But then she loves the plant and I do believe vegetation responds to love like human beings.

Your Florin Bundas are free bloomers. Every six weeks each bush could stand a tablespoon of 5-10-5. Don't fertilize after August.

Glove Classes

We got off to a good start with the glove making. There will be some good leaders trained to help you later on.

Grab-Bags For Children

One smart mother solved the afternoon snack problem for the children by preparing "grab-bags" just before the little ones got in from school. She prepared the snacks in small paper bags. Here are some of the menus she used: roasted peanuts and a ripe banana; an apple and cubes of cheese wrapped in waxed paper; carrot sticks with peanut butter and cracker sandwiches; a pear and some freshly popped corn; a couple of tangerines and a small box of ready-to-eat cereal. The kiddies get extra vitamins, the foods are light so as not to interfere with the night meal and the kitchen is as neat after the raid as before.

I'll see you next Sunday in this same column.

Growing Fruit In Home Garden Requires Study

Do you yearn for the day you can go out into the back yard and pick strawberries for supper or enough apples for a pie?

What about growing fruit in the home garden? I put this question up to Ernest G. Christ, fruit specialist at Rutgers and I'm happy to pass along his advice:

First of all, don't be tempted by those juicy, ready-to-eat pictures on the nursery catalogs until you have done careful planning. The varieties shown in the pictures may not fit your condition.

You can be sure if a variety is adapted to your location by asking your county agricultural agent, a public employee who will give an unbiased answer.

The most important factor to weigh is space. If your lot is small, you may have to limit your fruit to grapes and some of the small fruits or berries, with maybe a few dwarf apple or pear trees. Consider that one standard apple or sweet cherry tree will need 35 to 40 feet when it is mature.

Then there's the matter of pollination. Apples and pears need to be cross-pollinated for best results, meaning you'll need two varieties unless there are other apple or pear trees nearby. Most peaches do not need cross-pollination, nor do European sorts of plums.

Trees and berry bushes are most successfully transplanted while they are dormant. Between now and fall, when your nursery will be ready to deliver your stock, you can take time to study the situation.

You'll also have time to improve your fruit garden soil, if it needs improving. Acidity can be prevented by adding lime, and organic matter can be dug in. Good soil is important, fruit men agree, because trees and bushes stay in place a long time.

Meanwhile, though, you can start some strawberry plants. Many gardeners rotate strawberries with vegetables. Plants set this spring will bear next year and possibly the following year; then they are removed and the space is planted to vegetables.

Any good garden soil will produce strawberries, but it's important to get them off to a good start. This means setting each plant so that the tip of the crown of growing point, comes just above the surface of the soil.

If the tip is covered the plant may die, and if the crown is too high out of the ground the lower part may dry out enough to slow down growth or kill the plant. It's important also to make the hole wide enough to spread the roots out.

To get fruit of the highest quality, set the plants 15 inches apart in rows 2 feet apart, Christ advises, and then remove runners as they form. Another method is to set the plants 2 feet apart with rows 3 ½ to 4 feet apart. Some runner plants are permitted to remain in the row.

And, of course, you'll have to pick all blossoms this first year. This gives the plant a chance to gather strength so that it can reward you with berries you can be proud of next year.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q—Will the Firethron lend itself for use as a tall hedge along a driveway?

A—Firethorn, crataegus pyracantha, can be used as a hedge. However, when used along a driveway it should be kept well sheared, since by nature it is a sprawling large shrub. Trimming will remove most of the flowers and thus very few red berries will develop.

Winner of the Nobel Peace Prize is honored with a gold medal and approximately $30,000.

SPRAYING a cherry tree, a routine job that you will take on if you establish permanent fruit in your garden.

Bearded Iris Are In The Height Of Bloom

Iris is truly named because the word means rainbow. The blooms of our many varieties of Dutch Iris are waning, just as the bearded ones appear, in all their splendor.

The bearded Iris need good drainage, sunshine, clean cultivation, alkaline soil and frequent resetting with rhizomes planted very shallow. They're lovely planted in clumps in a border with other perennials or in a bed by themselves. This bulb is easier cultivated when given a bed of its own. The bearded Iris gives a better effect if set in groups of three to five rhizomes—just one variety in a group. Often Iris are planted in rows along one or both sides of a wall.

Before resetting, spade the soil well to a depth of ten inches, remove grass roots and work in generous amounts of bonemeal. A handful to the clump, well worked into the soil, and again in the spring a month before blooming season, will give you what you want in blooms. Just after they quit blooming is a good time to divide and reset this bulb.

The Native Iris are just beginning to bloom. They need acid soil, plenty of compost and moisture. They bloom best standing in water, and will grow in semi-shade.

In about a month the Siberian Iris will bloom followed by the Japanese. Both of these like acid soil, sun and plenty of water.

Remember when you were a child how you chased the rainbow to find the pot of gold? When your Iris are in bloom, you'll feel you've found that gold in your garden among your Iris.

Southern Gardener

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Your columnist has just seen the big Louisiana State Flower Show held at Lake Charles in connection with the annual convention of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation where he was a speaker. It is a rare thing indeed to see flowers displayed from all over a whole state at one time. While daffodils were still blooming in north Louisiana, the late spring and early summer flowers were blooming in south Louisiana, and all of these were there together in one big show. The tricolor in the horticultural section was taken, this year, by a tall bearded iris, Bel Air, from Shreveport. At the same time, there were fine specimens of the "Louisiana irises" just coming into flower along the coast. The show was dominated by a huge "color wheel" revolving at one end of the big coliseum to remind flower arrangers of the rules for the use of colors in their arrangements. They needed little reminding from the appearance of the many splendid arrangements.

It was refreshing for us uplanders to see a lot of the flowers and vegetables in the arrangements which are the common flowers and vegetables of New Orleans and the coastal country. Artichokes are beautiful in themselves, and one arrangement used them so cleverly that one did not stop to think that they are usually eaten and not smelled.

The show had a good many of the unusual flowers from bulbs which the column sometimes writes about. There were the south African Ornithogolums—the white kinds with black eyes. There were some Watsonias — those spike gladiolas. There were also some of the old fashioned small flowered gladiolas which are often called "Jacob's Ladders". These were labelled "Watsonias." They do look somewhat like Watsonias, so the horticultural classifiers were not so far off.

There seem to be about three kinds of these old fashioned flowers in old gardens in the south. The main difference to us gardeners is that they bloom at slightly different times. All of them are dainty and easy to use in arrangements. In the garden, they just stay there and multiply from year to year. Of course, you cannot use red near them because they are "but magenta"! Another flower from a bulb which is really a rarity anywhere except in California was Scilla hyacinthoides. It had just flowered in time to get into the show. The long, foot-and-a-half stems have several inches of lavender blue flowers at the ends like the commoner kinds of scillas we all grow in spring gardens. This scilla is sometimes hard to get to flower.

In England, gardeners have to dig the bulbs and leave them in the sun for several days to get them hot enough to cure and set flower buds for the next spring or summer. As time goes on, we southerners will be growing still more of these giant kinds of scillas from North and South Africa and the shores of southern Europe.

Although it is very common in gardens of New Orleans and the warmer sections, one could see people from upstate Louisiana admiring plants of the shrimp plant. There was a fine touch of the low country and iron lace in the show, too, in the specimens of hens-and-chickens (Echeverias) which had probably been taken off some balcony and brought to the show.

That splendid horticulturist and gardening enthusiast, Mrs. U. B. Evans, was at the convention, and your columnist soon found him self travelling across the state visiting the Louisiana iris fans and breeders with her party. The handsome new Louisiana iris varieties we saw — many of them just opening up the morning we arrived were such a jump in the progress of these grand garden plants that it reminded us of the early days of the development of the tall bearded irises and the birth of The American Iris Society. Everywhere we went, we saw rather spectacular new seedlings that were either very different from the ones now in existence or were much larger. One white was a flower with falls almost two inches wide and hanging in the most graceful possible form with a fine golden mark in the center. The whole flower will probably measure five inches across.

Freshly made chicory coffee and Cajun hospitality greeted us everywhere, and, of course, the comradeship of other people all "hipped" on flowers is something which those who do not share this delightful form of insanity can never enjoy. New Orleans was settling up her accounts with spring and rapidly getting ready for summer. The riot of strong color in people's yards made one wish that some god would suddenly descend upon it all an set it into orderly color schemes. It would be a good discipline for everybody if we could live in New Orleans a while and garden in a tiny back yard. Then we would learn how to make the very best use of quite small spots, and our gardens would be better ordered and much more unified.

New Orleans gardens can also teach us how to use potted plants to good advantage. Every little slit in the wall is a beautiful picture with either something growing on the wall or something in a pot. Then, too, these people who are accustomed to pink houses, are not afraid to use color in any form or fashion, tint or hue. In City Park, we visited the Louisiana iris seedlings of Mr. Davis. Out near the park, a whole front yard of pink geraniums reminded us of California gardens. There simply was not any grass — just pink geraniums in one huge blanket. Well, that is one solution.

Along the Mississippi Gulf coast and up into the state as far as Columbia, the orange and yellow forms of the native azaleas is a sight to see right now. These azaleas are the same colors as the Azalea calendulacea which will be blooming in the high mountains of North Carolina when we all get there in late spring or early summer. People are beginning to take them into their gardens in place of so many cultivated kinds. One can begin to see the waning of the great azalea and camellia craze which has swept the south for the past 20 years.

Lawn Care Now Means Fewer Woes

Garden Chores for the Week End: The lawn is either a challenge or a nuisance to the novice home gardener. If he wants to achieve a real carpet of green, the sooner he gets busy the fewer worries he will have this summer.

First on the list of chores is to rake the lawn with a flexible metal tooth rake, or leaf rake, to loosen the dead grass and to roughen the surface of the soil so that the fertilizer can enter the soil and reach the grass roots.

A second raking to remove the fertilizer from the grass blades is recommended—then water well so that the fertilizer gets into the soil where it belongs—and also to prevent it burning the grass. A 4-12-4, 4-10-5 or any fertilizer strong in phosphous is recommended. Apply at the rate of two or three pounds per 100 square feet of lawn area.

The Old Gardener again says "if you feel that you must roll the lawn—do so with the lightest roller you can get—an empty water ballast roller is fine." Remember that rolling is not to pack the soil down or to even up bumps or hollows—but to gently firm back into the soil any grass plants which were heaved out by frost action.

Reseeding of bare and thin areas should be done but only after the soil has been loosened to a depth of an inch and some peatmoss and fertilizer has been worked in. Seeding should be light, using no more than one half pound for each 100 square feet. Heavier seeding is wasteful.

Hardy roses may be pruned as soon as one is reasonably sure that danger of freezing weather is past. Replacements of roses which have died during the winter may be made as soon as the ground can be worked. Some losses must be expected.

Hardy chrysanthemums and most other late-flowering perennials may be divided when they start to grow. Have the beds ready, so that they may be replanted as soon as the divisions are made. Chrysanthemums need dividing each spring.

As soon as planting conditions are right, sow the following vegetables: Peas, parsnips, spinach, beets, carrots, lettuce, parsley, radishes and salsify. Potatoes may go in early, too.

It is wise to test vegetable seeds. This testing is easily done by folding them in a strip of blotting paper and inserting the paper in a pan of moist sand. If the sand is kept moist and warm for several days, possibly a week, the best of the seeds will have sprouted. With most vegetables, 75 out of each 100 seeds should start. Annual flowers of most kinds should do as well.

The Home Shift With Mildred Swift

We're really having some beautiful weather. Remember though, I'm writing this on Wednesday. It may be pouring torrents by Sunday. Oh, Well! April showers make May flowers, so the old folks say.

Plentiful Foods

Eunice Forman says she likes for me to list the best buys in foods. Well—here you are. Cabbage takes over as a plentiful food for this month along with carrots, celery, onions and cauliflower. Higher priced plentifuls include fresh corn, cucumbers, peppers, new potatoes and sweet potatoes. The cooking greens and raw salad greens are excellent in quality. Tomatoes are relative low priced for this time of year and are in good supply. Homemakers who buy their food in season get the best qualities and at the most favorable prices.

Explanation

Mr. Joyce thinks I'd better explain a statement made in last Sunday's column. 2-4-D bought under a commercial name can be used to poison the bur grass in your yard and it will not kill lawn grass. Then I said use this same mixture to kill the grass growing between brick. Was that confusing? Due to the fact that the bricked are "jammed" together, the grass can get no air. Therefore, the 2-4-D will kill those crowded pieces. A poison with an aresenic base will do the same.

For Your Sunday Drive

The tulip tree at the Garnet home, (1606 N. 2nd) is in bloom. I've seen foliage on trees I like better but that bloom is the most unusual I've ever seen. It's a quick growing shade tree, too.

Of course Mrs. Gates' Iris (404 Linderman, W. Monroe) are always a treat. Be sure to notice her pink blooms. The arrangement of this garden is as lovely as the blooms.

Other unusual Iris can be seen at the Garrett Residence (708 Jackson, Monroe); the Kent Womacks, (111 South 1st, Monroe) and at Mrs. W. H. Hill's, (304 Anderson, W. Monroe). Mrs. Hill's blooms are in the back. Note how much this gardener has done in two years.

Hither And You

My pink daisies are blooming, the ones Carolyn Miller gave me in February. She also gave hundreds of plants to others calling for them, but they're all gone now. We'll save some plants for you next year. They're just as gorgeous as the painted daisy and so easy to grow. I don't know the botonical name but I just don't know why we haven't been growing these more in Ouachita Parish.

Soon the pink lillies will be blooming. So many people don't seem to be familiar with these. They look very much like the white crocus. You can order them from the Weekly Market Bulletin.

You can transplant your Native Iris while they're in bloom if you're careful not to injure the rhizome. Remember they like an acid soil and grow equally as well on land or in water. I have some yellow ones blooming in the edge of the bayou, and some in a dry place.

Are you familiar with the little ground cover plant, adjuga? It's blooming now a lovely blue bloom. Planted in front of oxalis, the pink and the blue blooms blend beautifully. However, I'm not a lover of oxalis because it sneaks in among your other plants and soon is all over the place. Annie Gray Noe is the only gardener I know who can keep oxalis under control. But then she loves the plant and I do believe vegetation responds to love like human beings.

Your Floria Bundas are free bloomers. Every six weeks each bush could stand a tablespoon of 5-10-5. Don't fertilize after August.

Glove Classes

We got off to a good start with the glove making. There will be some good leaders trained to help you later on.

Grab-Bags For Children

One smart mother solved the afternoon snack problem for the children by preparing "grab-bags" just before the little ones got in from school. She prepared the snacks in small paper bags. Here are some of the menus she used: roasted peanuts and a ripe banana; an apple and cubes of cheese wrapped in waxed paper; carrot sticks with peanut butter and cracker sandwiches; a pear and some freshly popped corn; a couple of tangerines and a small box of ready-to-eat cereal. The kiddies get extra vitamins, the foods are light so as not to interfere with the night meal and the kitchen is as neat after the raid as before.

I'll see you next Sunday in this same column.

Form Good Garden Habits—Keep Diary

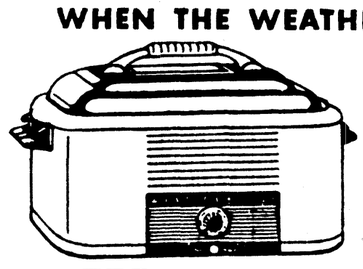

Make use of gardening enthusiasm to form some good, rewarding gardening habits. By all means keep a gardening diary, noting carefully what and when you plant, dates of transplanting and weather conditions. Start a garden library including a complete guide and an encyclopedia, and make a practice of using them constantly for reference. Subscribe to a garden magazine and read garden news in the newspapers — that's the only way to keep up with new garden aids, gadgets and new plants.

If it is physically possible, start making a compost pile in a shady, remote, unobtrusive corner. Add dead leaves, all other plant refuse which is not woody,—lawn clippings, clean kitchen refuse and wood ashes. The payoff is rich organic material that plants thrive on.

Discipline the urge to prune, and check the correct pruning time for each of your flowering shrubs. The general rule to follow is that shrubs flowering in the spring, on last year's growth, should be pruned immediately after flowering; those which flower in the summer and fall utilize new growth for blooms and should be cut back in the fall.

Catholic Church Is Scene Of Lovely Spring Wedding

The wedding of Miss Jo Marie Scalia and Waymon Etier was solemnized at nine-thirty Monday in the St. Matthew Catholic church with Monsignor John C. Marsh reading the vows for the double-ring ceremony. She is the daughter of Mrs. James P Scalia. Mr. and Mrs. William Etier of Mangham are Mr. Etier's parents.

The impressive alter was marked with handsome baskets of white stock and Easter lilies. Music was provided by Mrs. Della Williamson. Proceeding the processional, J. M. McBeth sung Ave Maria and Pancis Ans Jelicus.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Robert E. Schott, was matron of honor, and wore a dress matching the maid of honor's.

Other bridesmaids dressed identical were Miss Maryan Scurria and, Miss Linda Faye Scalia. All the attendants carried fan-shaped bouquets of red roses. Miss Cherry Lasuzzo was the flower girl.

Joe David Cascio was best man and little Robert Schott, Jr., the ring bearer. Groomsmen were Robert E. Schott, Sr., Larry Colichia and Jo Lasuzzo, Jr., Tony Embanato served as usher.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue lace model with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. The groom's mother was attired in a blue printed dress with a cornation corsage.

Reception

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Frances Hotel. The bride's table was eloquently decorated with spring flowers and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Presiding over the punch bowl was Mrs. Tom Peters. Assisting with serving the cake and individually iced cakes were Mrs. Joe David Cascio and Mrs. Paul Serio.

A beautifully appointed bridal dinner was held in the home of the bride's mother following the reception.

For traveling the bride wore a brown faille suit with contrasting white hat and accessories. The couple will make their home at 410 Stubbs when they return from their wedding trip.

The bride is a graduate of St. Matthew High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. The groom is a graduate of Mangham High school.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sparacino and their daughters, Mary Ann, Laura and Patricia, of Beaumont, Texas; Mrs. Charles Colichia and her sons, Larry and Ronnie of Port Arthur, Texas; Mrs. Frank Lewis, and Mrs. Jackie Mandino, both of Shreveport and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Serio of Morganza; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Etier of Lafayette.

FARMERVILLE STUDENTS — Miss Iola Farrar, left, was chosen Ideal Girlfriend and Martin D. Martin, right, Ideal Boyfriend in the recent school Hilites contest sponsored in Northeast Louisiana. Both Miss Farrar and Mr. Martin are from Farmerville High School. They were selected over other entries from each high school in this section.

Lowest Price Pianos
WHY SHOULD YOU?
WE DON'T buy lowest price pianos, because we'd rather pay a little more and sell instruments with a name our customers will be proud to own. If that's good business for us—it's better business for you. You are buying for years and years—perhaps a lifetime. The few dollars extra you pay for a quality piano is the very best money you spend. You'd be wise to select one of our many finer makes.

We Don't Buy
WHY SHOULD YOU?
WE DON'T buy lowest price pianos, because we'd rather pay a little more and sell instruments with a name our customers will be proud to own. If that's good business for us—it's better business for you. You are buying for years and years—perhaps a lifetime. The few dollars extra you pay for a quality piano is the very best money you spend. You'd be wise to select one of our many finer makes.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: I am engaged to a young man who is on a ship near San Francisco. I am 18 and he is 21. We have a date set to marry next month. He doesn't know when he will receive orders to ship out and so wants me to leave my job, wants to buy a trailer and have us live there until he leaves. Then I am to stay there for the times he returns to shore duty and for furloughs. He has three more years of service.

I am making good money and would like to marry but I want to remain here and save for our future. He resents my job and says I am putting it before him. He says if I do not do as he says, he will call the whole thing off. He suggests that perhaps I am too young to marry. Please advise me. —Troubed

A wife's place is at her husband's side, but when that husband is in the middle of the ocean most of the time I can't see how the husband can expect her to be with him. Your fiance's attitude is foolish, impractical and selfish. As long as you have to be left alone for months and perhaps year at a time, why can't you be at home and among friends?

Living in a trailer alone doesn't make sense and the original expense could well be saved toward a permanent home when you are ready. Your husband is right as far as your job is concerned, don't let that enter into the argument. You can get a job anywhere, but I still say neither of you would have anything to gain were you to perch on a California hillside knitting wee booties while waiting for your sailor boy.

Dear Mrs. Landers: My husband gives me $25 per week for food out of which $6 goes for milk alone. I contend that I cannot feed my family of four (the children are 10 and five) and keep them in good health but he says I am extravagant or I would be able to. When I ask him to do the shopping he says I am being sarcastic. What do you think?—Mrs. M. M.

Tell the dear man that you are not being sarcastic — you only want to prove or disprove a point.

Dear Mrs. Landers: When I met my fiance I was well aware of her popularity but it seems that when ever we are out together she talks about her ex-boy friends and maneuvers us into running into them so they can talk over old times.

Maybe it is simple jealousy on my part and she knows it irritates me but she continues to ogle every man she sees. Have I a justifiable complain? We plan to marry soon.—S. F.

Yes, sir, you have, sir! Any gal lucky enough to snag a man and head him for the altar ought to be so grateful she shouldn't take her eyes away from him for fear he'll get away. She should be so in love that she has eyes only for him and so in live that her brain has no room for any "ex's" but only cluttered with such things as hearts and flowers. Your gal should show a little more intelligence. If you love her, she should be sure of your love and know that she no longer has to resort to such cheap tricks as making you jealous. If she loves you, the other men should fade from her thoughts.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: I am engaged to a young man who is on a ship near San Francisco. I am 18 and he is 21. We have a date set to marry next month. He doesn't know when he will receive orders to ship out and so wants me to leave my job, wants to buy a trailer and have us live there until he leaves. Then I am to stay there for the times he returns to shore duty and for furloughs. He has three more years of service.

I am making good money and would like to marry but I want to remain here and save for our future. He resents my job and says I am putting it before him. He says if I do not do as he says, he will call the whole thing off. He suggests that perhaps I am too young to marry. Please advise me. —Troubed

A wife's place is at her husband's side, but when that husband is in the middle of the ocean most of the time I can't see how the husband can expect her to be with him. Your fiance's attitude is foolish, impractical and selfish. As long as you have to be left alone for months and perhaps year at a time, why can't you be at home and among friends?

Living in a trailer alone doesn't make sense and the original expense could well be saved toward a permanent home when you are ready. Your husband is right as far as your job is concerned, don't let that enter into the argument. You can get a job anywhere, but I still say neither of you would have anything to gain were you to perch on a California hillside knitting wee booties while waiting for your sailor boy.

Dear Mrs. Landers: My husband gives me $25 per week for food out of which $6 goes for milk alone. I contend that I cannot feed my family of four (the children are 10 and five) and keep them in good health but he says I am extravagant or I would be able to. When I ask him to do the shopping he says I am being sarcastic. What do you think?—Mrs. M. M.

Tell the dear man that you are not being sarcastic — you only want to prove or disprove a point.

Dear Mrs. Landers: When I met my fiance I was well aware of her popularity but it seems that when ever we are out together she talks about her ex-boy friends and maneuvers us into running into them so they can talk over old times.

Maybe it is simple jealousy on my part and she knows it irritates me but she continues to ogle every man she sees. Have I a justifiable complain? We plan to marry soon.—S. F.

Yes, sir, you have, sir! Any gal lucky enough to snag a man and head him for the altar ought to be so grateful she shouldn't take her eyes away from him for fear he'll get away. She should be so in love that she has eyes only for him and so in live that her brain has no room for any "ex's" but only cluttered with such things as hearts and flowers. Your gal should show a little more intelligence. If you love her, she should be sure of your love and know that she no longer has to resort to such cheap tricks as making you jealous. If she loves you, the other men should fade from her thoughts.

HAIR DO'S AND DONT'S

By Carol Douglas

Noted Beauty Consultant

DO "lower" a high forehead with bangs in your hairdo, "widen" a thin face with soft curls at the sides.

DON'T use an "adult" type permanent for your daughter if she's 2 to 12. Tonette by Toni is specially made for children's resistant hair. Gives natural looking, easy-to-care-for curls that won't wash out, month after month.

DO choose your own wave from the new Toni Trio—one's custom-made for your type of hair. No one permanent can be expected to wave all hair successfully.

DON'T struggle with ordinary curlers. Get Toni Spin Curlers, the world's finest. They're twice as easy, twice as fast—give a smoother, longer-lasting curl. Can be used again and again. A complete set for any home wave. Remember, only Toni makes Spin Curlers—they're patented.

New FAB WASHES WHITER

NOTHING WHITENS LIKE FAB! You'll actually find that Fab washes most of your clothes whiter without a bleach—whiter than any soap, whiter than any washing product known with a bleach in the wash water.

IF YOU ADD A BLEACH TO FAB for your few stained, extra-soiled clothes, they'll come whiter, too—far whiter than with any other product and a bleach. For new Fab's exclusive whitening action is not affected by bleach.

WHAT'S MORE—FAB OUTCLEANS any soap! Washes out dirt; leaves no dulling soap scum.

SAVE WORK! SAVE HANDS!
Fab immediately loosens dirt and keeps it floating in the wash water. No soaking is needed! No dulling soap scum to rinse out—even in hardest water. And Fab is wonderfully mild to hands!

CUT DISHWASHING TIME IN HALF!
Fab soaks dishes, glasses, pots and pans shiny clean! If a bit of food clings, the dishcloth whisks it off. Just a quick rinse and dishes drain sparkling clean. No hard scouring, no wiping—with Fab!
